GROVER SAYS SHE SHALL.

A Belligerently Worded Message Is Sent by Cleveland Today to Congress.

WE MUST NOT BACK DOWN.

Tumultuous Demonstrations of Approval on the Reading of the Proclamation.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

"To Congress: In my annual message addressed to Congress on the 3d instant I called attention to the pending boundary controversy between Great Britain and the republic of Venezuela, and recited the substance of the representation made by this government to Her Britannic Majesty's government suggesting the reasons why such dispute should be submitted to arbitration for settlement and inquiring whether it would be so submitted.

"The answer of the British government, which was then awaited, has since been received and, together with the dispatch to which it is a reply, is hereto appended.

"Such reply is embodied in two communications addressed by the British Prime Minister to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British embassador at this capital.

"It will be seen that one of these communications is devoted exclusively to observations upon the Monroe doctrine and claims that in the present instance the new and strange extension and development of this doctrine is insisted upon by the United States, and that the reasons justifying the appeal to the doctrine enunciated by President Monroe are generally inapplicable 'to the state of things in which we live at the present day,' and especially inapplicable to the controversy involving the boundary line between Great Britain and Venezuela.

"Without extended arguments in reply to these positions it may not be amiss to suggest that the doctrine upon which we stand is strong and sound because its enforcement is important to our peace and safety as a nation, and is essential to the integrity of our free institutions and the tranquil maintenance of our distinctive form of government.

"It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life and cannot become obsolete while our republic endures.

"If the balance of power is justly a cause for jealous anxiety among the governments of the old world and the subject for our absolute non-interference, none the less is the observance of the Monroe doctrine of vital concern to our people and their government.

"Assuming, therefore, that we may properly insist upon the doctrine without regard to the state of things in which we live or any changed conditions here or elsewhere, it is not apparent why its application may not be invoked in the present controversy.

"If the European power by extension of its boundaries takes possession of the territory of one of our neighboring republics against its will, and in derogation of its rights, it is difficult to see why, to that extent, such a European power does not thereby attempt to extend its system of government to that portion of this continent which is thus taken.

"This is the precise action which President Monroe declared to be 'dangerous to our peace and safety,' and it can make no difference whether the European system is extended by an advance of frontier or otherwise.

SALISBURY'S ARGUMENT.

"It is also suggested in the British reply that we should not seek to apply the Monroe doctrine to the pending dispute, because it does not embody any principle of international law which 'is founded on the general consent of nations,' and that 'no statesman however eminent and no nation however powerful are competent to insert into the code of international law a novel principle which was never recognized before and which has not since been accepted by the government of any other country.'

"Practically the principle for which we contend has a peculiar, if not an exclusive relation to the United States. It may not have been admitted in so many words to the code of international law, but since in international councils every nation is entitled to the rights belonging to it, if the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine is something we may justly claim, it has its place in the code of international law as certainly and as securely as if it were specifically mentioned, and when the United States is a suitor before the high tribunal that administers international law, the question to be determined is whether or not we present claims which the justice of that code of law can find to be right and valid.

"The Monroe doctrine finds its recognition in those principles of international law which are based upon the theory that every nation shall have its rights protected and its just claim enforced. Of course this government is entirely confident that under the sanction of this doctrine we have clear rights and undoubted claims.

"Nor is this ignored in the British reply. The prime minister while not admitting that the Monroe doctrine is not applicable to the present conditions, states, 'in declaring that the United States would resist any such enterprise if it was contemplated, President Monroe adopted a policy which received the entire sympathy of the English government of that date.'

"He further declares: 'Though the language of President Monroe is directed to the attainment of objects which most Englishmen would agree to be statutory, it is impossible to admit that they have been inscribed by any adequate authority in the code of international law.'

"Again he says: 'They (Her Majesty's government) fully concur with the view which President Monroe apparently entertained that any disturbance of existing territorial distribution in that hemisphere by any fresh acquisition on the part of any European state would be highly inexpedient to change.'

"In the belief that the doctrine for which we contend was clear and definite, that it was founded upon substantial considerations and involved our safety and welfare that it is fully applicable to our present condition and to the state of the world's progress and, that it was directly related to the pending controversy and without any connection as to the final merits of the dispute, but anxious to learn in satisfactory and conclusive manner whether Great Britain sought, under claim of boundary to extend her possessions on this continent without right or whether she merely sought possession of territory fairly included within her lines of ownership, this government proposed to the government of Great Britain to resort to arbitration as a proper means of settling the question to the end that the vexatious boundary dispute between the two contestants might be determined and our exact standing and relation in respect to the controversy might be made clear.

"It will be seen from correspondence herewith submitted that this proposition has been declined by the British government upon grounds which under the circumstances seem to me to be far from satisfactory.

"It is deeply disappointing that such an appeal, actuated by the most friendly feelings toward both nations directly concerned, addressed to a sense of justice and to the magnanimity of one of the great powers of the world and touching its relations to one comparatively weak and small, should have produced no better results.

WHAT WE MUST DO.

"The course to be pursued by this government, in view of the present conditions, does not appear to admit of serious doubt.

"Having labored faithfuly for many years to induce Great Britain to submit this dispute to impartial arbitration, and having been now finally apprised of her refusal to do so, nothing remains but to accept the situation, to recognize its plain requirements and deal with it accordingly.

"Great Britain's present proposition has never thus far been regarded as admissible by Venezuela, though any adjustment of boundary which that country may deem for her advantage and may enter into of her own free will cannot of course be objected to by the United States.

"Assuming, however, that the attitude of Venezuela will remain unchanged, the dispute has reached such a stage as to make it now incumbent upon the United States to take measures to determine with sufficient certainty for its justification what is the true divisional line between the republic of Venezuela and British Guinea.

"Inquiry to that end should of course be conducted carefully and judicially, and due weight should be given to all available evidence, records, and the facts in support of the claims of both parties.

"In order that such an examination should be prosecuted in a thorough and satisfactory manner, I suggest that Congress make an adequate appropriation for the expenses of a commission to be appointed by the executive, who shall make the necessary investigation and report upon the matter with the least possible delay.

"When such report is made and accepted it will, in my opinion, be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power as lawful aggression upon its rights and interests the appropriation by Great Britain of any lands or the exercise of governmental jurisdiction over any territory which after investigation we have determined of right belonging to Venezuela.

GRAVITY OF THE SITUATION.

"In making these recommendations I am fully alive to the responsibility incurred and fully realize all the consequences that may follow.

"I am nevertheless, firm in my conviction that while it is a grevious thing to contemplate the two great English speaking people of the world as being otherwise than friendly competitors in the onward march of civilization and strenuous and worthy rivals in all the arts of peace, there is no calamity which a great nation can invite which equals that which follows supine submission to wrong and injustice and the consequent loss of national self respect and honor, beneath which is shielded and defended the people's safety and greatness.

RECEIVED WITH APPLAUSE.

Republican Senators Enthusiastic When the Message Is Read.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The President's message reached the Senate about 12:30. Senator Morgan, chairman of the committee on foreign relations examined the message and then moved to go into executive session. At 12:40 the doors were closed.

At 1 o'clock the Senate resumed legislative session and the message of the President was laid before the Senate.

The executive session, it was explained officially, had been devoted to the consideration of nominations.

There was hardly a vacant seat on the Republican side, and but few absentees on the Democratic side.

As the reading closed there was hearty hand clapping from all quarters of the chamber Chandler, Rep. of New Hampshire, leading in the demonstration on the Republican side.

The message and the accompanying documents were referred to the committee on foreign relations and at 1:15 P. M. the Senate adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE.

Demonstration by Both Parties Over the Monroe Doctrine.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The House devoted itself today to discussing the proposition to have two election committees instead of one, the Venezuelan message meanwhile lying unopened.

This caused Crisp to exclaim, "There is an important message from the President relating to eVnezuela lying on that table, and yet this Republican Congress enters upon partisan action delaying consideration of the President's message."

Hulick, Rep., of Ohio was quickly on his feet, with the inquiry, "Is it this House or the President's ducking excursion that has delayed the message on the Venezuelan question?"

There was a round of laughter and applause from the Republican side.

"There is the message," proceeded Crisp. "It lies unheede. And yet is a frank, honest and manly support of the Monroe Doctrine."

Senator Dubois today introduced a bill to make Indians subject to game laws in the Several States. The bill is designed to prevent any such trouble as occurred with the Bannocks at Jackson's Hole last summer.

A STRICT LINE DRAWN.

University Football Men Are Afraid of Professional Taint.

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—At the last meeting of the executive committee of the Athletic Association of the University of California resolutions were adopted requesting that students of the institution refrain in the future from playing on teams maintained by athletic clubs. The passage of these resolutions marks the recognition, as far as the University of California is concerned, of the fact that the athletic clubs resent the tendency toward professionalism which threatens the game of football in America. Caspar W. Whitney, the great authority on all branches of amateur sport, has been untiring in his efforts to prevent games between the colleges and athletic clubs in the East, and he has lately had his attention attracted to this side of the continent. The mediums possessed by Mr. Whitney for the expression of his opinions place him in a position to speak with authority.

The action of the Butte team in securing prominent men from Denver and the Reliance Club has served to make the college men, whose greatest wish it is to keep football free from the deteriorating effects of professionalism, extremely cautious about playing with or against the local or the Montana elevens. The game which is to come off Saturday between these two teams will, in all probability, be avoided by University men. Not only has the University team refused to meet the Butte team because of this college sentiment, but individual players have declined to play with the Reliance. Ransome and Sherman were both asked to take positions with the team to which they formerly belonged, but both refused.

The reason given was that in a former game Sherrard of the Reliance kicked Ransome in the head. This undoubtedly was a strong factor in determining their action but it is also quite evident that they were loathe to play with any team in the face of the resolution spoken of above, embodying, as they do, the sentiment of the whole student body.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

An extremely interesting article in the University of California Magazine, which appeared yesterday, is a review of Miss Coolbrith's recent volume of poems, entitled "Songs from the Golden Gate," by Chas. Keeler, U. C. '93. Mr. Keeler has, himself written considerable poetry, which has been well received. Notable among his productions is a very appreciative sonnet of Prof. Joe Le Conte, which appeared in the first number of the magazine. A review of the work of one local poet by another cannot fail to be of interest to many people.

Another feature of the number is a recently discovered poem by Edward Rowland Sill, once instructor in English in the Oakland High school, and later professor of English language and literature in the University.

Examinations are now in full force. They will be over by the end of this week.

At a recent meeting of the faculty it was decided to hold entrance examinations in January and August hereafter, instead of in May and August, as heretofore.

It is a noteworthy fact that the classes of Prof. Le Conte are as well attended as any in the college, in spite of the fact that he never calls the roll.

HAYS IS NOW IN CHARGE

The Changes Occur in the Home for the Blind.

An Outline of What the Policy Is to Be in the Future.

Jack Hays, the new superintendent of the State Home for the Adult Blind, will be formally installed this afternoon. There will be a meeting of the directors at 4:30 and at it Joseph Saunders, who for eight years has held the superintendency, will turn over the books to his successor.

Superintendent Hays was in the office of the institution this morning. His valise was on the floor, his trunk will be sent over in the morning and for the next two years, possibly longer he will live on the premises.

There are eighteen minor positions connected with the home. A Tribune representative called upon him this morning to find out what changes if any would be made.

"It is a little too soon for me to say anything," said Mr. Hays. "I have hardly got located yet. Of course I shall look into the work of every one connected with this place, and when I see I can improve upon an assistant, I shall do so. I have been out here since last Friday, taking stock, familiarizing myself with my new duties and keeping an eye on the help. I have not as yet made known an intention of making any changes. The home has never been self-supporting, but I shall try to make it as nearly so as possible. I am going to conduct the affairs on regular business principles, and hope to have a successful administration."

Jack Hays is a Native Son, having been born in San Francisco in 1852. He is the son of Col. Jack Hays, an officer in the Southern army, Indian fighter, and first Sheriff of San Francisco. It was during his father's term of office that Jack Jr. was born, and the first few years of his life were spent in San Francisco. But the city grew and got too metropolitan for the frontiersmen and he bought a ranch in the foothills back of Oakland. It was here that young Jack spent his boyhood days. He attended the Oakland Public Schools and averaged well with his class mates. When he grew to man's estate he followed the foot steps of his father and became a farmer. He purchased a ranch in Tulare county in 1882 and up to three years ago he lived there. His father who had lived a long life of usefulness, died and John was wanted at home. He disposed of his interests in the south and returned to live with his mother. While he was away the farm had been sold to William J. Dingee and is now his home. The Hays family bought from Mr. Dingee their beautiful home on Central avenue in Alameda and they have since resided there.

INDIAN LAND SQUABBLES.

UTAH'S STATEHOOD FIGHT.

The Arizona Troubles Are Not Considered at All Serious.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The proceedings in the House were opened by Cannon, Rep., of Illinois offering a resolution for consideration tomorrow of an amendment to the rules for an increase of the membership of the leading committee from fifteen to seventeen (number in last House), and for the creation of an additional committee on elections.

The resolution was adopted after Crisp stated that the minority would not object to an increased membership, but certainly would oppose the creation of an additional election committee.

Flynn, Rep., of Oklahoma asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Interior to inform the House as to reasons for the delay in the apointment of allotipng agents to allot lands to the Wichita Indians and whether any blood connections of the Secretary of the Interior were interested in delaying the opening of those lands to settlement.

McMillin Dem., thought the resolution was not drawn in the usual form. While he was examining it Fynn called out: "It don't affect any of your importations into Oklahoma."

"I don't make importations," replied McMillin sharply.

"Well, Hoke Smith does for you," returned Flynn.

McMillin protested this was not the occasion for levity. He pointed out a defect in the resolution and at Flynn's request the words "if not incompatible with public interests," were inserted.

Flynn made a brief explanation. He declared the alloting agents required by law had not been appointed.

"It is a well known fact," said he, "Hoke Smith has a lot of relations who are profiting by the delay in this matter. They are acting as attorneys for the Indians."

His attack on the Secretary of the Interior was bitter. He said among other things that he had seen today a contract by which a man was to receive $2700 if he could prevent Secretary Smith from ratifying the agreement.

Cooper, Dem., of Florida, denounced Flynn's "extraordinary speech." He protested Flynn had indulged in language concerning a member of the Cabinet unbecoming a member of the House and eulogized Secretary Smith as a man who stood as high before the American people as any man on this floor.

Flynn replied with some temper. He admitted he had feelings in the matter and explained the cause of it in his trip to Washington last Spring. He had come 1000 miles to see the president and find out why Secretary Smith had not complied with the law. He had written Cleveland for an audience and waited in vain for a week to see him. He had appealed to Secretary Smith and to the commissioners of the land office but to no avail.

Flynn then demanded the previous question.

The resolution was adopted without division.

UTAH'S HOPES.

The New Constitution Formally Presented to the President.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Governor West of Utah today escorted to the White House and presented to the President Messrs. Letcher and Sherman, commissioners appointed to deliver to him the certified copy of the constitution adopted by the new State, and a statement of the vote by which the constitution was adopted.

The constitution was in a gold-bound volume encased in morocco.

The President has submitted the documents to the Secretary of State for examination, and if it is found that the proceedings were in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress providing for the admission of the State, and the new constitution also complies with the requirements, the President will issue his proclamation declaring Utah a member of the family of States.

Besides the commissioners there were in the party Colonel Trumbo, delegate Cannon and John W. Burton, of Salt Lake City.

Mr. Letcher, in submitting the constitution, said: "In compliance with the law we are here to present to you the constitution ratified by the people of Utah under the enabling act of Congress and to ask at your hands the consideration which it demands."

The President responded, congratulating the people of Utah upon the progress they had made, and said he would examine the documents and see if all requirements of the law had been complied with, and that he would give the matter of issuing a proclamation his immediate attention. The President remarked:

"There has been considerable change of sentiment in Utah during the past few years. I am glad to see it and congratulate the people of Utah."

Secretary Thurber promised to inform Utah citizens a few days in advance of the issuance of the proclamation, so that Utah courts might not be impeded in the transaction of business. There will necessarily be a change in courts procedure when Utah becomes a State.

Territorial officers of Utah also requested that the proclamation be not issued before the first of January, so they might settle up their accounts and make reports for the full calendar year.

Secretary Thurber especially congratulated Colonel Trumbo upon the result of the efforts for statehood made by Utah citizens.

The delegation left the White House with the belief that the proclamation will be issued about the first of the year.

The law provides that Utah shall become a State on the first Monday after the issuance of the President's proclamation.

THE SENATE.

Wool Growers Want the McKinley Bill in Force Again.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Quay (Rep., Pa.) to-day presented to the Senate a petition of the Wool Merchants' Association of Philadelphia and asked that it be read and inserted in the record.

"That is a bad example" interposed Sherman; "What is this petition?"

"It asks," responded Quay, with a malicious smile, "that the wool schedule of the McKinley Act be re-enacted as a law."

Sherman joined in the general smile.

"Certainly there could be no objection to that," said he.

The petition was thereupon read.

Pfeffer (Pop., Kan.) offered a resolution calling on the Post Office Department for information as to the practice of imposing fines on employes; also as to restrictions placed on postal employes against conferring with Senators and members regarding legislation. The resolution was referred.

Caffery (Dem., La.) offered a resolution which was agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to reasons for suspending the payment of bounty to the manufacturers of sugar.

Gallinger's (Rep., N. H.) resolution calling for a report from all government departments as to the number of aliens employed, was referred to the Committee on Civil Service Reform.

Stewart (Pop., Nev.) addressed the Senate on pending resolution for a commission to investigate the needs of labor and agriculture, predicting an invasion of products of oriental lands, in competition with our domestic products. Agents of Japanese manufacturers, he said, were now in the United States selling goods at prices far below the cost of production in United States, offering bicycles of Japanese make at $12 each, and parlor matches, doors, sash, blinds, cooperate stock and hats, gloves, and wearing apparel at 50 per cent below domestic price. Japan had taken the initiative, but China would follow.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

THE OAKLAND BANK OF SAVINGS, (A CORPORATION), Plaintiff,
vs.
SUSAN HAYS, ET AL., Defendants.
No. 11,263

Under and by virtue of an order of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale issued out of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, of the State of California, on the 20th day of November, A. D. 1895, in the above entitled action, wherein the Oakland Bank of Savings, (a corporation), the above named plaintiff, obtained a judgment and decree of foreclosure and sale against Susan Hays and Anson Barstow, defendants, on the 15th day of November, A. D. 1895, for the sum of thirty-two thousand one hundred and seventy-four and 66-100 dollars in United States gold coin, besides interest, and wherein Anson Barstow obtained a judgment for the sum of eight hundred and seven and 70-100 dollars in United States gold coin, besides interest, which said decree was, on the 20th day of November, A. D. 1895, recorded in Judgment Book 20 of said Court, at page 50, I am commanded to sell all that certain lot, piece or parcel of land, situate lying and being in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, and bounded and described as follows:

Commencing at a point in a line drawn through the centre of Union street, if produced, distant therefrom 506 40-100 (five hundred and six 40-100) feet southerly from the point of intersection where said centre line of Union street, if produced, would cross the southern line of First street, and running thence along said centre line of Union street, if produced, south 15 degrees 58 minutes west 1241 88-100 (twelve hundred and forty-one and 88-100) feet to a point; thence south 70 degrees 23 minutes west 87 89-100 (eighty-seven 89-100) feet to a point; thence south 58 degrees 8 minutes west 542 48-100 (five hundred and forty-two 48-100) feet to a point; thence south 66 degrees 53 minutes west 65 20-100 (sixty-five 20-100) feet to a point; thence south 88 degrees 23 minutes west 375 14-100 (three hundred and seventy-five 14-100) feet to a point; thence north 27 degrees 37 minutes west 309 72-100 (three hundred and sixty 72-100) feet to a point; thence north 25 degrees 22 minutes west 83 55-100 (eighty-three 55-100) feet to a point on the western boundary line of a tract of marsh land, formerly owned by Hays and Caperton; thence along the western line north 32 degrees 18 minutes east to a point where a line drawn at a right angle from the said point of beginning and parallel with First street would intersect the western boundary line of the tract of marsh land aforesaid, and thence easterly and parallel with First street 852 (eight hundred and fifty-two) feet, more or less, to the place of beginning; containing 42 255-1000 (forty-two and two hundred and fifty-five thousandths) acres of land.

Public notice is hereby given that on

Thursday, the 26th Day of December, A. D. 1895,

At 2 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House door of the County of Alameda, I will, in obedience to said order of sale and decree of foreclosure and sale, sell the above described property or so much thereof as may be necessary to raise sufficient money to satisfy said judgment, with interest and costs, etc., to the highest and best bidder, for gold coin of the United States.

Oakland, November 21, 1895.

A Popular Company.

The People's Express, the headquarters of which are on Ninth street, between Broadway and Franklin streets, is now doing an immense business. It always has a large number of wagons busy, but the approach of the holidays gives the company nearly twice its ordinary patronage. This year the increase is in excess of that of any preceding year, but the People's Express Company is always equal to the emergency. The People's Express is the people's favorite because it is always prompt and reliable, and its terms are most reasonable.

A Terrible Collision

Occurred late last night directly in front of the Mammoth Furniture stores of J. L. Lyon & Son at 1250 and 1252½ Broadway. Luckily all their furniture, carpets, ranges, etc., both new and second-hand, of which they have an enormous assortment, were inside their store for the night and so no damage was done. Telegraph avenue ran into Broadway.

Of late remarks have been passed stirring up the ladies and children who happen to stroll in the fair, or rather Christmas display at the Grand Rule Bazaars, saying it's simply entrancing to see the great variety offered to those to be presented. TUESDAY . . . . DEC. 18, 1895

It is said and groved to the Chicagoans that the National Republican Committee preferred St. Louis as a place for holding the next convention. Chicago papers for twenty years have been writing down St. Louis. It was assumed all along that the convention could not go anywhere else but to the city which secured the World's Fair. The chances now are that the Democratic convention will go to Chicago.

Dr. Caesar Lombroso, who in Max Nordau discoursed so about the evidences of degeneration, has just been convicted in a French court of gross plagiarism and condemned to pay the man out of whose book he stole the sum of 2500 francs. The plaintiff, M. Crepieux-Jamin, found in "La Grafologia," a work by Lombroso published at Milan, passage after passage which M. Jamin, to who no credit was given and whose name was not once mentioned by this soi-disant criminologist. He brought suit at once under the International Convention adopted at Berne in 1811, and won a verdict without difficulty, the evidence being indubitable. But then this author has furnished in his own person some satisfactory evidence of degeneracy.

A Philadelphia paper outlines the improvements to be made in the bicycle during the coming year. "Fifty miles an hour is the least that the laziest club lounger will be able to do with that new lever chain from the other side." It will render your ordinary 63 gear equivalent to a gear of anywhere between 86 and 100; and the remarkable point about it is this, that the increase in the driving power of that chain will require the exercise of no more energy on the pedals. John A. Wells of hill-climbing fame will have to look for fresh fields and pastures new." As to puncture-less tires? Why, we need have no tires at all. A set of elliptical steel springs set at right angles to the rim and riveted to it; a steel band passing round the outer circumference of this series of springs and riveted to each of them so as to keep them in place; and there you have ideal resiliency. Of course you may cover the whole with rubber or other material for cleanliness sake, but that's a luxury."

Opening of the Seals.

President Cleveland has sent Lord Salisbury's communication on the Venezuela question to Congress. He scouts the Monroe doctrine at the same time he has given it more vitality than it ever had before. It has always been a variable quantity. It has, perhaps, been reserved for this Congress to give it a more definite expression. The essence of it is that the United States will not regard in a friendly way, any attempt of European powers to invade or otherwise interfere with the established order of American Republics.

The Federal Government was bound to protest against the invasion of the Republic of Venezuela. If there could be no check to the invasion of territory, any one of these small Republics might be subverted at the instance of any European power. There has never been a more opportune time to settle this issue on the broad basis of justice; and never a time when bullying and bluster would have so little deterrent effect. Salisbury's communication and the President's message are the stirring events of the day.

The President's message has a warlike note. "The first step proposed is to ascertain, through a commission, the justice of the case made by Venezuela, and then to enforce the admission of those rights, even at the cost of war. That is the ring of the message. We shall see how Congress responds.

Must Know His Letters.

The constitutional amendment requiring that every voter whose name thereafter is to be registered, must be able to read and write, was adopted by a very large majority. It was the expression of the popular will, with very little dissent. That requirement is the organic law of the State. The electoral franchise is not a natural right. It may be given or withheld for sufficient reasons. Every man of fair natural ability can bring himself within the provisions of this organic law. If he esteems the electoral franchise so lightly that he does not care to qualify, there is no help for him. For a man who has had energy and enterprise enough to acquire property, and has long been a resident of the State, there is no valid excuse for him if he can not read the constitution and the laws of the State.

A wealthy Portuguese of San Leandro, who had not cared to vote for many years, but suddenly took a local interest in some question of expenditure in that town, concluded that for once he would make his influence felt by voting. Just then he ran against the amended constitution and found that his name could not go on the voting register. He proposes to spend $1,000 in fighting the law. He might as well butt his head against a stone wall. With one-tenth of the sum named he could hire a tutor and learn to read and write. That facility having been acquired, he will be a better citizen, and will furnish a good example to others of his class who have never cared enough about the electoral franchise to bring themselves within the present constitutional qualification.

The Story of Islam.

Dr. Cyrus Hamlin spent about forty years in Turkey as a missionary. He was for some time president of Roberts college, a part of which buildings have recently been burned by the Turks. He declares that England's protection of Armenians amounts to nothing. The Greeks are protected by Russia, the Catholic Armenians by France. The Gregorians and Protestant Armenians have no defender. Dr. Hamlin describes the present Sultan as a fanatical Mussulman.

He came to the throne with the inborn resolution to exercise all the power of the successor of the prophet. He is a skillful diplomat. He believes in the supreme power of lying. He covers up all that he does by falsehood or false testimony. He can always bring any number of witnesses to prove that there has been no violence when hundreds have been slaughtered. He secludes himself in his palace, is seen by very few; but those who are admitted to an interview pronounce him a most fascinating man. He very early took upon himself the entire care of his empire. He resolved to govern it alone. He went into every department—army, navy, naval construction, public works, education, finance—in order to have everything exactly right. Finding a great many Armenians in these departments, he cleaned them all out and put in Turks—often an incompetent man for a competent. If his ministers did not please him he changed them, and then changed them again.

The personal responsibility is thus brought directly home to the Sultan for all the horrible massacres that have been perpetrated in Armenia and elsewhere. It was through the Sultan's direct, or indirect, influence that the Kurds were let loose. "He thought it would be well to have only one people, or at least one faith, on all his eastern border. The Armenians should have their choice, Islam or Gehenna! For his purpose the Kurds would serve him well. He called to Constantinople the chiefs of the principal tribes, treated them with flattering distinction, and gave them uniforms and arms for an imperial cavalry to bear his name—the Hamidieh cavalry. Their work was gradually to efface all the Armenian villages, saving all who would profess Islam. This work has been going on for some years in those distant regions. The survivors made their appeals to England and the consuls faithfully reported them. Doubtless England tried to persuade the Sultan to do better and he has always been ready with stout denials that any wrong has been done, and with lavish promises that nothing more of the kind should happen." It is the old story of Islam—a religious war of extermination of all who are not Moslems. According to recent reports 50,000 have been slaughtered within a few months and 500,000 have been despoiled of their goods and reduced to the verge of starvation.

The Advent of the Cent

It is reported that the Philadelphia mint is turning out cents at the rate of 150,000 a day. The demand has become very great for this small coin in all the Eastern States, and as far west as Chicago. There are now about 780,000,000 of these coins in circulation, more than two-thirds of which have been issued during the last fifteen years.

"The cent never obtained any considerable circulation here. There are not taken for railway fare, although they would be a legal tender in such cases. They are paid out by the savings banks in order to make exact change and are then laid away or pitched into the rubbish box. The three-cent piece has passed out of sight. The nickel is tolerated as much because it represents a street railway fare as for any other reason. The silver five-cent piece has well nigh disappeared. It never found much favor in California. The St. Paul Pioneer, noting the increase of this small coin in that city, makes these comments:

"Twenty-five years ago New Englanders settling in St. Paul found themselves regarded as petty when they expected change of a less amount than five cents and prices in which odd cents figured were unheard of. The same thing was true in California even within ten years—there was a workingman's coffee house in San Francisco where one could get rid of pennies if he were burdened with them, but it was considered quite a unique affair. Now, however, even in the West, to turn away from a counter without waiting for a cent in change would seem rather like "putting on airs." The demand for the copper cent is a wholesome sign and indicates a growing and systematic economy on the part of the bulk of the people. And, while it is a sign of economy the presence of the coin is also a stimulus to that virtue. The people of Europe, who are far more economical in every way than Americans, all handle small coins to a greater extent than we, and not only handle them but estimates their wealth in them. The Frenchman counts his money by francs, while the American must use coin five times as large to estimate his. There was a time, not long ago, when we scorned to talk of anything less than dollars. We are getting past that grandiloquent stage. Halves and quarters are considered very respectable coins, and now that the cent has come to have an identity, nickels and dimes seem considerably more important than before. It is not likely that the half cent will later come to figure in our currency as the farthing does in England."

A New Ruling About Newspapers.

A newspaper in the State of New York had sharply criticised the decision of a judge. The latter was in high dudgeon and he went for that newspaper man, haled him into court, found him guilty of contempt and imposed a fine with the alternative of imprisonment. The newspaper man did not see justice in that light. There was a taint of judicial tyranny in the decision. The case was fought through the courts until it was finally brought up in the Court of Appeals.

That court in its recent decision holds that "no criticism, no matter how severe or unjust, which is uttered or printed out of court can be made the basis of contempt proceedings." The remedy of the judge if he has been wrongfully assailed, is precisely like that of any private individual. In his own court he is supreme. Outside he is not. It is sometimes a good expedient to bring a judge to the bar of public opinion. This could not be done if the press were muzzled. Even an abuse of liberty would not be so dangerous as the denial of liberty to criticise the judgment of courts which heaven knows are fallible enough at best. This liberty is seldom abused by the American press.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The gist of Minister Bayard's offending was only an enlargement of a sentence in the last Democratic platform which declared that protection is "a fraud, robbery of the great majority of American people for the benefit of the few." "In my own country I have witnessed the insatiable growth of that form of state socialism styled protection which I believe has done more to foster class legislation and create inequality of fortune, corrupt public life, banish men of independent mind and character from public councils, blunt public conscience, and place politics upon the low level of a mercenary scramble than any other single cause. Step by step, and largely owing to the confusion of civil strife, it has succeeded in obtaining control of the sovereign power of taxation, creating the revenue into an engine for selfish and private profit (its allied beneficiaries and combines are called trusts), and gradually the commercial marine of the United States has disappeared, the few vessels lately built being an exception and proving the rule, as they were only built by making a breach in the general tariff and navigation laws."

Judge Caldwell, who confirmed the sale of the Santa Fe railroad for less than half the amount of the outstanding bonds—that concern having $110,000,000—made the following statement: "The Santa Fe was never in a better condition physically. Pursuant to my order, all local debts have been paid, leaving none outstanding. The employes have been paid regularly every month, and everything is perfectly satisfactory on all sides. The sale was very simple, considering its immensity. It was cried as you would cry the sale of a pony. I convened court after the sale and confirmed the transaction. I then issued an order for the deed to be made, which was formally done, and executed. The company has now, in reality, possession of the road, but will do nothing until January 1. There is a provision which says that the road shall be turned over to the new company when it presents the deed and demands possession, and it has been agreed upon that it will not do this until that time." It will be time shortly for another baseless rumor to be circulated that the Santa Fe Company is about to extend its road to San Francisco.

The Attorney General has given an official construction to the County Government Act about special deposits. The ordinary deposits will not meet the requirements. "In making these deposits the treasurer parts both with special money itself and with the title to it. Both money and title pass to the bank, and the bank promises to repay 'to the order' of the treasurer the respective amounts of money specified in the certificates. It does not undertake to return the identical money or thing deposited. This is clearly in violation of section 87 of the County Government Act, above quoted, and the certificate of deposit so taken cannot be considered as money in the hands of the treasurer." Well why, should the banks receive these special deposits at all since it is a matter only of convenience to the county officials? Suppose all the banks should come to an agreement that no special deposits of public money will be received on any terms. What would these county treasurers do since in about half the counties no safe place has ever been provided to keep the money, and in many of the others it would require a night watchman to insure safety.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

It is said that Felix Faure, president of France, has lost some of his popularity in his endeavor to increase it. He has been, it is hinted, all things to all men. His democratic methods have been employed to attach to his cause the poor and discontented of the Parisians, while he has at the same time entertained a larger number of crowned heads at the Elysee than any one of his predecessors.

Frank R. Stockton is one of the most modest men in the realm of literature. His great success in fiction has not given him the slightest touch of what is vulgarly called the "big head." He is a short, slender man with brilliant eyes and an engaging smile. He has learned recently that the canal boat that inspired the "Rudder Grange" stories is still in existence and occupies its former moorings in the Harlem.

One hundred divorces were granted in three hours by the Chicago courts recently. Chicago does not need to annex South Dakota.

Women will henceforth be permitted to become regular students at the Hungarian universities and special facilities will be granted to those who wish to become doctors or pharmacists.

Bronson Howard is as much interested in political economy as is William D. Howells. Both the novelist and the playright have been studying of late the various phases of society that make New York a city of astonishing contrasts. It is rumored that Mr. Howard is writing a play that will deal with the lights and shadows of life in the metropolis in a very striking way.

The salaries received by the Russian diplomats representing the Great Northern Empire at foreign courts are not on nearly so large a scale as those enjoyed by Her Brittanic Majesty's representatives abroad, although they compare favorably with the rate of remuneration paid to the envoys of certain other European powers. The British ambassadors at Berlin, Vienna, Constantinople, London and Paris receive each 50,000 roubles per annum, while their colleague at the Court of King Humbert has to be satisfied with the lesser sum of 40,000 roubles. The Russian ministers at Washington, Tokio, Madrid and Peking are each paid 30,000 roubles a year.

A congress of teachers of all kinds has been held at Magdeburg, in Germany, at which bitter complaints were made of the parsimony of the government and public institutions towards them. It appears that there are no fewer than thirteen thousand schoolmasters in Germany whose salaries fall below £10 per annum.

Up in Montana a famous character known as Charlie Allard has a herd of Buffalo, said to be the largest in the country. They number 140, and part of them once constituted the Jones herd in Nebraska. Satisfactory results have been secured by crossing them with Polled Angus cattle. It produces a fine animal, with a fur finer and closer than that of the buffalo, and sweet, wholesome meat. Buffalo hides are now worth $100, and heads from $200 to $300 mounted. Only two herds are said to remain in their wild state, one in the Panhandle of Texas and one in the Yellowstone National Park.

Hundreds Throng the Building and Enjoy the Display.

EXCELLENT PROGRAMMES GIVEN

The formal opening of the Oakland Exposition took place last night under circumstances that could not have been more propitious. The elements favored the undertaking, because not a drop of rain fell during the evening, and, as a consequence, the main building and the annex were crowded with people from the time the doors opened until the hour for closing arrived, at 10 o'clock.

The main entrance to the place is on Twelfth street between Harrison and Webster. Through the turnstiles placed there the people began to pass at an early hour. As they entered, they found the place bright and warm. There was a cheery hum of conversation and laughter, showing the presence of merry spirits, and at the same time, could be distinguished the buzz and clatter and the heavy blows of machinery which, in a measure, showed up some of the wonderful manufactories of Alameda county.

The people wandered from one exhibit to the other, but made nothing more than a superficial examination of each. The governing idea seemed to be to take in the whole show at first and later make a minute examination of the individual features.

In this way more than three-quarters of an hour were passed, and then, the hour for the official opening of the display having arrived, there was a thronging of people to the avenue in front of the stage and to the galleries on either side. In order to hear what the projectors had to say regarding the undertaking.

It may be here stated that, while there are many exhibits in the galleries, yet the management has reserved a number of benches there for the accommodation of people who desire to sit down and listen to the music or rest after having walked through aisles of the exhibition.

A few minutes after 8 o'clock the managers and their invited guests appeared upon the stage and among the former were noted President J. W. Nelson, Secretary George Roth, Assistant Secretary Davis, Superintendent Craigie Sharp, Solicitor J. P. Street, Mr. Tarp, representing the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California, Committeeman Theodore Gier, Charles S. Booth, Fred Becker, E. G. Buswell, F. W. Spiars and William Rutherford.

The interest taken in the matter by the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California was shown by the presence on the platform of Julian Sontag, president of the association, Fred H. Dibble, assistant secretary of the same organization, and Directors Andrew Shatford, J. P. Currier and James Sproull. W. W. Sanford, secretary of the Carlson-Curran Soap Company, E. E. Smith, ex-chief of deputy of the horticultural and agricultural exhibit of the midwinter fair, M. M. McGlynn, editor of The Voice of Labor and secretary of the Federated Trades Council, San Francisco, Henry Dalton, Charles Sloan, B. McFadden and a number of others.

Notwithstanding the fact that there was a great deal of noise in the buildings the crowd displayed a willingness to hear what the speakers had to say and readily gathered around the platform when the meeting was called to order in an informal manner by President J. W. Nelson who spoke as follows:

NELSON'S SPEECH.

"Ladies and Gentlemen.—The wheels of industrial progress and the State for that matter, have been set in motion by the opening of this exposition tonight. What you see here is the result of intelligent cooperation on the part of the ladies of the Ebell Society, the executive committee, the daily press of Oakland, the board of directors of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of San Francisco, and many other good people. All who have participated in or contributed toward making this exhibition what it is have done so for the public good. As a citizen of Oakland, I experience tonight a pardonable feeling of pride in presiding at the opening of this splendid display of the efforts of Oakland and Alameda county in the industrial field. I have had as you know, some acquaintance with the industries of our city and county, but I confess that I am surprised at the number, the variety, and the excellence of the displays made under this roof, and which plainly demonstrate that the majority of our own people know very little of what is going on in their midst, or of the extent and importance of our home industries. And it is with this very object in view the promoters of this exposition have labored so industriously. They wished to give the people of Alameda county information as to what home manufacturers and producers are doing to let them know of the work going forward and so bring it into review that it may be known by everybody at home, as well as to attract the attention of people abroad.

"Our city has been gradually growing in importance as a manufacturing center. We can point to some good work done. I might refer to the rolling mills, to the Oakland Iron Works, the cotton mills, the bag factory now, alas, closed by a change in the tariff), to some of our iron works, whose success in these dull times has been phenomenal, to our soap works, our large and extensive borax refinery, to the fact that we once had a successful hosiery establishment, to our salt works on the shores of the bay, our great beet sugar industry, our car shops, our agricultural implement works, to our large nurseries, our viticultural interests, our box factory, to our flour mills, our canned goods establishments and many others with which you shall become better acquainted before you leave this building.

"I might say that the goods made in Oakland and Alameda county have found sales in the most distant portions of our country, and have stood the best test of such unrestricted competition. We have had the first nail factory in the western world, and I trust the day is not far away when I shall resume operations. With the many industries already established here there is room for many more. No county in the State has greater advantages for manufacturing than Oakland. Let each of us use our best endeavors to gain most of these industrial enterprises for Oakland, to the end that our growing boys and girls may find employment, and that even a greater degree of prosperity may bless our city. Let us always bear in mind that when strangers patronize our manufacturers it is the bounden duty of Oaklanders to set the example and to show that industrial workers are not without honor in their own city and county; remembering also that charity begins at home and that, if we wish the commercial world to patronize our industrial establishments we must begin by setting the example. I am a firm believer in a protective tariff in the supporting of home industries and home merchants. By doing so, we give employment to our own working people (whom we are in any event bound to care for), and also show that we have a proper pride in our beloved city and county. Let me emphasize the fact that home industry is the best cure for Japanese or any other kind of competition. I must not be understood from this as proclaiming a war to the knife against any other part of our State or common country. Far from it. I speak for an open field and no favor. We compete for excellence in quality and price, and say when those are equal, patronize those who labor in your midst and are building up the commonwealth.

"And in this connection I wish to express to the members of the exposition committee a feeling of personal obligation to them. From the outset I have, in my official duties, received from these gentlemen the heartiest support. No task assigned them have they deemed too arduous, but stimulated by loyalty to Oakland's interests and a common desire to achieve success, they have labored for a month with zeal unflagging, their personal concerns given second place, and with utmost unity of sentiment, and the result of their intelligent well directed and patriotic efforts you now see displayed before you. These are all busy men, conducting large business interests, so that their time would seem to be fully occupied, but I have always found that to secure the success of any enterprise it is safest to instrust it to the men who are already busy and in this instance I know that you will agree with me that my judgement in that regard is correct.

"May this pioneer industrial exposition be productive of a great deal of good to ourselves and the State, and may the time soon come when we shall have one grand industrial exhibition of manufactures and products of the State of California under one roof and supported by State aid. And then there will be such an industrial awakening as to excite the admiration of the promoters of the Half Million Club, recently organized in San Francisco.

"And now, may God's blessing rest upon this enterprise and upon this State and nation."

President Nelson's address was greeted with cheers.

DAVIE'S REMARKS.

At the close of Mr. Nelson's effort, Mayor Davie was introduced. He said he was glad to welcome the people for the first time in eleven years to an exhibit of the manufactures and products of the City of Oakland and Alameda county.

"I presume," he continued, "there is no one here tonight, who was more surprised than I was when I saw the exhibition that has been prepared.

"Much credit is due to the ladies of the Ebell Society with whom the idea originated. Great credit is also due to the executive committee who left their places of business and devoted their works of their valuable time to make arrangements for this great event. I believe that Oakland can do even a great deal more. She has accomplished a great deal in the last five or six years but I believe that what she has done does not show what she may do in the next five, twenty or fifty years. I believe that the population of Oakland, thirty years from now, will exceed that of San Francisco. We are situated at the natural terminus of the continent. We are situated on the right side of the bay. It is published that we have here a perfect paradise. That is true, and all we need is an undertaking of this kind. All we need is some one to start the movement.

"In regard to the resources of Alameda county, there is sufficient here to supply all our needs. This display shows the necessity and wisdom of patronizing home industry. If you follow up this excellent display, it will be only a short time when you will have an annual exhibit. This county can make a showing equal to any county in the United States. The people of this city for many years have felt that they must go to San Francisco for their goods. But there is no reason why they should do so. There is not a store dealing in Oakland today who will not give you as much for a dollar as you can get in any city in the United States. It is not the working people who patronize San Francisco. I know this from the experience I have had in the carrying business on the ferry. It is not the people who live below Seventh street or west of Market street who cross the bay for trade purposes. It is the big people who have plenty of means who do nearly all their buying there.

"There is not a spot on the face of God's earth that can duplicate the beauty and climate of Oakland, and that beauty and that climate can be and ought to be advertised abroad. It is not your duty to say that Oakland is a hotbed of fever, nor that it is full of sickness, because that is not true. It ought to be said that it is the finest on the face of the earth. You ought to make it still finer by laying its streets, building boulevards and putting up fine residences so that when people come here from the East they may say that they leave here to return home with regret.

"I hope to see the day when we will have a permanent exhibit of this character, and I hope that in a year, or perhaps in a year and a half, to see a building which will cover a block and be devoted to this purpose."

JULIAN SONTAG'S ADDRESS.

Julian Sontag, of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California, was the next speaker.

"The Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California," he said, "extends to you its heartiest good wishes. I am authorized to say that the association is sorry that it cannot show its appreciation of your efforts in a more earnest manner than it has thus far indicated.

"Our State is a State of silver and gold and iron, and other mines are being rapidly developed.

"Our mines have put out in the last year the equivalent of $14,000,000 and had it not been for the action of Congress, $20,000,000 would have been put into the State.

"We have vast grain fields and many vineyards that are rich and productive and these ought to contribute to our wealth. You have started on a new era of prosperity, that must inure to your success. Exhibitions of this kind will do away with county fairs where gambling is conducted and where a gentleman would not dare to take his wife.

"I promise you that when any county in this State wants to start a branch of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association it can count on me for assistance.

"What you want to do is to elect men to the legislature who will work for your own interests."

Mr. Sontag then referred to the fact that prison made goods from the East had been traced to consumers in California and that in State institutions materials that are not of free manufacture, have been consumed. He also stated that Governor Budd had been informed of this matter and had promised to see that no more abuse of the kind would be allowed.

"You owe a great deal to the ladies of the Ebell Society," continued Mr. Sontag. "They are a credit to your city. They are a credit to the State. Any one who has a mother or a sister as a member of that society has something to be proud of."

M. Barnett of the San Francisco Daily Journal of Commerce then made a few remarks congratulating the executive committee of the exposition, the ladies of the Ebell Society and the Manufacturers and Producers' Association.

That brought the speeches to a close.

The throng then resumed its examination of the exhibits until 10 P. M., when the first night session of the Oakland Exposition came to a close in a blaze of glory.

TODAY'S ENTERTAINMENT.

There was another large attendance at the fair today, many people putting in an appearance when the doors opened at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Those early comers acted wisely because there is enough in the exposition to enable the visitor to pass the whole day in study.

There was a fine attendance at the exposition this afternoon, much larger than that of yesterday afternoon. Among the visitors were many who were present yesterday also but who were not able to see all that the exposition had on display. There were many ladies present and a larger number of men than had been expected. The following musical programme was rendered by the Fifth Regiment Band.

William Bain, Director.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMME

The exposition tonight will be an improvement over the display of last night in many ways.

Ronrovier's American band will give a grand illustrated concert such as is rendered by no other band in the world. These illustrations in themselves are worth the price of admission and make the music most effective. The programme comprises an overture from Offenbach's "Orpheus," and paraphrase of "Lovely," by Nevada. "Recollections of the War of '76," by Beyer. This piece will be one of the illustrated ones, and the features introduced which will serve to indicate the completeness of the other illustrated features are as follows. The spirit of '76, old man playing Yankee Doodle and two drummer boys; Boston Tea Party, Washington Crossing the Delaware, 1776; Battle of Bunker Hill; Battle of Yorktown; Surrender of Cornwallis; American Army Entering New York, 1776; French flag; Lafayette and George Washington.

The other features of the programme are Monk's "Abide with Me," illustrated; "Life and Times of Columbus," by Herman, illustrated, Entree from Salon's "Queen of Sheba," illustrated; "American National Airs," Meacham, illustrated; "A Day at the Races," illustrated; "Military Hymns," illustrated. "Festival March, by Konrovier.

The official exposition daily is published in the building by Albert Kayser. It is a four page paper, and judging from the first issue which was run off yesterday, Mr. Kayser will give the patrons of the exposition considerable bright and interesting news. J. A. Colquhoun is the editor and S. Lovejoy has charge of the advertising department.

STREET CAR MEN MEET.

An Organization Intended to Improve Their Systems.

There was a distinguished gathering of street railway officials yesterday afternoon in the Occidental hotel, San Francisco. They were from all parts of the State and came in response to a call issued by the street car companies in San Francisco, and formed a temporary organization to be known as the Street Railway Association of California.

There were present from this side of the bay John Sharp of the Oakland Consolidated line; C. Gustafson of the Oakland San Leandro & Hayward; L. Wheeler of the Alameda & Oakland; F. J. Woodward and J. C. Morris of the Highland Park & Fruitvale.

A committee was appointed, the chairman of which was E. P. Vining, and the report of the committee, setting forth the objects of the association was adopted. The aim of the organization is the acquisition of experimental, statistical and scientific knowledge on the construction, equipment and operation of street railways, discussing the cost of the same and the extension of fraternity among operators of the various street lines in California.

Colonel Crocker was tendered and accepted the presidency of the association. S. B. McLenegan of the San Mateo line was elected vice president, and J. E. Morris of this city was elected secretary and treasurer. These officers, with E. P. Vining, general manager of the Market Street Railway Company, F. W. Wood of the Los Angeles Consolidated Railway Company, and Secretary Waeeler of the Oakland, San Leandro & Haywards road, will constitute the executive committee.

A. K. Grim of the Oakland Consolidated, A. W. Barron and M. D. Stein, division superintendent of the Market Street Railway Company, were appointed a committee on by-laws. When his committee completes its report the executive committee will call a general meeting of the association for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Gazette.

At the present time [illegible] encyclopaedia [illegible] well regulated house [illegible] University [illegible] has [illegible] issued by D Appleton & Co New York

[illegible] the patriotic [illegible] the American Historical [illegible] for December its usual [illegible] Lafayette [illegible] the Nation's guest visited [illegible] 1824 These monthly articles in the Historical Register [illegible] Lafayette's visit in 1824 [illegible] members of the Patriotic [illegible] a feature of this magazine [illegible] Hon [illegible] of Houston [illegible] continue [illegible] on the Regulators of North Carolina [illegible] description of [illegible] generally ignored by American historians Colonial Patriotism in Song the title of another article [illegible] paper by Mr Onderdonk [illegible] popular versification [illegible] the Revolution The colonial family described this month is Thompson of Connecticut by Mrs Marcus Richardson of New Orleans

Of several new stories of Lincoln told in the second installment of the new Life of Lincoln in McClure's Magazine for December one of the most interesting is that when Lincoln removed with his family from Indiana to Illinois he made thrifty use of the opportunity of the journey to peddle out at a good profit a stock of small wares which he had bought for the purpose. The whole installment is rich in picturesque details and in Lincoln as he undertook life on his own account first as a flatboatman and then as a grocery clerk at New Salem exhibits a young genius and hero doing wonderful feats of strength risking his life to save comrades from drowning and magically winning his way in a new community by his rare integrity his superior intelligence and his gift of entertaining speech. Along with the paper are twenty five pictures including a facsimile of Lincoln's first vote portraits of him in 1856 1857 1858 and 1860 portraits of his early associates and pictures of all the important scenes of this period of his life.

The December Overland comes out as the Christmas number with a beautiful cover by Boeringer in brown and blue. An Indian maiden is gazing at the Star of Bethlehem and the idea is further enforced by a frontispiece of the same design with a sonnet by Charles G Greene "Lux Jucunda" embodying the old idea that the star was seen all over the earth and made universal joy on the first Christmas night. The Christmas tone is kept up well through the number. "As Talked in the Sanctum" contains a Spanish Christmas tale and there is "A Christmas in Tahiti" wherein a new [illegible] tells of a South Sea Christmas [illegible] peculiar circumstances. Another Christmas story "A Mohavan Christmas" by Rounsevelle Wildman [illegible] is full of good description and feeling.

With the December issue The Arena is reduced in price to twenty five cents per copy and to $3 per year but this reduction in price is accompanied by no diminution in the excellence of this great liberal progressive and formative review. [illegible] exceptionally strong. Among the [illegible] who contribute to the one hundred and seventy six pages which go to make up the body of the magazine are [illegible] of Richard T Ely Justice Walter Clark LL D Rev Minot J Savage Rev Edward Everett Hale Frank B Sanborn Rev John W Chadwick Henry Gaullieur Prof George D Herron Prof Frank Parsons Prof Joseph Rhodes Buchanan Helen Gardner and Will Allen Dromgoole

There was no painting at the art exhibition at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876 which attracted so much attention as that called "Yankee Doodle" showing a strong old drummer and [illegible] with the spirit of Lexington and Bunker Hill leading the Continentals in battle. The painter of this famous picture which now hangs in the public [illegible] at Marblehead was Archibald M Willard who now lives and works in Cleveland. Under the title of "The Painter of Yankee Doodle" Mr James F Ryder of Cleveland tells the interesting story of his life in the December number of the New England Magazine. The article is enriched by copies of many of Mr Willard's best known works including several of the early sketches for "Yankee Doodle" and is altogether a remarkable article which will be read eagerly everywhere. We have no more noteworthy [illegible] made public in America than Mr Willard. Warren F Kellogg Park Square Boston Mass

Outing for December is a pleasant blending of good fiction and breezy sketches of sport adventure and travel in many lands. Two excellent complete stories are "A River Fawn" by Florence Guertin and "Charlie" by R Pitzengien. [illegible] does not prevent a New Yorker visiting Brooklyn to some [illegible] good [illegible] [illegible] interesting features. In Skating [illegible] points the way to the graceful mystery of [illegible]. Other valuable features are "Hunting the Caribou" [illegible] by R G [illegible] "Hunting" by the late [illegible] "Salmon Fishing on Strike River" "[illegible] Awheel" and "On the Frontier Service" by Lieut G W Van Deusen. Among many beautiful illustrations are several by Frederick Remington

There is to be a new slide at St Moritz Switzerland three quarters of a mile long that has been descended in seventy one seconds. Scribner's for January will publish a description of it with a number of pictures from instantaneous photographs

St Ives the novel left substantially complete and unpublished by Robert Louis Stevenson at his death is described as purely a romance of adventure. It is a story of a French prisoner captured in the Napoleonic wars who is shut up in Edinburgh castle where he falls in love with a Scotch girl who with her aunt frequently visits the prisoners. There is early in the story a duel under extraordinary circumstances between St Ives and a fellow prisoner after various episodes a dangerous plan of escape is developed upon and during St Ives finally becomes a free man

John Heard the American civil engineer who died a few months ago in Rome left an unpublished story in the hands of Scribner's which will appear in the January number of the magazine. It is a railroad story turning on the heroism of a locomotive engineer

On account of its usefulness there are few magazines that are of as much interest to housekeepers as "Table Talk" which is the exponent of all good living. The December number gives promise of many savory dishes which may be concocted from the receipts in the House-keepers Inquiry Department. [illegible] Christmas Day [illegible] by Mrs Burton Kingsland with Octave Thanet gives a glimpse of western life in her entertaining way. The holiday treasures or toys for the children is touched upon by Mrs M C Meyer who also gives another paper on The History of [illegible]. Other subjects treated are Diet in Rheumatism and Gout by Dr H H Hawkhurst In Woman's Line Novelties some of the holiday books in Under the Holly Boughs and Fashionable Luncheon and Tea Toilets by Miss Ethel May Howes

MacMillan & Co announce an important work on the big game of South Africa by John Guile Millais F Z S author of "Game Birds and Shooting Sketches." It is entitled "A Breath from the Veldt" and the object of the author has been to supplement from personal observation what is already known of the animals he came across during a recent tour in South Africa and to present a true picture of the life in that country

Stephen Crane's war story "The Red Badge" is to be published shortly in England by William Heinemann who speaks in the highest terms of Mr Crane's literary work and his promise

An entirely new edition of the works of Lord Byron is announced by Macmillan & Co. It will be edited by Mr W E Henley and will include beside the complete poetical works the letters of Byron public and private which with their spirit and ease and charm are usually admitted to be among the best of English letters. This edition which will be in ten volumes will present for the first time since the seventeen volume edition of 1833 long since out of print a fitting shrine for the works of one of the greatest poets of the century

C B Scott for several years in charge of nature study in the schools of St Paul Minn now of the Normal School of Oswego N Y has written a book upon "The Child With Nature" soon to be published by D C Heath & Co Boston. Mr Scott believes in teaching the beauty and symbolism of nature as well as its commodity value

In a dainty booklet printed in light blue salmon pink and gray tones—a splendid illustration of the beauties of art applied to printing—the Ladies Home Journal announces some of its leading literary and artistic features for 1896. There will be a series of papers upon the domestic and social side of Washington by General A W Greely U S A another by ex President Harrison telling of "This Country of Ours" a third by Mary Anderson de Navarro who writes of her stage experiences her struggles for recognition and artistic triumphs with a supplemental article telling of her life and surroundings today. In a lighter vein Mary E Wilkins will present a series of "Neighborhood Types" papers pen pictures of quaint and familiar personages—New England— and Jerome K Jerome will [illegible] old England life in a number of "Stories of the Town"—stories of London—in his inimitable crisp style

A new edition is announced by Macmillan & Co of "The Marvellous Adventures of Sir John Maundeville Kt" a work ranking in interest second only to Herodotus in that fascinating class of books that hover between fact and fiction. Though written nearly six centuries ago the account of the worthy knight's travels and especially of his remarkable visits to Chan of Cathay and Prester John are as fresh and delightful as ever. The book is illustrated by Mr Arthur Layard with pictures as naive as the text and is made gorgeous with a cover of scarlet and gold

The Nickell Magazine for December which has just come to hand certainly entitles that bright publication to a place in the front rank of America's magazines. There are nine superb productions of celebrated paintings which illustrate [illegible] Ing Genius by E R Chindler [illegible] B [illegible] tells in an interesting manner about King Clovis and Saint Louis and Frank Linden has a short critical article on Paul Bourget which accompanies a full picture of the celebrated author in his study

"Prairie Folks" by Hamlin Garland which is this autumn issued by Stone & Kimball is practically a new book as the first edition was small and almost unknown. It is really a companion volume to "Main Traveled Roads" and Mr Garland it is said considers it as containing some of his best work

William Henry Bishop's translation of Chambers's [illegible] Volume has been published by D Appleton & Co by arrangement with the executors of the author's estate who have given D Appleton & Co the exclusive authorization for publication in English

The Open Court Publishing Company will publish in December a book entitled "Karma a tale" by Dr Paul Karus illustrated by Japanese artists and printed on Japanese crepe paper

The December number of the Progress of the World Magazine contains an unusual number of illustrations including large half tone portraits of all the newly elected State Governors and other important persons chosen for office in last month's election. The departments of "Science and Finance" are easily the most interesting the former presenting an entertaining description of the discovery and possibilities of the new method of producing electricity an illustrated up to date account of the underground electric conduit for street railways and a paper by Prof Delabarre of Brown University the eminent student of psychics and psychical phenomena in which the writer explains the scientific basis of the alleged occult world and dispels many popular illusions on that subject

Queen Victoria has had her attention called by one of her chaplains the Rev Dr Tulloch to Mr Maclaren Cobban's new Scotch romance "The King of Andaman" published in this country by D Appleton & Co and Her Majesty has sent the author a message of gracious and kindly interest. The Queen was probably much amused by the letters which purport to pass between her and the last ter of Hutcheon

The old time Christmas number of domestic magazine was a good thing fairly adapted for use at the fireside and in the home but the Christmas number of to day as is well typified in Jerness Miller Monthly is a fitting illustration of the development of literary work and taste in the last few years especially as it applies generally and in detail to what might be called the kingdom of women. From the cover the bright eye of a pretty child peep out shyly at the beholder [illegible] Christmas party. Under the Mistletoe greets the reader from the frontispiece and many other equally attractive illustrations sprinkle the book from first cover to last

The leading article in the Forum for December is probably the cleverest analysis of the present financial situation in the United States that has yet appeared. The writer is M Paul Leroy Beaulieu the distinguished French economist who lays down the "Conditions for American Commercial and Financial Supremacy." He says that there is much surprise throughout Europe that a great nation like the United States should allow its development to be trammelled by frequent and severe crises and that it should be either unable to discern their causes or lack decision to remove them from its path. He thinks that the failure of the American government to redeem its paper currency after the war was a great and vital error whose evil influences are still felt. In his opinion the United States government should cease to issue paper money, remitting the task to the banks

Conspicuous among the contents of the December Atlantic is another of John Fiske's historical studies. It has for a title "The Starving Time in Old Virginia" and is an important historical contribution, as well as delightful reading. This issue also contains three short stories "Witchcraft" by L Dougall "The End of the Terror" by Robert Wilson and "Dorothy" by Harriet Lewis Bradley.

The New Bohemian (Cincinnati O) for December is the most attractive number of that sprightly magazine that has yet appeared. The leading feature is a splendid review of the life work of Eugene Field by his friend and co worker LeRoy Armstrong. The frontispiece is a portrait of the dead poet the latest and one of the best ever published. "Touch Hands and Part" is an intensely dramatic story by Percival Pollard the brilliant western journalist. It is a strong conception and skilfully told, being both true to life and true to art. "American Artists Abroad" by Harriet Childe Connor is an admirable critique on the work of American painters at the Paris exposition. It is rather spicy but sympathetically discriminating and just

Anson D F Randolph & Co will publish immediately a new book of travel under the title of "Algerian Memories" by Fanny Bullock Workman and William Hunter Workman

Donahoe's this month is the Christmas Magazine by excellence. One is prepared somewhat by the beautiful cover for the attractions within and yet the latter far surpass anticipation in the happy seasonableness of the articles and the artistic beauty of the illustrations. Magazine readers enjoy a change from the ordinary mental pabulum at special times like Christmas Easter and midsummer and the subscribers to Donahoe's will feel gratified at the generous way in which this taste has been considered in the current issue. This number is just the sort of good to sit with for a delightful hour in an easy chair beneath the library lamp or in the glow of an open fire. Every item is readable and enjoyable as may be judged from its contents not the least welcome feature being the band some new type dress in which the pages appear and the more than usual care bestowed upon the beautiful illustrations

THE MILLS CONCERT.

An Enjoyable Programme Given by Many Talented Pupils

Notwithstanding the bad weather the concert at Mills College was well attended last night. The following programme was rendered under the direction of Prof. Lisse

Morning song — Hugo Jungst
Choral Class
Polonaise — Hans von Bronsart
Miss Alberta Crosses
Aria from "Cosi fan Tutte" — Mozart
Miss Mabel e Gillman
Valse caprice op 1 — Ludwig Schytte
Miss Selma Anderson
"Lists Dream" — Wagner
Miss Grace Gilbert
(a) Feldblumen Strauss (b) Berceuse — Hans von Bronsart
Miss Marie Robbins
(a) [illegible] from Hansel and Gretel — Humperdink
(b) Thou Fairest Vision of My Soul — Lassen
Miss Sydnia Burnard
(a) Pilgrims Chorus (b) Romance from Tannhauser — Wagner Liszt
Miss Jewel Spencer
"Dream of Love" — F Liszt
Miss Persis Coleman
(a) Dreams — Wagner
(b) I'll Not Complain — Shumann
Miss Mabell Gillman
Impromptu [illegible] op 17 — Th Kullak
Miss Ada Story
Choral Class

Violin obligato by Miss Edith Crafts.

One is always sure of good music at Mills College. The piano pupils who played were all pupils of Professor Lisser. The vocal pupils were Madame Rosewald's pupils. During her absence for the past few weeks a pupil of Madame Rosewald Mrs Blanchard has been their instructor.

Professor Schmidt conducted the choruses which had been selected and partly prepared by the late Professor Kos will before his death. Every piece was exceedingly well rendered.

Miss Sydnia Burnard a sister of Miss Farnard of the Class of '84 has a very promising voice. Her sister is now studying in Paris and has great promise for the future in opera.

Miss Mabelle Gillman has a phenomenal voice. She has studied only a little more than a year with Madame Rosewald who justly anticipates great things of her voice in the future.

All of the piano pupils did exceedingly well. Among these Miss Allie Crosses of Modesto and Miss Marie Robbins daughter of Junior Robbins of Suisun. Miss Jewel Spencer a daughter of the well known Dennis Spencer of Napa a graduate of the Class of '70 is also a very fine performer.

Miss Persis Coleman the sister of Mr John Coleman's daughters who have been pupils of Mills is a very attractive performer.

With very few exceptions the dress was simple and suitable for the occasion as is true generally of Mills girls. The "new woman" finds no place at Mills.

At the close of the concert all were invited to the dining room for refreshments and also to visit the art room adjoining the concert room.

Less than three months' work was displayed there but it was exceedingly good. The display in oil black and white and pen and ink was excellent. The work from the life class was very fine. Indeed it would be difficult to find anywhere better work of amateurs than that seen at Mills. The college is to be congratulated upon having such a fine teacher as Mrs Mann who is at the head of the department.

Madame Rosewald will return from the East in time to take up her work in January

A LEAGUE OF PROGRESS.

Residents of Livermore Are Out for General Prosperity

The citizens of Livermore have organized what they have styled the Livermore League of Progress. H H Pitcher has been elected chairman and J O McKown secretary. The following committees were appointed. On constitution and by laws R [illegible] Hunter J O McKown and W R Ellis on members Frank Savage Herbert Weymouth and John L Clark. A committee consisting of Dr Savage George Peck and Mr Wagoner was appointed to take steps towards getting a Livermore valley exhibit at the Oakland Exposition

The enthusiasm has extended to the ladies who have also formed an association which will be an adjunct to the Improvement Society. The purposes of it are as follows. For the purpose of agitating for local improvement and prosecuting a general work for the advertising and building up of Livermore Valley hereby signify our willingness to become members of such an organization to be an annex of the Improvement Club"

Hermann, the Great Conjurer, Will Be Here Tonight.

"Taken From Life" Scores Another Success at the Oakland.

Hermann's single [illegible] of all men [illegible] [illegible] at the Oakland [illegible] [illegible] for four nights [illegible] matinee beginning [illegible] Hermann's [illegible] with new additions to the [illegible] puzzled [illegible] him his success [illegible] performances are always the [illegible] crowded attention for they attract the thinker as well as the [illegible] seeker after amusement and contain [illegible] which fascin[illegible].

Hermann returns to again bewilder and surprise with new feats of wonder and [illegible] of fresh marvels [illegible] entertainment [illegible] special attention [illegible] illusions making [illegible] pretentious dramatic and beautiful.

[illegible] illusion [illegible] with his wonderful [illegible] themselves an [illegible] that [illegible] supreme. His [illegible] pour out profusely their treasury [illegible] the most uncalculated and [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] of the village [illegible].

[illegible] the Aztec trunk mystery [illegible] and the Column [illegible] features of the entertainment. Madam [illegible] has a number of new dancing [illegible] which will be sure to prove [illegible] in artistic combination of [illegible] lights and motions.

The sale of seats has been very large and the engagement will be a big success.

THE OAKLAND

THE BALDWIN

[illegible] with its wealth of entertaining novelties in vaudeville and [illegible] of clever actors and singers is drawing the elite of the city. The second week commenced last evening with no diminution in the attendance. [illegible] [illegible] the living pictures and the standard quartette are the main attractions.

THE CALIFORNIA

Robert Downing and his strong company gave a magnificent production of [illegible] at the California last night. Nothing that Downing has ever presented before is equal to this play. The plot is a story of the Italian civil wars of the fourteenth century. It is admirably developed. There will be five performances of [illegible] this week.

THE COLUMBIA

Daniel Sully, that favorite comedian, presented his new play "A Day in June" to a crowded house at the Columbia last night. Sully is as clever as ever and his portrayal of Richard Bryan was fully equal to anything that he has ever made fun with. The [illegible] is excellent.

THE ORPHEUM

To the splendid bill at the Orpheum has been added some new features this week that make the programme more than usually attractive. Clever [illegible] little feature [illegible] with the really clever singers and dancers of the company. The Orpheum offers a splendid evening's entertainment.

THE TIVOLI

Fatinitza, the popular military opera of Von Suppe, was sung last night at the Tivoli to a crowded house. Alice Clark reappeared as Vladimir. The opera was produced with faithful attention to the details of costuming and scenic effect.

MOROSCO'S

"For Revenue Only," one of Milton Nobles' best dramas, is the attraction this week at Morosco's. Both Nobles and his talented wife have strong parts and the cast is well distributed among the excellent supporting company. The play is a satire on a phase of national politics.

THE ALCAZAR

"The Streets of New York" was produced at the Alcazar last night in excellent style. The Grovers have made a big success with their popular place of amusement and this week's programme is equal to the best they have given their patrons.

SHOOTING THE CHUTES

The diversion offered at the chutes near Golden Gate Park is so entirely novel that it is little wonder thousands are attracted to the arena daily. The sport has lost none of its flavor, and the special attractions on Sunday make it a center for much fun. If you have not shot the chutes you are not considered quite up to date.

THE INGLESIDE TRACK

Racing at Ingleside has become one of the big attractions of the city across the bay. The cards are full of interesting events and the contests between the horses are of a high class. The new race course and its superb management have given the sport a fresh impetus.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

SUMMONS.

Department No. 1

CALIFORNIA MUTUAL SAVINGS FUND LOAN AND BUILDING ASSOCIATION OF SAN FRANCISCO, (A CORPORATION), Plaintiff,

JOHN R. GRAY, MARY L. GRAY, A. G. FITCH, CHARLES Z. GRAY, C. L. INGLER, CHARLES CLAUSEN, C. G. KJELLSTROM AS ASSIGNEE OF HERBERT T. SMITH, AN INSOLVENT DEBTOR, G. CASHMORE, A. S. MILLER, T. B. MARSHALL, O. G. FREDRICKSON, HERBERT T. SMITH, JOHN DOE, RICHARD ROE, PETER WHITE, WILLIAM BLACK, ADAM GREEN, JAMES BLUE, MARY DOE, JANE ROE, Defendants.

The People of the State of California send greeting to John R. Gray, Mary L. Gray, A. G. Fitch, Charles Z. Gray, C. L. Ingler, Charles Clausen, C. G. Kjellstrom, as assignee of Herbert T. Smith, an insolvent debtor, G. Cashmore, A. S. Miller, T. B. Marshall, O. G. Fredrickson, Herbert T. Smith, John Doe, Richard Roe, Peter White, William Black, Adam Green, James Blue, Mary Doe, Jane Roe, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Alameda, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons if served within this county, or, if served elsewhere within thirty days.

Said action is brought to foreclose that certain mortgage made by John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray to plaintiff, dated December 31st, 1892, and recorded January 4th, 1893, in the office of the Recorder of the County of Alameda, State of California, in Liber 437 of Mortgages, page 56 et seq., covering that certain real estate situated in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, bounded and described as follows, to wit.

Commencing at a point on the western line of Magnolia street distant thereon one hundred and fifty-four (154) feet and nine (9) inches southerly from the southern line of Twelfth street, and running thence southerly along the said line of Magnolia street twenty-seven (27) feet and four and one half (4½) inches, thence westerly and parallel with Twelfth street one hundred and thirty three (133) feet and three (3) inches, thence northerly and parallel with Magnolia street twenty-seven (27) feet and four and one-half (4½) inches, and thence easterly and parallel with Twelfth street one hundred and thirty three (133) feet and three (3) inches to the point of commencement, together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging.

Also to obtain judgment against the defendants John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray for the sum of $3000 upon the promissory note of said last named defendants to plaintiff dated December 31st, 1892, and secured by said mortgage, with interest thereon from the 12th day of May, 1893, at the rate of eight per cent per annum, compounding monthly, until paid, and for $15 insurance money, with interest thereon at two per cent per month from June 20th, 1894, until paid, all to be paid in United States gold coin, and for costs of this suit and of counsel fees amounting to $263 53-100; also for judgment against said John R. Gray for $45 50-100 fines with legal interest thereon from June 15th, 1894, also for such other sums as may become due from said John R. Gray to plaintiff before the final satisfaction of said mortgage, on account of fines levied against said John R. Gray for delinquencies as holder of stock of plaintiff; also for all such other sums as may become due from said John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray to plaintiff before the final satisfaction of said mortgage, for taxes, assessments, street assessments, liens, sums paid to compromise, purchase or otherwise settle adverse claims to said mortgaged property, or to keep said property insured, with interest on such sums (except the fines) at the rate of two per cent per month from date of payment by plaintiff until repaid.

Also to obtain a decree of said court for the sale of the premises described in said mortgage and of fifteen shares of the capital stock of plaintiff, evidenced by certificate No. 56 of the issue of October 14th, 1892, assigned by said John R. Gray to plaintiff as further security for the fulfillment of the terms and conditions contained in said mortgage and the payment of said promissory note, according to law and the practice of this court, the proceeds of sale to be applied as follows, to wit:

First. In payment of the costs and expenses of this action and the counsel fees allowed therein.

Second. In payment of the amount found due plaintiff for principal and interest upon the promissory note secured by said mortgage.

Third. In payment of all fines due, or which may become due, from said defendant John R. Gray.

Fourth. In payment of all sums advanced or which may hereafter before the satisfaction of said mortgage, be advanced by plaintiff to pay taxes, assessments, street assessments, or liens which may be laid upon or attach to said property, to compromise, purchase or otherwise settle adverse claims to the mortgaged property, or to keep said property insured, with interest on such sums at the rate of two per cent per month from date of payment by plaintiff until repaid.

Also to obtain an order from said court appointing a receiver to collect the rents of said property and apply the proceeds thereof to the payment of any deficit remaining upon the debt after the sale.

Also to obtain a decree of said court forever barring and foreclosing the defendants, and each of them, and all persons claiming under them, or any or either of them, subsequent to the execution of said mortgage, either as purchasers, attaching creditors, incumbrancers, or otherwise, of all right, claim or equity of redemption in or to said premises, and any and every part thereof, or in said stock and any and every part thereof.

Also to obtain judgment against said defendants John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray for any deficiency which may remain unpaid of the amount found due upon said promissory note and mortgage for principal and interest, or for fines or sums advanced by plaintiff in accordance with the terms of said mortgage after applying all the proceeds of the sale of said stock and premises properly applicable to the satisfaction of the same.

Also to obtain a decree of said court permitting plaintiff to become a purchaser at the sale of said stock and said premises or either of them, ordering the commissioner to execute an assignment of said stock to the purchaser thereof, ordering the commissioner to execute a deed of said premises to the purchaser thereof, and empowering said purchaser to enter into possession of said premises upon production of said commissioner's deed; also to obtain such other and further relief as may be meet and just.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer to said complaint as above required said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief in said complaint demanded.

Given under my hand and the seal of Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Alameda this 23d day of June, A. D. 1894.

THE HEALTH BOARD BEATEN.

DOCTORS ARGUE IN VAIN.

No Appropriation Will Be Allowed for the Exposition.

A WATER FRONT DISPUTE.

Davie's Action at Harrison Street Not Yet Endorsed.

For the first time since the debating on the tax levy there was a division in the Council at its meeting last night. It was not the heated discussions of tax levy times, when the lie was freely given and even fight talked, but the arguments were a little more forcibly delivered than is usual with the even-tempered City Council. It was all over the Smilie Bros.' suit against certain city officers for damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the late Harrison street opening. The resolution which provoked the discussion was the last matter of business attended to before adjournment.

The meeting opened with an explanation from Dow. He said that at the previous session he had voted on a resolution censuring the Board of Public Works for not attending to certain requests and directions from the Council. "I did not know the character of the resolution when I voted," he explained "or I should not have voted as I did for I am not in sympathy with such a thing. I procrastinate too often myself to censure any one else for it."

THE CONSUMPTION ORDINANCE.

Dow, while still on the floor, moved that as several members of the Board of Health were present to explain why they had requested the passage of an ordinance requiring the reporting of cases of certain diseases to the Board of Health they be heard. The proposed ordinance was the same as the one now in effect except that consumption is added to the list of diseases of which the health office must be notified.

The ordinance was read and to get it properly before the Council Towle moved its adoption. Before this question was put Dr. Mayon, the City Health Officer, made a little speech in support of the proposed law. He first read the paper on pulmonary tuberculosis delivered before the Board of Health and printed in the Tribune. He said that similar ordinances are in force in New York, Boston and other large Eastern cities and he thought it would be a salutory measure for Oakland.

Dr. C. M. Fisher also of the Board of Health, spoke. He talked of the contagiousness of the disease and said that there were 300 consumptives arriving on this coast daily from the East. He explained that it was not the purpose of the Board of Health to quarantine any house in which a consumptive patient might be stopping, but merely to send to such patient or his family a circular similar to the one read by Dr. Mayon with no desire to treat the disease beyond preventing, if possible, its contagion.

Dr. Mrs. Shirey wanted to stop gentlemen from expectorating on the streets as much as possible and thought we were behind Philadelphia because there there is a spitting ordinance. She also told of the hotels in Europe where a person afflicted with consumption is compelled to pay enough to cover the expense of the bedding used by him, which is burned after his departure. She said that there are 400 deaths daily in the United States from consumption.

Dr. Akerly thought that inasmuch as there was an ordinance relating to consumption in the lower animals there should be one to protect man.

"From your statement," said Dr. Buckland, "am I to infer that you would treat human beings as you would cattle—kill them simply because they have tuberculosis. I feel confident that I express the opinion of the medical profession of this city when I say that we do not want this ordinance. There is nothing to prevent the Health Office sending out their circulars if they so desire. I think this is but a covered way of the Board of Health to lead the city into a vast expense. If the circulars are all they want the Council will have no objection and an ordinance is not necessary."

Bassett agreed with Buckland as he felt that such a law would work a hardship on the poor classes and that in the end it meant quarantine for the consumptives.

Dr. Mayon was a little angry when he arose to deny Bucpkland's charge that it was a covered way of the board to get money from the Council. In regard to Bassett's statement that it meant quarantine in the end, he said there was no intention of such a proceeding and called attention to several diseases which are at present included in the list of those reported to the Health Office in which no action is taken other than the visiting of houses in which the disease exists and making an examination of the sanitation, plumbing, etc.

The roll was called and the Health Office lost, the vote being as follows:

Ayes—Dow, Marshall, Mott, Towle and President Manuel—5.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were then disposed of as follows:

From M. K. Miller reporting that certain work had been done. Street committee.

From the Board of Public Works stating that the Piedmont & Mountain View Railway Company had not completed the work of repairing their rails. Street committee.

From the street superintendent reporting that Adams street had been cleared of all obstructions. Street committee.

From City Engineer Wilson in relation to condition of Clay street from Eighth to Fourteenth street reporting that it should be recurbed and regraded. Street committee.

From W. S. Dunlevy, asking to be released from contract to sewer Twenty-eighth street from Ninth to Thirteenth avenue. Street committee.

From the Twenty-third Avenue District Improvement Association to open an alley between East Fifteenth and East Sixteenth street. Street committee.

From R. M. Weithe to withdarw from the petition to sewer Eleventh street from Harrison to Alice. Street committee.

MONEY FOR CITY EMPLOYES.

Resolved, That the salaries of the officers and employes of the differnt departments of the city of Oakland, including street sprinklers, street laborers and sewer flushers and the employes of the fire alarm and police telegraph for the month of December, 1895, be and the same are hereby ordered paid on and after the 23d inst. The auditor is hereby instructed to draw his warrants for the same.

The Councilmen looked as though they felt like so many Santa Clauses when they all voted aye on the motion to suspend the rules and then unanimously voted to pass the resolution to give the city's servants their December's pay in time to buy Christmas gifts, turkey plum pudding and other holiday affairs.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were adopted without debate:

Directing the City Attorney to bring an action against the Pacific Postal Company for ground rent on poles.

Directing the City Attorney to prepare an ordinance forfeiting the franchise of Welles Whitmore et al.

Appropriating $50 from the general fund to pay expenses of suits against the city.

Ordering paid the bills of L. Donahoo L. Kehoe and S. Martin.

Rescinding the resolution to sewer Eleventh street from Harrison to Alice streets.

Directing the Superintendent of Streets to employ when necessary a foreman for street work at not more than $4 per day.

Directing the City Attorney to have an abstract made of the property at the foot of Twelfth street between the old shore line and the railroad.

Fixing Monday January 6, 1896, at 9 o'clock as the time for hearing the appeal of the Pacific Paving Company.

Directing the Board of Public Works to have a sidewalk lowered at the corner of Goss and Wood streets.

Ordering sewer work on Newton avenue.

Directing the Oakland Gas Light and Heat Company to remove the light in the city hall park band stand.

The following were read for the first time and referred to the various committees:

Ordering street work on Cedar street sewer from Seventh to William street. Street committee.

Instructing the Board of Public Works to instruct the Superintendent of Streets to notify the Piedmont Cable Company to remove basalt blocks. Street committee.

Directing the City Engineer to do engineering work on Webster street for the sewer extension. Street committee.

To reconstruct culvert at Thirteenth and Franklin streets. Street committee.

Rescinding the resolution to grade, curb and macadamize the south half of East Fifteenth street near Second avenue. Street committee.

Instructing the Superintendent of Streets to notify the Oakland Railway Company to pave the space between their tracks with asphalt. Street committee.

Transferring $5000 from the general fund to the street light fund. Auditing and finance committee.

Ayes—Bassett, Brosnahan, Mot and Watkinson—4

The resolution for the city to guarantee payment of any expenses which might be incurred in the opening of Linden street provoked a little discussion. The Councilmen did not like the idea of paying the secretary of the commission, as they thought him sufficiently compensated by his salary of secretary of the Board of Public Works.

City Attorney Peirsol explained that the duties of the secretary of the Board of Public Works did not include the secretaryship of a street opening commission. He furthermore said that Mr. Kaufman, the secretary, had refused to go ahead with the work unless he was assured his pay.

Towle thought that several other street openings hang on this one and was in favor of going ahead.

Manuel thought the property owners would make no contest and Dow would a little rather have some other city take the case to the courts and give Oakland the benefit of the experience.

Bassett moved the pasage of the resolution and all voted aye except himself and Buckland

LIQUOR LICENSES.

C. Murphy, 501 San Pablo avenue; W. Mullins, Fourteenth and Center streets, and Calusick & Anderson, 475 Seventh street, were granted permission to obtain liquor licenses

The liquor license bonds of John H. Tamm, 1752 Seventh street; A. Olander, 625 Twelfth street and F. Couran, 413 Fourteenth street, were referred to the License committee.

ORDINANCES.

The following ordinances were passed to print:

Repealing the ordinances regulating the holding of public meetings on any public street within the fire limits. Mott, Towle and President Manuel voted no.

Regulating the numbering of certain buildings, etc.

To protect the parks of the city

THE HARRISON STREET AFFAIR.

The last matter of the evening was the resolution ratifying the action of the Mayor and Board of Public Works in their actions in the Harrison street opening.

City Attorney Peirsol was the first to talk. He explained that he had heard that the street was at one time open to the water front or he never would have voted to instruct the street superintendent to keep it open.

Manuel led the opposition. He had an old map of 1852, which he tacked upon the blackboard. He talked of the Peralta grant patent lines and high and low water marks. He based his opinion on the map, which showed that the city only owned to the high tide line, and he was opposed to the city assuming any responsibility unless further evidence was produced. He suggested that a committee of three be appointed to investigate and report at the next meeting of the Council.

Bassett explained that the water front suit touched this property as it took in from Webster to Alice. He was for supporting the resolution, as he thought Harrison street had been used for many years to the water front and had only been fenced in by the railroad company within the past year and a half.

"It's all a guess," said Dow, "and we ought to guess with the city. In every turn of the water front fight we ought to assert our rights."

"I am in favor of opening all streets to the water front," explained Brosnahan, "but I don't want to take a shot at the moon on a proposition of this kind without more evidence. I am in favor of referring it to the city attorney."

"We want to back up the board," replied Dow. "It is not alone the Mayor but the Board of Public Works who are interested."

"Don't think that I go into a fight with the Mayor," said Brosnahan. "I am out for what's best. "I have got no club up my sleeve for Davie or anyone else."

"All but the Council are in the suit," said Bassett, "and we ought to back the city officers."

"For God's sake, boys, let us stay with the branch of the city government that opened the street. We'll do it in the long run," said Watkinsor

"I don't know about that," said Manuel, "anyhow I think if the Mayor was sincere when he sent this resolution he would have sent some data for the Council to base an opinion on. I don't want to let any personal feeling influence me in this matter, though."

This remark made Bassett a little angry. "Nobody said anything about being in touch with the Mayor in this matter. It is a question of being in touch with the city," he said.

While Bassett was getting his breath to say something else Towle jumped into the breach with a motion that when they adjourn they do so to meet next Monday. This shut off debate, and when the motion had been put and carried everything seemed to have cooled down.

The roll was called on Towle's amendment, that is to send the matter to a special committee to be appointed by the chair, and the vote stood: Ayes—Buckland, Brosnahan, Capell, Heitmann, Marshall, Mott, Towle and Manuel—8. Noes—Bassett, Dow and Watkinson—3.

Mott had occupied the chair during the Harrison street discussion, and he appointed as a committee Councilmen Manuel, Towle and Watkinson.

A PROMENADE CONCERT.

An Approved Plan for the Entertainment of the Teachers.

The Oakland school teachers have decided upon a plan to entertain the teachers of the State convention, which meets in Oakland during the first week of January. Many projects have been mooted, among them a theater party, but all have been waived in favor of the present plan. This is to tender a reception and promenade concert to the visitors in the High school building. The spacious halls and rooms will be decorated and brilliantly lighted for the occasion. A good band will be hired to furnish music. Light refreshments will be served in the gymnasium, after which speeches will be in order.

Every endeavor will be made to enable the guests to enjoy themselves, and in this the teachers hope to be successful. The promenade concert will be held on Thursday, the second day of January.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. WAR WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

VENEZUELA THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

GROVER SAYS SHE SHALL.

A Belligerently Worded Message Is Sent by Cleveland Today to Congress.

WE MUST NOT BACK DOWN.

Tumultuous Demonstrations of Approval on the Reading of the Proclamation.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The President sent the following message today:

"To Congress: In my annual message addressed to Congress on the 3d inst. I called attention to the pending boundary controversy between Great Britain and the republic of Venezuela, and recited the substance of the representation made by this government to her Britannic Majesty's government suggesting the reasons why such disputes should be submitted to arbitration for settlement and inquiring whether it be so submitted.

"The answer of the British government, which was then awaited, has since been received, and, together with the dispatch to which it is a reply, is hereto appended.

"Such a reply is embodied in two communications addressed by the British Prime Minister to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at this capital.

"It will be seen that one of these communications is devoted exclusively to observations upon the Monroe doctrine and claims that in the present instance the new and strange extension and development of this doctrine is insisted upon by the United States, and that the reasons justifying the appeal to the doctrine enunciated by President Monroe are generally inapplicable 'to the state of things in which we live at the present day,' and especially inapplicable to the controversy involving the boundary line between Great Britain and Venezuela.

"Without extended arguments in reply to these positions it may not be amiss to suggest that the doctrine upon which we stand is strong and sound because its enforcement is important to our peace and safety as a nation, and is essential to the integrity of our free institutions and the tranquil maintenance of our distinctive form of government.

It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life and cannot become obsolete while our republic endures.

"If the balance of power is justly a cause for jealous anxiety among the governments of the old world and the subject for our absolute non-interference, none the less is the observance of the Monroe doctrine of vital concern to our people and their government.

"Assuming, therefore, that we may properly insist upon the doctrine without regard to the state of things in which we live, or any change of conditions here or elsewhere, it is not apparent why its application may not be invoked in the present controversy.

"If the European power by extension of its boundaries takes possession of the territory of one of our neighboring republics against its will, and in derogation of its rights, it is difficult to see why, to that extent, such a European power does not thereby attempt to extend its system of government to that portion of this continent which is thus taken.

"This is the precise action which President Monroe declared to be 'dangerous to our peace and safety,' and it can make no difference who the European system is extended by an advance of frontier or otherwise.

SALISBURY'S ARGUMENT.

"It is also suggested in the British reply that we should not seek to apply the Monroe doctrine to the pending dispute, because it does not embody any principle of international law which 'is founded on the general consent of nations,' and 'that no statesman however eminent and no nation however powerful are competent to insert into the code of international law a novel principle which was never recognized before and which has not since been accepted by the government of any other country.'

"Practically the principle for which we contend has a peculiar, if not an exclusive relation to the United States.

"It may not have been admitted in so many words to the code of international law, but since in international councils every nation is entitled to the rights belonging to it, if the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine is something we may justly claim, it has its place in the code of international law as certainly and as securely as if it were specifically mentioned, and when the United States is a suitor before the high tribunal that administers international law, the question to be determined is whether or not we present claims which the justice of that code of law can find to be right and valid.

"The Monroe doctrine finds its recognition in those principles of international law which are based upon the theory that every nation shall have its rights protected and its just claim enforced. Of course this government is entirely confident that under the sanction of this doctrine we have clear rights and undoubted claims.

"Nor is this ignored in the British reply. The prime minister, while not admitting that the Monroe doctrine is not applicable to the present conditions, states, 'In declaring that the United States would resist any such enterprise if it was contemplated, President Monroe adopted a policy which received the entire sympathy of the English government of that date.'

"He further declares: 'Though the language of President Monroe is directed to the attainment of objects which most Englishmen would agree to be statutory, it is impossible to admit that they have been inscribed by any adequate authority in the code of international law.'

"Again he says: 'They (Her Majesty's government) fully concur with the view which President Monroe apparently entertained that any disturbance of existing territorial distribution in that hemisphere by any fresh acquisition on the part of any European state would be highly inexpedient to change.'

"In the belief that the doctrine for which we contend was clear and definite, that it was founded upon substantial considerations and involved our safety and welfare, that it is fully applicable to our present condition and to the state of the world's progress and that it was directly related to the pending controversy and without any connection as to the final merits of the dispute, but anxious to learn in satisfactory and conclusive manner whether Great Britain sought, under claim of boundary to extend her possessions on this continent without right or whether she merely sought possession of territory fairly included within her lines of ownership, this government proposed to the government of Great Britain to resort to arbitration as a proper means of settling the question to the end that the vexatious boundary dispute between the two contestants might be determined and our exact standing and relation in respect to the controvery might be made clear.

"It will be seen from correspondence herewith submitted that this proposition has been declined by the British government upon grounds which under the circumstances seem to me to be far from satisfactory.

"It is deeply disappointing that such an appeal, actuated by the most friendly feelings toward both nations directly concerned, addressed to a sense of justice and to the magnanimity of one of the great powers of the world and touching its relations to one comparatively weak and small, should have produced no better results.

WHAT WE MUST DO.

"The course to be pursued by this government, in view of the present conditions, does not appear to admit of serious doubt.

"Having labored faithfuly for many years to induce Great Britain to submit this dispute to impartial arbitration, and having been now finally apprised of her refusal to do so, nothing remains but to accept the situation, to recognize its plain requirements and deal with it accordingly.

"Great Britain's present proposition has never thus far been regarded as admissible by Venezuela, though any adjustment of boundary which that country may deem for her advantage, and may enter into of her own free will cannot of course be objected to by the United States.

"Assuming, however, that the attitude of Venezuela will remain unchanged, the dispute has reached such a stage as to make it now incumbent upon the United States to take measures to determine with sufficient certainty for its justification what is the true divisional line between the republic of Venezuela and British Guinea.

"Inquiry to that end should of course be conducted carefully and judicially, and due weight should be given to all available evidence, records, and the facts in support of the claims of both parties.

"In order that such an examination should be prosecuted in a thorough and satisfactory manner, I suggest that Congress make an adequate appropriation for the expenses of a commission to be appointed by the executive, who shall make the necessary investigation and report upon the matter with the least possible delay.

"When such report is made and accepted it will, in my opinion, be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power as lawful aggression upon its rights and interests the appropriation by Great Britain of any lands or the exercise of governmental jurisdiction over any territory which after investigation we have determined of right belonging to Venezuela.

GRAVITY OF THE SITUATION.

"In making these recommendations I am fully alive to the responsibility incurred and fully realize all the consequences that may follow.

"I am nevertheless, firm in my conviction that while it is a grevious thing to contemplate the two great English speaking people of the world as being otherwise than friendly competitors in the onward march of civilization, and strenuous and worthy rivals in all the arts of peace, there is no calamity which a great nation can invite which equals that which follows supine submission to wrong and injustice and the consequent loss of national self respect and honor, beneath which is shielded and defended the people's safety and greatness

"(Signed) GROVER CLEVELAND.

RECEIVED WITH APPLAUSE.

Republican Senators Enthusiastic When the Message Is Read.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The President's message reached the Senate about 12:30. Senator Morgan, chairman of the committee on foreign relations examined the message and then moved to go into executive session. At 12:10 the doors were closed.

At 1 o'clock the Senate resumed legislative session and the message of the President was laid before the Senate.

The executive session, it was explained officially, had been devoted to the consideration of nominations.

There was hardly a vacant seat on the Republican side, and but few absentees on the Democratic side.

As the reading closed there was hearty hand clapping from all quarters of the chamber Chandler, Rep., of New Hampshire, leading in the demontration on the Republican side.

The message and the accompanying documents were referred to the committee on foreign relations and at 1:15 P. M. the Senate adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE.

Demonstration by Both Parties Over the Monroe Doctrine.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The House devoted itself today to discussing the proposition to have two election committees instead of one, the Venezuelan message meanwhile lying unopened.

This caused Crisp to exclaim, "There is an important message from the President relating to eVnezuela lying on that table, and yet this Republican Congress enters upon partisan action, delaying consideration of the President's message."

Hulick, Rep., of Ohio was quickly on his feet, with the inquiry, "Is it this House or the President's ducking excursion that has delayed the message on the Venezuelan question?"

There was a round of laughter and applause from the Republican side.

"There is the message," proceeded Crisp. "It lies unheede. And yet is a frank, honest and manly support of the Monroe Doctrine."

Senator Dubois today introduced a bill to make Indians subject to game laws in the Several States. The bill is designed to prevent any such trouble as occurred with the Bannocks at Jackson's Hole last summer.

University Football Men Are Afraid of Professional Taint.

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—At the last meeting of the executive committee of the Athletic Association of the University of California resolutions were adopted requesting that students of the institution refrain in the future from playing on teams maintained by athletic clubs. The passage of these resolutions marks the recognition, as far as the University of California is concerned, of the fact that the athletic clubs resent the tendency toward professionalism which threatens the game of football in America. Caspar W. Whitney, the great authority on all branches of amateur sport, has been untiring in his efforts to prevent games between the colleges and athletic clubs in the East, and he has lately had his attention attracted to this side of the continent. The medium possessed by Mr. Whitney for the expression of his opinion place him in a position to speak with authority.

The action of the Butte team in securing prominent men from Denver and the Reliance Club has served to make the college men, whose greatest wish it is to keep football free from the deteriorating effects of professionalism, extremely chary about playing with or against the local or the Montana elevens. The game which is to come off Saturday between these two teams will, in all probability, be avoided by University men. Not only has the University team refused to meet the Butte team because of this college sentiment, but individual players have declined to play with the Reliance. Ransome and Sherman were both asked to take positions with the team to which they formally belonged, but both refused.

The reason given was that in a former game Sherrard of the Reliance kicked Ransome in the head. This undoubtedly was a strong factor in determining their action, but it is also quite evident that they were loathe to play with any team in the face of the resolution spoken of above, embodying, as they do, the sentiment of the whole student body.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

An extremely interesting article in the University of California Magazine, which appeared yesterday, is a review of Miss Coolbrith's recent volume of poems, entitled "Songs from the Golden Gate," by Chas. Keeler, U. C. '93. Mr. Keeler has, himself, written considerable poetry, which has been well received. Notable among his productions is a very appreciative sonnet of Prof. Joe Le Conte, which appeared in the first number of the magazine. A review of the work of one local poet by another cannot fail to be of interest to many people

Another feature of the number is a recently discovered poem by Edward Rowland Sill, once instructor in English in the Oakland High school, and later professor of English language and literature in the University.

Examinations are now in full force. They will be over by the end of this week.

At a recent meeting of the faculty it was decided to hold entrance examinations in January and August hereafter, instead of in May and August, as heretofore.

It is a noteworthy fact that the classes of Prof. Le Conte are as well attended as any in the college, in spite of the fact that he never calls the roll.

HAYS IS NOW IN CHARGE

An Outline of What the Policy Is to Be In the Future.

Jack Hays, the new superintendent of the State Home for the Adult Blind, will be formally installed this afternoon. There will be a meeting of the directors at 4:30 and at it Joseph Saunders, who for eight years has held the superintendency, will turn over the books to his successor.

Superintendent Hays was in the office of the institution this morning. His valise was on the floor, his trunk will be sent over in the morning and for the next two years, possibly longer he will live on the premises.

There are eighteen minor positions connected with the home. A Tribune representative called upon him this morning to find our what changes if any would be made.

"It is a little too soon for me to say anything," said Mr. Hays. "I have hardly got located yet. Of course I shall look into the work of every one connected with this place, and when I see I can improve upon an assistant, I shall do so. I have been out here since last Friday, taking stock, familiarizing myself with my new duties and keeping an eye on the help. I have not as yet made known an intension of making any changes. The home has never been self-supporting, but I shall try to make it as nearly so as possible. I am going to conduct the affairs on regular business principles, and hope to have a successful administration."

Jack Hays is a Native Son, having been born in San Francisco in 1852. He is the son of Col. Jack Hays, an officer in the Southern army, Indian fighter, and first Sheriff of San Francisco. It was during his father's term of office that Jack Jr. was born, and the first few years of his life were spent in San Francisco. But the city grew and got too metropolitan for the frontiersmen and he bought a ranch in the foothills back of Oakland. It was here that young Jack spent his boyhood days. He attended the Oakland Public Schools and averaged well with his class mates. When he grew to man's estate he followed the foot steps of his father and became a farmer. He purchased a ranch in Tulare county in 1882 and up to three years ago he lived there. His father who had lived a long life of usefulness, died and John was wanted at home. He disposed of his interests in the south and returned to live with his mother. While he was away the farm had been sold to William J. Dingee and is now his home. The Hays family bought from Mr. Dingee their beautiful home on Central avenue in Alameda and they have since resided there.

UTAH'S STATEHOOD FIGHT.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The proceedings in the House were opened by Cannon, Rep., of Illinois offering a resolution for consideration tomorrow of an amendment to the rules for an increase of the membership of the leading committee from fifteen to seventeen (number in last House), and for the creation of an additional committee on elections.

The resolution was adopted after Crisp stated that the minority would not object to an increased membership, but certainly would oppose the creation of an additional election committee.

Flynn, Rep., of Oklahoma asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Interior to inform the House as to reasons for the delay in the apointment of allotipng agents to allot lands to the Wichita Indians and whether any blood connections of the Secretary of the Interior were interested in delaying the opening of those lands to settlement.

McMillin Dem., thought the resolution was not drawn in the usual form. While he was examining it Fynn called out: "It don't affect any of your importations into Oklahoma."

"I don't make importations," replied McMillin sharply.

"Well, Hoke Smith does for you," returned Flynn.

McMillin protested this was not the occasion for levity. He pointed out a defect in the resolution and at Flynn's request the words "if not incompatible with public interests," were inserted.

Flynn made a brief explanation. He declared the alloting agents required by law had not been appointed.

"It is a well known fact," said he, "Hoke Smith has a lot of relations who are profiting by the delay in this matter. They are acting as attorneys for the Indians."

His attack on the Secretary of the Interior was bitter. He said among other things that he had seen today a contract by which a man was to receive $2700 if he could prevent Secretary Smith from ratifying the agreement.

Cooper, Dem., of Florida, denounced Flynn's "extraordinary speech." He protested Flynn had indulged in language concerning a member of the Cabinet unbecoming a member of the House and eulogized Secretary Smith as a man who stood as high before the American people as any man on this floor.

Flynn replied with some temper. He admitted he had feelings in the matter and explained the cause of it in his trip to Washington last Spring. He had come 1400 miles to see the president and find out why Secretary Smith had not complied with the law. He had written Cleveland for an audience and waited in vain for a week to see him. He had appealed to Secretary Smith and to the commissioners of the land office but to no avail.

Flynn then demanded the previous question.

The resolution was adopted without division.

UTAH'S HOPES.

The New Constitution Formally Presented to the President.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Governor West of Utah today escorted to the White House and presented to the President Messrs. Letcher and Sherman, commissioners appointed to deliver to him the certified copy of the constitution adopted by the new State, and a statement of the vote by which the constitution was adopted.

The constitution was in a gold-bound volume encased in morocco.

The President has submitted the documents to the Secretary of State for examination, and if it is found that the proceedings were in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress providing for the admission of the State, and the new constitution also complies with the requirements, the President will issue his proclamation declaring Utah a member of the family of States.

Besides the commissioners there were in the party Colonel Trumbo, delegate Cannon and John W. Burton, of Salt Lake City.

Mr. Letcher, in submitting the constitution, said: "In compliance with the law we are here to present to you the constitution ratified by the people of Utah under the enabling act of Congress and to ask at your hands the consideration which it demands."

The President responded, congratulating the people of Utah upon the progress they had made, and said he would examine the documents and see if all requirements of the law had been complied with, and that he would give the matter of issuing a proclamation his immediate attention. The President remarked:

"There has been considerable change of sentiment in Utah during the past few years. I am glad to see it and congratulate the people of Utah."

Secretary Thurber promised to inform Utah citizens a few days in advance of the issuance of the proclamation, so that Utah courts might not be impeded in the transaction of business. There will necessarily be a change in court's procedure when Utah becomes a State.

Territorial officers of Utah also requested that the proclamation be not issued before the first of January, so they might settle up their accounts and make reports for the full calendar year.

Secretary Thurber especially congratulated Colonel Trumbo upon the result of the efforts for statehood made by Utah citizens.

The delegation left the White House with the belief that the proclamation will be issued about the first of the year.

The law provides that Utah shall become a State on the first Monday after the issuance of the President's proclamation.

THE SENATE.

Wool Growers Want the McKinley Bill in Force Again.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — Quay (Rep., Pa.) to-day presented to the Senate a petition of the Wool Merchants' Association of Philadelphia and asked that it be read and inserted in the record.

"That is a bad example" interposed Sherman; "What is this petition?"

"It asks," responded Quay, with a malicious smile, "that the wool schedule of the McKinley Act be re-enacted as a law."

Sherman joined in the general smile.

"Certainly there could be no objection to that," said he.

The petition was thereupon read.

Pfeffer (Pop., Kan.) offered a resolution calling on the Post Office Department for information as to the practice of imposing fines on employes; also as to restrictions placed on postal employes against conferring with Senators and members regarding legislation. The resolution was referred.

Caffery (Dem., La.) offered a resolution which was agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to reasons for suspending the payment of bounty to the manufacturers of sugar.

Gallinger's (Rep., N. H.) resolution calling for a report from all government departments as to the number of aliens employed, was referred to the Committee on Civil Service Reform.

Stewart (Pop., Nev.) addressed the Senate on pending resolution for a commission to investigate the needs of labor and agriculture, predicting an invasion of products of oriental lands, in competition with our domestic products. Agents of Japanese manufacturers, he said, were now in the United States selling goods at prices far below the cost of production in United States, offering bicycles of Japanese make at $12 each, and parlor matches, doors, sash, blinds, cooperage stock and hats, gloves, and wearing apparel at 50 per cent below domestic price. Japan had taken the initiative, but China would follow.

HELD UP A CAR.

HE FLOURISHED A PISTOL.

A Motorman and Passenger Compelled to Disgorge.

BUT LITTLE WAS SECURED.

It Occurred at the Junction of Two Busy Streets.

The lone highwayman has commenced work for the winter in the suburbs of the city. He inaugurated the season by a particularly bold deed yesterday on a car of the Lorin branch of the Telegraph avenue electric road. The corner of Alcatraz and Telegraph avenues was the scene of the daring robbery, which did not net the highwayman as much as he anticipated.

The locality was very favorable for the commission of the crime, for it is rather desolate at that point and there is plenty of room for a footpad to operate and make his escape before warning can be sent to the officers.

Car No. 61, in charge of W. B. Hamilton, was selected by the highwayman. The car was standing at the junction of the avenues about 12:30 o'clock this morning, and Hamilton, who performs the duties both of conductor and motorman, was waiting the outbound train line car from Oakland. He was discussing the weather with his only passenger thus far, Frank Dixon, a farmer at Lorin, who was belated, and who was congratulating himself that he had not missed the last car to the other end of the line.

While they were talking a shadowy form moved out of the darkness and then a man boarded the front end of the car. Before Hamilton and Dixon had an opportunity to murmur they were looking down the barrel of a gleaming revolver and into a masked face that was visible behind the shining weapon. The two surprised men had their hands in the air in anticipation of the stern command, "Throw up your hands!" which immediately followed the entrance of the undesirable visitor into the car.

The pistol did not quiver in the highwayman's hands as he demanded the contents of his victims' pockets.

"Dig up your stuff," he ordered sternly, "and be quick about it. I have not got much time to fool away waiting."

HELD UP THEIR HANDS.

Hamilton and Dixon lost no time in heeding the stern command, and they were thoroughly imbued with the idea that the masked footpad meant business. They knew that it was a lonesome neighborhood, and if they resisted and were shot, the robber would stand a splendid chance to escape. Besides, they were not risking their heads for the few paltry dollars that their impetuous caller wanted.

So Hamilton scraped together $4.15 in dimes, nickles and quarters and turned them over as gracefully as he could under the circumstances to the man with the gun.

Dixon was not backward in ransacking his pockets, which yielded $3.05 that went to the masked robber. There they stood in fear and trembling lest the footpad should become angered at the small return and take a shot at them for luck. But he did not further molest his victims. As soon as he had dropped the coin into his pockets, the masked highwayman dropped off the car. He warned Hamilton and Dixon not to follow him under penalty of death. They were not anxious to test his marksmanship, so he was allowed to disappear in the neighboring fields without molestation.

When Hamilton turned in his car at the power house soon afterward he reported the robbery to the superintendent, who immediately notified the sheriff.

There was little to be done, however, for the robber had a good start of any officers. The watchmen at Lorin were notified, but no clew to the bold robber was located.

Hamilton and Dixon had a good opportunity to see the fellow, as the car was well lighted and he stood very near them. They could not distinguish any of his features, because of the black mask he wore. This concealed his face from view entirely, but they did get a glimpse, which showed he had a prominent nose. The robber was, according to the description furnished the sheriff, about 5 feet 7½ inches tall and weighed 150 pounds. He wore a dark slouch hat, a dark sack coat and overalls, through which a pair of trousers could be seen in the ragged holes about the knees. He appeared to have dark hair. Hamilton said the robber spoke with a slight foreign accent, which he judged was Italian.

His revolver was about 8 inches long. When it was displayed before the surprised men it seemed as big as a flour barrel.

Hamilton found upon reaching the carhouse this morning that the robber had secured $1.10 from his private exchequer and $3.05 belonging to the railroad company.

A full description of the robber has been furnished the police of Oakland, the Berkeley, Lorin and Golden Gate officers and Sheriff White has detailed two deputies to assist in the search for the daring highwayman.

Two respectable Englishmen of Calcutta fought a duel with dumb bells recently. After spending a pleasant evening with their families they got into a quarrel, and were seen fighting by a native servant. One was killed by a dumb bell, whereupon the other blew out his brains with a revolver.

The trial of Louis Gordon, shirt manufacturer, in New York for contracting for the burning of his own premises, shows that he retained professional incendiaries for the work as one would a lawyer. The fee was $1,500, to be divided among three men, one of whom, an insurance adjuster named Milch, turned State's evidence.

The Empress of Austria intends giving up much of the violent exercise which she has persisted in for so many years, and is about to assume a role that her age suggests as more suitable. Her health is very uncertain, and her figure, upon which she prides herself, is losing some of its beauties of contour. Her majesty at one time boasted of a waist of only twenty inches in circumference—the smallest in Europe—and claimed that it was not the product of the corset, but of swinging by her hands from a trapeze bar.

Miss Ellen Emerson says that she remembers well the day when her father, the Concord philosopher, set out to propose marriage to her step-mother. "The liveryman seemed to know," she adds, "that it was a special occasion, and the horse and buggy which he gave father was made garish by a pair of bright yellow reins. Poor father looked so disconcerted. He pleaded gently for something less conspicuous; but the man was obdurate. I can see him now, driving off with those glaring reins hanging loosely over the horse's back."

More big game was killed in the Maine forests during October and November this year than during October, November and December of last year. So far as shown by the records kept by the railroads which carry the game killed by the hunters, 1,170 deer, 74 moose, and 68 caribou were killed during October and November this year, while during the three hunting months of last year only 1,001 deer, 45 moose, and 50 caribou were killed.

The Rev. John Jasper is as firmly convinced as ever that the sun moves round the earth and that the earth doesn't move at all. He preached his famous "sun-do-move" sermon to an audience of 200 white folk in Mount Zion Church, Richmond, Va., last Sunday, and was more than ever scornful toward the scientists and emphatic in his arguments for the liberal acceptance of Biblical texts bearing on the point. "When you rise and when you sets down, don't you move? Den how could de sun rise and go down 'thout movin'?" he argues.

WAR WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

VENEZUELA THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

GROVER SAYS SHE SHALL.

A Belligerently Worded Message Is Sent by Cleveland Today to Congress.

WE MUST NOT BACK DOWN.

Tumultuous Demonstrations of Approval on the Reading of the President.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The President sent the following message today:

"To Congress: In my annual message addressed to Congress on the 3d inst. I called attention to the pending boundary controversy between Great Britain and the republic of Venezuela, and recited the substance of the representation made by this government to her Britannic Majesty's government suggesting the reasons why said disputes should be submitted to arbitration for settlement and inquiring whether it is so submitted.

"The answer of the British government, which was then awaited, has since been received and, together with the dispatch to which it is a reply, is herewith submitted.

"Such a reply is embodied in two communications addressed by the British Prime Minister to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at this capital.

"It will be seen that one of these communications is devoted exclusively to observations upon the Monroe doctrine and claims that in the present instance the new and strange extension and development of this doctrine is insisted upon by the United States and that the reasons justifying the appeal to the doctrine enunciated by President Monroe are generally inapplicable 'to the state of things in which we live at the present day,' and especially inapplicable to the controversy between the boundary line between Great Britain and Venezuela.

Without extended arguments in reply to these positions it may not be amiss to suggest that the doctrine upon which we stand is right, and sound because its enforcement is important to our peace and safety as a nation, and is essential to the integrity of our free institutions and the tranquil maintenance of our distinctive form of government.

It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life and cannot become obsolete while our republic endures.

"If the balance of power is justly a cause for jealous anxiety among the governments of the old world and the subject for our absolute non-interference, none the less is the observance of the Monroe doctrine of vital concern to our people and their government.

"Assuming, therefore, that we may properly insist upon the doctrine without regard to the state of things in which we live, or any change of conditions here or elsewhere, it is not apparent why its application may not be invoked in the present controversy.

"If the European power by extension of its boundaries takes possession of the territory of one of our neighboring republics against its will, and in derogation of its rights, it is difficult to see why, to that extent, such a European power does not thereby attempt to extend its system of government to that portion of this continent which is thus taken.

"This is the precise action which President Monroe declared to be 'dangerous to our peace and safety,' and it can make no difference whether the European system is extended by an advance of frontier or otherwise.

SALISBURY'S ARGUMENT.

"It is also suggested in the British reply that we should not seek to apply the Monroe doctrine to the pending dispute, because it does not embody any principle of international law which is founded on the 'general consent of nations' and that no statesman however eminent and no nation however powerful are competent to insert into the code of international law a novel principle which was never recognized before and which has not since been accepted by the government of any other country.'

"Practically the principle for which we contend has a precedent, if not an exclusive relation to the United States.

"It may not have been admitted in so many words to the code of international law, but since international councils every nation is entitled to the rights belonging to it, if the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine is something we may justly claim, it has its place in the code of international law as certainly and as securely as if it were specifically mentioned, and when the United States is a suitor before the high tribunal that administers international law, the question to be determined is whether or not we present claims which the justice of that code of law can find to be right and valid.

"The Monroe doctrine finds its recognition in those principles of international law which are based upon the theory that every nation shall have its rights protected and its just claim enforced. Of course this government is entirely confident that under the sanction of this doctrine we have clear rights and undoubted claims.

"Nor is this ignored in the British reply. The prime minister, while not admitting that the Monroe doctrine is not applicable to the present conditions, states, 'In declaring that the United States would resist any such enterprise if it was contemplated President Monroe adopted a policy which received the entire sympathy of the English government of that date.'

"He further declares: 'Though the language of President Monroe is directed to the attainment of objects which most Englishmen would agree to be statutory, it is impossible to admit that they have been inscribed by any adequate authority in the code of international law.'

"Again he says: 'They (Her Majesty's government) fully concur with the view which President Monroe apparently entertained that any disturbance of existing territorial distribution in that hemisphere by any fresh acquisition on the part of any European state would be highly inexpedient to change.'

"In the belief that the doctrine for which we contend was clear and definite, that it was founded upon substantial considerations and involved our safety and welfare that it is fully applicable to our present condition and to the state of the world's progress and that it was directly related to the pending controversy and without any connection as to the final merits of the dispute but anxious to learn in satisfactory and conclusive manner whether Great Britain sought, under claim of boundary to extend her possessions on this continent without right or whether she merely sought possession of territory fairly included within her lines of ownership, this government proposed to the government of Great Britain to resort to arbitration as a proper means of settling the question to the end that the vexatious boundary dispute between the two contestants might be determined and our exact standing and relation in respect to the controvery might be made clear.

"It will be seen from correspondence herewith submitted that this proposition has been declined by the British government upon grounds which under the circumstances seem to me to be far from satisfactory.

"It is deeply disappointing that such an appeal, actuated by the most friendly feelings toward both nations directly concerned, addressed to a sense of justice and to the magnanimity of one of the great powers of the world and touching its relations to one comparatively weak and small, should have produced no better results.

WHAT WE MUST DO.

"The course to be pursued by this government, in view of the present conditions, does not appear to admit of serious doubt.

"Having labored faithfully for many years to induce Great Britain to submit this dispute to impartial arbitration, and having been now finally apprised of her refusal to do so, nothing remains but to accept the situation, to recognize its plain requirements and deal with it accordingly.

"Great Britain's present proposition has never thus far been regarded as admissible by Venezuela, though any adjustment of boundary which that country may deem for her advantage and may enter into of her own free will cannot of course be objected to by the United States.

"Assuming, however, that the attitude of Venezuela will remain unchanged the dispute has reached such a stage as to make it now incumbent upon the United States to take measures to determine with sufficient certainty for its justification what is the true divisional line between the republic of Venezuela and British Guiana.

"Inquiry to that end should of course be conducted carefully and judicially, and due weight should be given to all available evidence, records, and the facts in support of the claims of both parties.

"In order that such an examination should be prosecuted in a thorough and satisfactory manner, I suggest that Congress make an adequate appropriation for the expenses of a commission to be appointed by the executive, who shall make the necessary investigation and report upon the matter with the least possible delay.

"When such report is made and accepted it will, in my opinion, be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power as lawful aggression upon its rights and interests the appropriation by Great Britain of any lands or the exercise of governmental jurisdiction over any territory which after investigation we have determined of right belonging to Venezuela.

GRAVITY OF THE SITUATION.

"In making these recommendations I am fully alive to the responsibility incurred and fully realize all the consequences that may follow.

"I am nevertheless, firm in my conviction that while it is a grevious thing to contemplate the two great English speaking people of the world as being otherwise than friendly competitors in the onward march of civilization, and strenuous and worthy rivals in all the arts of peace, there is no calamity which a great nation can invite which equals that which follows supine submission to wrong and injustice and the consequent loss of national self respect and honor, beneath which is shielded and defended the people's safety and greatness.

"(Signed) GROVER CLEVELAND.

RECEIVED WITH APPLAUSE.

Republican Senators Enthusiastic When the Message Is Read.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The President's message reached the Senate about 12:30. Senator Morgan, chairman of the committee on foreign relations examined the message and then moved to go into executive session. At 12:10 the doors were closed.

At 1 o'clock the Senate resumed legislative session and the message of the President was laid before the Senate.

The executive session, it was explained officially, had been devoted to the consideration of nominations.

There was hardly a vacant seat on the Republican side, and but few absentees on the Democratic side.

As the reading closed there was hearty hand clapping from all quarters of the chamber Chandler, Rep., of New Hampshire, leading in the demonstration on the Republican side.

The message and the accompanying documents were referred to the committee on foreign relations and at 1:15 P. M. the Senate adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE.

Demonstration by Both Parties Over the Monroe Doctrine.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The House devoted itself today to discussing the proposition to have two election committees instead of one, the Venezuelan message meanwhile lying unopened.

This caused Crisp to exclaim, "There is an important message from the President relating to eVnezuela lying on that table and yet this Republican Congress enters upon partisan action, delaying consideration of the President's message."

Hulick, Rep., of Ohio was quickly on his feet, with the inquiry, "Is it this House or the President's ducking excursion that has delayed the message on the Venezuelan question?"

There was a round of laughter and applause from the Republican side.

"There is the message," proceeded Crisp. "It lies unheede. And yet is a frank, honest and manly support of the Monroe Doctrine."

Senator Dubois today introduced a bill to make Indians subject to game laws in the Several States. The bill is designed to prevent any such trouble as occurred with the Bannocks at Jackson's Hole last summer.

University Football Men Are Afraid of Professional Taint.

BERKELEY, Dec. 17.—At the last meeting of the executive committee of the Athletic Association of the University of California resolutions were adopted requesting that students of the institution refrain in the future from playing on teams maintained by athletic clubs. The passage of these resolutions marks the recognition, as far as the University of California is concerned, of the fact that the athletic clubs resent the tendency toward professionalism which threatens the game of football in America. Caspar W. Whitney, the great authority on all branches of amateur sport, has been aiming in his efforts to prevent games between the colleges and athletic clubs in the East, and he has lately had his attention attracted to this side of the continent. The mediums possessed by Mr. Whitney for the expression of his opinions place him in a position to speak with authority.

The action of the Butte team in securing prominent men from Denver and the Reliance Club has served to make the college men, whose greatest wish it is to keep football free from the deteriorating effects of professionalism, extremely chary about playing with or against the local or the Montana clowns. The game which is to come off Saturday between these two teams will, in all probability, be avoided by University men. Not only has the University team refused to meet the Butte team because of this college sentiment, but individual players have declined to play with the Reliance. Ransome and Sherman were both asked to take positions with the team to which they formally belonged, but both refused.

The reason given was that in a former game Sherrard of the Reliance kicked Ransome in the head. This undoubtedly was a strong factor in determining their action, but it is also quite evident that they were loathe to play with any team in the face of the resolution spoken of above, embodying, as they do, the sentiment of the whole student body.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

An extremely interesting article in the University of California Magazine, which appeared yesterday, is a review of Miss Coolbirth's recent volume of poems, entitled "Songs from the Golden Gate," by Chas. Keeler, U. C. '93. Mr. Keeler has, himself, written considerable poetry, which has been well received. Notable among his productions is a very appreciative sonnet of Prof. Joe Le Conte, which appeared in the first number of the magazine. A review of the work of one local poet by another cannot fail to be of interest to many people.

Another feature of the number is a recently discovered poem by Edward Rowland Sill, once instructor in English in the Oakland High school, and later professor of English language and literature in the University.

Examinations are now in full force. They will be over by the end of this week.

At a recent meeting of the faculty it was decided to hold entrance examinations in January and August hereafter, instead of in May and August, as heretofore.

It is a noteworthy fact that the classes of Prof. Le Conte are as well attended as any in the college, in spite of the fact that he never calls the roll.

HAYS IS NOW IN CHARGE

The Changes Occur in the Home for the Blind.

An Outline of What the Policy Is to Be in the Future.

Jack Hays, the new superintendent of the State Home for the Adult Blind, will be formally installed this afternoon. There will be a meeting of the directors at 4:30 and at it Joseph Saunders, who for eight years has held the superintendency, will turn over the books to his successor.

Superintendent Hays was in the office of the institution this morning. His valise was on the floor, his trunk will be sent over in the morning and for the next two years, possibly longer he will live on the premises.

There are eighteen minor positions connected with the home. A Tribune representative called upon him this morning to find out what changes if any would be made.

"It is a little too soon for me to say anything," said Mr. Hays. "I have hardly got located yet. Of course I shall look into the work of every one connected with this place, and when I see I can improve upon an assistant I shall do so. I have been out here since last Friday, taking stock, familiarizing myself with my new duties and keeping an eye on the help. I have not as yet made known an intention of making any changes. The home has never been self-supporting, but I shall try to make it as nearly so as possible. I am going to conduct the affairs on regular business principles, and hope to have a successful administration."

Jack Hays is a Native Son, having been born in San Francisco in 1852. He is the son of Col. Jack Hays, an officer in the Southern army, Indian fighter, and first Sheriff of San Francisco. It was during his father's term of office that Jack Jr. was born, and the first few years of his life were spent in San Francisco. But the city grew and got too metropolitan for the frontiersmen and he bought a ranch in the foothills back of Oakland. It was here that young Jack spent his boyhood days. He attended the Oakland Public Schools and averaged well with his class mates. When he grew to man's estate he followed the foot steps of his father and became a farmer. He purchased a ranch in Tulare county in 1882 and up to three years ago he lived there. His father who had lived a long life of usefulness, died and John was wanted at home. He disposed of his interests in the south and returned to live with his mother. While he was away the farm had been sold to William J. Dingee and is now his home. The Hays family bought from Mr. Dingee their beautiful home on Central avenue in Alameda and they have since resided there.

UTAH'S STATEHOOD FIGHT.

The Arizona Troubles Are Not Considered at All Serious.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The proceedings in the House were opened by Cannon, Rep., of Illinois offering a resolution for consideration tomorrow of an amendment to the rules for an increase of the membership of the leading committee from fifteen to seventeen (number in last House), and for the creation of an additional committee on elections.

The resolution was adopted after Crisp stated that the minority would not object to an increased membership, but certainly would oppose the creation of an additional election committee.

Flynn, Rep., of Oklahoma asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution calling upon the Secretary of the Interior to inform the House as to reasons for the delay in the appointment of allotting agents to allot lands to the Wichita Indians and whether any blood connections of the Secretary of the Interior were interested in delaying the opening of those lands to settlement.

McMillin Dem., thought the resolution was not drawn in the usual form. While he was examining it Flynn called out: "It don't affect any of your importations into Oklahoma."

"I don't make importations," replied McMillin sharply.

"Well, Hoke Smith does for you," returned Flynn.

McMillin protested this was not the occasion for levity. He pointed out a defect in the resolution and at Flynn's request the words "if not incompatible with public interests," were inserted.

Flynn made a brief explanation. He declared the alloting agents required by law had not been appointed.

"It is a well known fact," said he, "Hoke Smith has a lot of relations who are profiting by the delay in this matter. They are acting as attorneys for the Indians."

His attack on the Secretary of the Interior was bitter. He said among other things that he had seen today a contract by which a man was to receive $2700 if he could prevent Secretary Smith from ratifying the agreement.

Cooper, Dem., of Florida, denounced Flynn's "extraordinary speech." He protested Flynn had indulged in language concerning a member of the Cabinet unbecoming a member of the House and eulogized Secretary Smith as a man who stood as high before the American people as any man in this floor.

Flynn replied with some temper. He admitted he had feelings in the matter and explained the cause of it in his trip to Washington last Spring. He had come 1600 miles to see the president and find out why Secretary Smith had not complied with the law. He had written Cleveland for an audience and waited in vain for a week to see him. He had appealed to Secretary Smith and to the commissioners of the land office but to no avail.

Flynn then demanded the previous question.

The resolution was adopted without division.

UTAH'S HOPES.

The New Constitution Formally Presented to the President.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Governor West of Utah today escorted to the White House and presented to the President Messrs. Letcher and Sherman, commissioners appointed to deliver to him the certified copy of the constitution adopted by the new State, and a statement of the vote by which the constitution was adopted.

The constitution was in a gold-bound volume encased in morocco.

The President has submitted the documents to the Secretary of State for examination, and if it is found that the proceedings were in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress providing for the admission of the State, and the new constitution also complies with the requirements, the President will issue his proclamation declaring Utah a member of the family of States.

Besides the commissioners there were in the party Colonel Trumbo, delegate Cannon and John W. Burton, of Salt Lake City.

Mr. Letcher, in submitting the constitution, said: "In compliance with the law we are here to present to you the constitution ratified by the people of Utah under the enabling act of Congress and to ask at your hands the consideration which it demands."

The President responded, congratulating the people of Utah upon the progress they had made, and said he would examine the documents and see if all requirements of the law had been complied with, and that he would give the matter of issuing a proclamation his immediate attention. The President remarked:

"There has been considerable change of sentiment in Utah during the past few years. I am glad to see it and congratulate the people of Utah."

Secretary Thurber promised to inform Utah citizens a few days in advance of the issuance of the proclamation, so that Utah courts might not be impeded in the transaction of business. There will necessarily be a change in court's procedure when Utah becomes a State.

Territorial officers of Utah also requested that the proclamation be not issued before the first of January, so they might settle up their accounts and make reports for the full calendar year.

Secretary Thurber especially congratulated Colonel Trumbo upon the result of the efforts for statehood made by Utah citizens.

The delegation left the White House with the belief that the proclamation will be issued about the first of the year.

The law provides that Utah shall become a State on the first Monday after the issuance of the President's proclamation.

THE SENATE.

Wool Growers Want the McKinley Bill in Force Again.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Quay (Rep., Pa.) today presented to the Senate a petition of the Wool Merchants' Association of Philadelphia and asked that it be read and inserted in the record.

"That is a bad example" interposed Sherman; "What is this petition?"

"It asks," responded Quay, with a malicious smile, "that the wool schedule of the McKinley Act be re-enacted as a law."

Sherman joined in the general smile.

"Certainly there could be no objection to that," said he.

The petition was thereupon read.

Pfeffer (Pop., Kan.) offered a resolution calling on the Post Office Department for information as to the practice of imposing fines on employes; also as to restrictions placed on postal employes against conferring with Senators and members regarding legislation. The resolution was referred.

Caffery (Dem., La.) offered a resolution which was agreed to, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to reasons for suspending the payment of bounty to the manufacturers of sugar.

Gallinger's (Rep., N. H.) resolution calling for a report from all government departments as to the number of aliens employed, was referred to the Committee on Civil Service Reform.

Stewart (Pop., Nev.) addressed the Senate on pending resolution for a commission to investigate the needs of labor and agriculture, predicting an invasion of products of oriental lands, in competition with our domestic products. Agents of Japanese manufacturers, he said, were now in the United States selling goods at prices far below the cost of production in United States, offering bicycles of Japanese make at $12 each, and parlor matches, doors, sash, blinds, cooperage stock and hats, gloves, and wearing apparel at 50 per cent below domestic price. Japan had taken the initiative, but China would follow.

HELD UP A CAR.

HE FLOURISHED A PISTOL.

BUT LITTLE WAS SECURED.

It Occurred at the Junction of Two Busy Streets.

The lone highwayman [illegible] work for the winter in the suburbs of the city. He inaugurated the season by a particularly [illegible] yesterday on a car of the Lorin branch of the Telegraph avenue electric road. The corner of Alcatraz and Telegraph avenues was the scene of the daring robbery, which did not net the highwayman as much as he anticipated.

The locality was very favorable for the commission of the crime, for it is rather desolate at that point and there is plenty of room for a footpad to operate and make his escape before warning can be sent to the officers.

Car No. 61 in charge of W. B. Hamilton was selected by the highwayman. The car was standing at the junction of the avenues about 12:30 o'clock this morning, and Hamilton, who performs the duties both of conductor and motorman, was waiting the outbound main line car from Oakland. He was discussing the weather with his only passenger this trip, Frank Dixon, a barber at Lorin, who was belated and who was congratulating himself that he had not missed the last car to the other end of the line.

While they were talking a shadowy form moved out of the darkness and then a man boarded the front end of the car. Before Hamilton and Dixon had an opportunity to murmur they were looking down the barrel of a gleaming revolver and into a masked face that was visible behind the sight of the weapon. The two surprised men had their hands in the air in anticipation of the stern command, "Throw up your hands!" which immediately followed the entrance of the undesirable visitor into the car.

The pistol did not quiver in the highwayman's hands as he demanded the contents of his victims' pockets.

"Dig up your stuff," he ordered sternly "and be quick about it. I have not got much time to fool away waiting."

HELD UP THEIR HANDS.

Hamilton and Dixon lost no time in heeding the stern command, and they were thoroughly imbued with the idea that the masked footpad meant business. They knew that it was a lonesome neighborhood and if they resisted and were shot, the robber would stand a splendid chance to escape. Besides, they were not risking their heads for the few paltry dollars that their impetuous caller wanted.

So Hamilton scraped together $4.15 in dimes, nickles and quarters and turned them over as gracefully as he could under the circumstances to the man with the gun.

Dixon was not backward in ransacking his pockets, which yielded $3.05 that went to the masked robber. There they stood in fear and trembling lest the footpad should become angered at the small return and take a shot at them for luck. But he did not further molest his victims. As soon as he had dropped the coin into his pockets, the masked highwayman dropped off the car. He warned Hamilton and Dixon not to follow him under penalty of death. They were not anxious to test his marksmanship, so he was allowed to disappear in the neighboring fields without molestation.

When Hamilton turned in his car at the power house soon afterward he reported the robbery to the superintendent, who immediately notified the sheriff.

There was little to be done, however, for the robber had a good start of any officers. The watchmen at Lorin were notified, but no clew to the bold robber was located.

Hamilton and Dixon had a good opportunity to see the fellow, as the car was well lighted and he stood very near them. They could not distinguish any of his features, because of the black mask he wore. This concealed his face from view entirely, but they did get a glimpse, which showed he had a prominent nose. The robber was, according to the description furnished the sheriff, about 5 feet 7½ inches tall and weighed 150 pounds. He wore a dark slouch hat, a dark sack coat and overalls, through which a pair of trousers could be seen in the ragged holes about the knees. He appeared to have dark hair. Hamilton said the robber spoke with a slight foreign accent, which he judged was Italian.

His revolver was about 8 inches long. When it was displayed before the surprised men it seemed as big as a flour barrel.

Hamilton found upon reaching the carhouse this morning that the robber had secured $1.10 from his private exchequer and $3.05 belonging to the railroad company.

A full description of the robber has been furnished the police of Oakland, the Berkeley, Lorin and Golden Gate officers and Sheriff White has detailed two deputies to assist in the search for the daring highwayman.

FACTS OF INTEREST.

Two respectable Englishmen of Calcutta fought a duel with dumb bells recently. After spending a pleasant evening with their families they got into a quarrel, and were seen fighting by a native servant. One was killed by a dumb bell, whereupon the other blew out his brains with a revolver.

The trial of Louis Gordon, shirt manufacturer, in New York for contracting for the burning of his own premises, shows that he retained professional incendiaries for the work as one would a lawyer. The fee was $1,500, to be divided among three men, one of whom, an insurance adjuster named Milch, turned State's evidence.

The Empress of Austria intends giving up much of the violent exercise which she has persisted in for so many years, and is about to assume a role that her age suggests as more suitable. Her health is very uncertain and her figure upon which she prides herself, is losing some of its beauties of contour. Her majesty at one time boasted of a waist of only twenty inches in circumference—the smallest in Europe —and claimed that it was not the product of the corset, but of swinging by her hands from a trapeze bar.

Miss Ellen Emerson says that she remembers well the day when her father, the Concord philosopher, set out to propose marriage to her step-mother. "The liveryman seemed to know," she adds, "that it was a special occasion, and the horse and buggy which he gave father was made garish by a pair of bright yellow reins. Poor father looked so disconcerted. He pleaded gently for something less conspicuous; but the man was obdurate. I can see him now, driving off with those glaring reins hanging loosely over the horse's back."

More big game was killed in the Maine forests during October and November this year than during October, November and December of last year. So far as shown by the records kept by the railroads which carry the game killed by the hunters, 1,170 deer, 74 moose, and 88 caribou were killed during October and November this year, while during the three hunting months of last year only 1,001 deer, 45 moose, and 30 caribou were killed.

The Rev. John Jasper is as firmly convinced as ever that the sun moves round the earth and that the earth doesn't move at all. He preached his famous "sun-do-move" sermon to an audience of 200 white folk in Mount Zion Church, Richmond, Va., last Sunday, and was more than ever scornful toward the scientists and emphatic in his arguments for the liberal acceptance of Biblical texts bearing on the point. "When you rise and when you sets down, don't you move? Den how could de sun rise and go down 'thout movin'?" he argues.

A COMPROMISE.

Amicable Arrangements for a Right of Way.

The Board of Supervisors have compromised a condemnation suit brought to open a road through lands of the George W. Patterson estate along Arroyo Valley in Murray township. The rights of way have been granted to the Board upon the payment of $275 and the suit will be dismissed when it comes up for hearing in the Superior Court tomorrow.

Cut His Chin.

C. B. Furness, a bartender living at the Nowlands House, met with a peculiar accident Sunday night. He started from his bed to get a glass of water and fell. He struck his chin upon the tumbler which he was carrying, and cut a deep gash that was sewed up at the Receiving Hospital.

A Popular Company.

The People's Express, the headquarters of which are on Ninth street, between Broadway and Franklin streets, is now doing an immense business. It always has a large number of wagons busy, but the approach of the holidays gives the company nearly twice its ordinary patronage. This year the increase is in excess of that of any preceding year, but the People's Express Company is always equal to the emergency. The People's Express is the people's favorite because it is always prompt and reliable, and its terms are most reasonable.

A Terrible Collision

Occurred late last night directly in front of the Mammoth Furniture stores of J. L. Lyon & Son at 1250 and 1252½ Broadway. Luckily all their furniture, carpets, ranges, etc., both new and second-hand, of which they have an enormous assortment, were inside their store for the night and so no damage was done. Telegraph avenue ran into Broadway.

Of late remarks have been passed stirring up the ladies and children who happen to stroll in the fair, or rather Christmas display at the Grand Rule Bazaars, saying it's simply entrancing to see the great variety offered to those to be presented. Messrs. A. and M. Schleuter offer prizes not to be beaten. Stores on Washington, corner Ninth, and also same street near City Hall.

TUESDAY .....DEC. 18, 1895

It is gall and grovel to the Chicagoans that the National Republican Committee preferred St Louis as a place for holding the next convention. Chicago papers for twenty years have been writing down St. Louis. It was a summed all along that the convention could not go anywhere else but to the city which secured the World's Fair. The chances now are that the Democratic convention will go to Chicago.

Dr. Caesar Lombroso, who in Max Nordau discoursed so about the evidences of degeneration, has just been convicted in a French court of gross plagiarism and condemned to pay the man out of whose book he stole, the sum of 2500 francs. The plaintiff, M. Crepieux-Jamin, found in "La Grafologia," a work by Lambroso, published at Milan, passage after passage which M. Jamin, to who no credit was given, and whose name was not once mentioned by this self-disant criminologist. He brought suit at Rouen under the International Convention adopted at Berne, in 1844, and won a verdict without difficulty, the evidence being indubitable. But then this author has furnished in his own person some satisfactory evidence of degeneracy.

A Philadelphia paper outlines the improvements to be made in the bicycle during the coming year. "Fifty miles an hour is the least that the laziest club lounger will be able to do with that new lever chain from "the other side." It will render your ordinary 63 gear equivalent to a gear of anywhere between 86 and 100; and the remarkable point about it is this, that the increase in the driving power of that chain will require the exercise of no more energy on the pedals. John A. Wells of hill-climbing fame will have to look for 'fresh fields and pastures new." As to punctureless tires? Why, we need have no tires at all. A set of elliptical steel springs set at right angles to the rim and riveted to it; a steel band passing round the outer circumference of this series of springs and riveted to each of them so as to keep them in place; and there you have ideal resiliency. Of course you may cover the whole with rubber or other material for cleanliness' sake; but that's a luxury."

Opening of the Seals.

President Cleveland has sent Lord Salisbury's communication on the Venezeula question to Congress. He scouts the Monroe detrine, at the same time he has given it more vitality than it ever had before. It has always been a variable quantity. It has, perhaps, been reserved for this Congress to give it a more definite expression. The essence of it is that the United States will not regard in a friendly way, any attempt of European powers to invade or otherwise interfere with the established order of American Republics.

The Federal Government was bound to protest against the invasion of the Republic of Venezeula. If there could be no check to the invasion of territory, any one of these small Republics might be subverted at the instance of any European power. There has never been a more opportune time to settle this issue on the broad basis of justice; and never a time when bullying and bluster would have so little deterrent effect. Salisbury's communication and the President's message are the stirring events of the day.

The President's message has a warlike note. The first step proposed is to ascertain, through a commission, the justice of the case made by Venezeula, and then to enforce the admission of those rights, even at the cost of war. That is the ring of the message. We shall see how Congress responds.

Must Know His Letters.

The constitutional amendment requiring that every voter whose name thereafter is to be registered, must be able to read and write, was adopted by a very large majority. It was the expression of the popular will, with very little dissent. That requirement is the organic law of the State. The electoral franchise is not a natural right. It may be given or withheld for sufficient reasons. Every man of fair natural ability can bring himself within the provisions of this organic law. If he esteems the electoral franchise so lightly that he does not care to qualify, there is no help for him. For a man who has had energy and enterprise enough to acquire property, and has long been a resident of the State, there is no valid excuse for him if he can not read the constitution and the laws of the State.

A wealthy Portuguese of San Leandro, who had not cared to vote for many years, but suddenly took a local interest in some question of expenditure in that town, concluded that for once he would make his influence felt by voting. Just then he ran against the amended constitution and found that his name could not go on the voting register. He proposes to spend $1,000 in fighting the law. He might as well butt his head against a stone wall. With one-tenth of the sum named he could hire a tutor and learn to read and write. That facility having been acquired, he will be a better citizen, and will furnish a good example to others of his class who have never cared enough about the electoral franchise to bring themselves within the present constitutional qualification.

The Story of Islam.

Dr. Cyrus Hamlin spent about forty years in Turkey as a missionary. He was for some time president of Roberts college, a part of which buildings have recently been burned by the Turks. He declares that England's protection of Armenians amounts to nothing. The Greeks are protected by Russia; the Catholic Armenians by France. The Gregorians and Protestant Armenians have no defender. Dr. Hamlin describes the present Sultan as a fanatical Mussulman.

He came to the throne with the inborn resolution to exercise all the power of the successor of the prophet. He is a skillful diplomat. He believes in the supreme power of lying. He covers up all that he does by falsehood or false testimony. He can always bring any number of witnesses to prove that there has been no violence where hundreds have been slaughtered. He secludes himself in his palace, is seen by very few; but those who are called to an interview pronounce him a most fascinating man. He very early took upon himself the entire care of his empire. He resolved to govern it alone. He went into every department—army, navy, naval construction, public works, education, finance—in order to have everything exactly right. Finding a great many Armenians in these departments, he cleaned them all out and put in Turks—often an incompetent man for a competent. If his ministers did not please him he changed them, and then changed them again.

The personal responsibility is thus brought directly home to the Sultan for all the horrible massacres that have been perpetrated in Armenia and elsewhere. It was through the Sultan's direct, or indirect, influence that the Kurds were let loose. "He thought it would be well to have only one people, or at least one faith, on all his eastern border. The Armenians should have their choice, Islam or Gehenna! For this purpose the Kurds would serve him well. He called to Constantinople the chiefs of the principal tribes, treated them with flattering distinction, and gave them uniforms and arms for an imperial cavalry to bear his name—the Hamidieh cavalry. Their work was gradually to efface all the Armenian villages, saving all who would profess Islam. This work has been going on for some years in those distant regions. The survivors made their appeals to England and the consuls faithfully reported them. Doubtless England tried to persuade the Sultan to do better; and he has always been ready with stout denials that any wrong has been done, and with lavish promises that nothing more of the kind should happen." It is the old story of Islam—a religious war of extermination of all who are not Moslems. According to recent reports 50,000 have been slaughtered within a few months and 500,000 have been despoiled of their goods and reduced to the verge of starvation.

The Advent of the Cent

It is reported that the Philadelphia mint is turning out cents at the rate of 150,000 a day. The demand has become very great for this small coin in all the Eastern States, and as far west as Chicago. There are now about 780,000,000 of these coins in circulation, more than two-thirds of which have been issued during the last fifteen years.

The cent never obtained any considerable circulation here. There are not taken for railway fare, although they would be a legal tender in such cases. They are paid out by the savings banks in order to make exact change, and are then laid away or pitched into the rubbish box. The three-cent piece has passed out of sight. The nickel is tolerated as much because it represents a street railway fare as for any other reason. The silver five-cent piece has well nigh disappeared. It never found much favor in California. The St. Paul Pioneer noting the increase of this small coin in that city, makes these comments:

"Twenty-five years ago New Englanders settling in St. Paul found themselves regarded as petty when they expected change of a less amount than five cents and prices in which odd cents figured were unheard of. The same thing was true in California even within ten years—there was a workingman's coffee house in San Francisco where one could get rid of pennies if he were burdened with them, but it was considered quite a unique affair. Now, however, even in the West, to turn away from a counter without waiting for a cent in change would seem rather like "putting on airs." The demand for the copper cent is a wholesome sign and indicates a growing and systematic economy on the part of the bulk of the people. And, while it is a sign of economy the presence of the coin is also a stimulus to that virtue. The people of Europe, who are far more economical in every way than Americans, all handle small coins to a greater extent than we, and not only handle them but estimates their wealth in them. The Frenchman counts his money by francs, while the American must use coin five times as large to estimate his. There was a time, not long ago, when we scorned to talk of anything less than dollars. We are getting past that grandiloquent stage. Halves and quarters are considered very respectable coins, and now that the cent has come to have an identity, nickels and dimes seem considerably more important than before. It is not likely that the half cent will later come to figure in our currency as the farthing does in England."

A New Ruling About Newspapers.

A newspaper in the State of New York had sharply criticised the decision of a judge. The latter was in high dudgeon and he went for that newspaper man, haled him into court, found him guilty of contempt and imposed a fine with the alternative of imprisonment. The newspaper man did not see justice in that light. There was a taint of judicial tyranny in the decision. The case was fought through the courts until it was finally brought up in the Court of Appeals.

That court in its recent decision holds that "no criticism, no matter how severe or unjust, which is uttered or printed out of court can be made the basis of contempt proceedings." The remedy of the judge if he has been wrongfully assailed, is precisely like that of any private individual. In his own court he is supreme. Outside he is not. It is sometimes a good expedient to bring a judge to the bar of public opinion. This could not be done if the press were muzzled. Even an abuse of liberty would not be so dangerous as the denial of liberty to criticise the judgment of courts which heaven knows are fallible enough at best. This liberty is seldom abused by the American press.

The gist of Minister Bayard's offending was only an enlargement of a sentence in the last Democratic platform which declared that protection is "a fraud, robbery of the great majority of American people for the benefit of the few." "In my own country I have witnessed the insatiable growth of that form of state socialism styled protection which I believe has done more to foster class legislation and create inequality of fortune, corrupt public life, banish men of independent mind and character from public councils, blunt public conscience, and place politics upon the low level of a mercenary scramble than any other single cause. Step by step, and largely owing to the confusion of civil strife, it has succeeded in obtaining control of the sovereign power of taxation, creating the revenue into an engine for selfish and private profit (its allied beneficiaries and combines are called trusts), and gradually the commercial marine of the United States has disappeared, the few vessels lately built being an exception and proving the rule, as they were only built by making a breach in the general tariff and navigation laws."

Judge Caldwell, who confirmed the sale of the Santa Fe railroad for less than half the amount of the outstanding bonds—that concern having $130,000,000—made the following statement: "The Santa Fe was never in a better condition physically. Pursuant to my order, all local debts have been paid, leaving none outstanding. The employes have been paid regularly every month, and everything is perfectly satisfactory on all sides. The sale was very simple, considering its immensity. It was cried as you would cry the sale of a pony. I convened court after the sale and confirmed the transaction. I then issued an order for the deed to be made, which was formally done, and executed. The company has now, in reality, possession of the road, but will do nothing until January 1. There is a provision which says that the road shall be turned over to the new company when it presents the deed and demands possession, and it has been agreed upon that it will not do this until that time." It will be time shortly for another baseless rumor to be circulated that the Santa Fe Company is about to extend its road to San Francisco.

The Attorney General has given an official construction to the County Government Act about special deposits. The ordinary deposits will not meet the requirements. "In making these deposits the treasurer parts both with special money itself and with the title to it. Both money and title pass to the bank, and the bank promises to repay 'to the order' of the treasurer the respective amounts of money specified in the certificates. It does not undertake to return the identical money or thing deposited. This is clearly in violation of section 87 of the County Government Act, above quoted, and the certificate of deposit so taken cannot be considered as money in the hands of the treasurer." Well why, should the banks receive these special deposits at all since it is a matter only of convenience to the county officials? Suppose all the banks should come to an agreement that no special deposits of public money will be received on any terms. What would these county treasurers do since in about half the counties no safe place has ever been provided to keep the money, and in many of the others it would require a night watchman in insure safety.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

It is said that Felix Faure, president of France, has lost some of his popularity in his endeavor to increase it. He has been, it is hinted, all things to all men. His democratic methods have been employed to attach to his cause the poor and discontented of the Parisians, while he has at the same time entertained a larger number of crowned heads at the Elysee than any one of his predecessors.

Frank R. Stockton is one of the most modest men in the realm of literature. His great success in fiction has not given him the slightest touch of what is vulgarly called the "big head." He is a short, slender man with brilliant eyes, and an engaging smile. He has learned recently that the canal boat that inspired the "Rudder Grange" stories is still in existence and occupies its former moorings in the Harlem.

One hundred divorces were granted in three hours by the Chicago courts recently. Chicago does not need to annex South Dakota.

Women will henceforth be permitted to become regular students at the Hungarian universities and special facilities will be granted to those who wish to become doctors or pharmacists.

Bronson Howard is as much interested in political economy as is William D. Howells. Both the novelist and the playright have been studying of late the various phases of society that make New York a city of astonishing contrasts. It is rumored that Mr. Howard is writing a play that will deal with the lights and shadows of life in the metropolis in a very striking way.

The salaries received by the Russian diplomats representing the Great Northern Empire at foreign courts are not on nearly so large a scale as those enjoyed by Her Brittanic Majesty's representatives abroad, although they compare favorably with the rate of remuneration paid to the envoys of certain other European powers. The British ambassadors at Berlin, Vienna, Constantinople, London and Paris receive each 50,000 roubles per annum, while their colleague at the Court of King Humbert has to be satisfied with the lesser sum of 40,000 roubles. The Russian ministers at Washington, Tokio, Madrid and Peking are each paid 30,000 roubles a year.

A congress of teachers of all kinds has been held at Magdeburg, in Germany, at which bitter complaints were made of the parsimony of the government and public institutions towards them. It appears that there are no fewer than thirteen thousand schoolmasters in Germany whose salaries fall below £40 per annum.

Up in Montana a famous character known as Charlie Allard has a herd of Buffalo, said to be the largest in the country. They number 140, and part of them once constituted the Jones herd in Nebraska. Satisfactory results have been secured by crossing them with Polled Angus cattle. It produces a fine animal, with a fur finer and closer than that of the buffalo, and sweet, wholesome meat. Buffalo hides are now worth $100, and head from $200 to $300 mounted. Only two herds are said to remain in their wild state, one in the Panhandle of Texas and one in the Yellowstone National Park.

A Popular Company.

The People's Express, the headquarters of which are on Ninth street, between Broadway and Franklin streets, is now doing an immense business. It always has a large number of wagons busy, but the approach of the holidays gives the company nearly twice its ordinary patronage. This year the increase is in excess of that of any preceding year, but the People's Express Company is always equal to the emergency. The People's Express is the people's favorite because it is always prompt and reliable, and its terms are most reasonable.

Why Do You Persist?

In buying poor candies when you can buy the finest and purest for the same price at Lehnhardt's, 1159 Broadway, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth.

Is It Wise?

Is it wise to buy poor, thin diseased milk when you can buy the pure article? Have you read of the milk frauds across the bay? Mothers, learn the lesson and buy your milk from the Jersey Cream, Milk and Butter Company, 1255 Broadway. Telephone 254.

A Terrible Collision

Occurred late last night directly in front of the Mammoth Furniture stores of J. L. Lyon & Son at 1250 and 1252½ Broadway. Luckily all their furniture, carpets, ranges, etc., both new and second-hand, of which they have an enormous assortment, were inside their store for the night and so no damage was done. Telegraph avenue ran into Broadway.

Of late remarks have been passed stirring up the ladies and children who happen to stroll in the fair, or rather Christmas display at the Grand Rule Bazaars, saying it's simply entrancing to see the great variety offered to those to be presented. Messrs. A. and M. Schleuter offer prizes not to be beaten. Stores on Washington, corner Ninth, and also same street near City Hall.

TUESDAY .... DEC. 17, 1895

It is gall and grovel to the Chicagoans that the National Republican Committee preferred St. Louis as a place for holding the next convention. Chicago papers for twenty years have been writing down St. Louis. It was a sneer all along that the convention could not go anywhere else but to the city which secured the World's Fair. The chances now are that the Democratic convention will go to Chicago.

Dr. Caesar Lombroso, who in Max Nordau discoursed so about the evidences of degeneration, has just been convicted in a French court of gross plagiarism and condemned to pay the man out of whose book he stole, the sum of 2500 francs. The plaintiff, M. Crepieux-Jamin, found in "La Grafologia," a work by Lombroso published at Milan, passage after passage which M. Jamin to who no credit was given, and whose name was not once mentioned by this soi-disant cruminologist. He brought suit at Lyon under the International Convention adopted at Berne in 1811, and won a verdict without difficulty, the evidence being indubitable. But then this author has furnished in his own person some satisfactory evidence of degeneracy.

A Philadelphia paper outlines the improvements to be made in the bicycle during the coming year. "Fifty miles an hour is the least that the laziest club lounger will be able to do with that new lever chain from 'the other side.' It will render your ordinary 63 gear equivalent to a gear of anywhere between 86 and 100; and the remarkable point about it is this, that the increase in the driving power of that chain will require the exercise of no more energy on the pedals. John A. Wells of hill-climbing fame will have to look for 'fresh fields and pastures new.' As to punctureless tires? Why, we need have no tires at all. A set of elliptical steel springs set at right angles to the rim and riveted to it; a steel band passing round the outer circumference of this series of springs and riveted to each of them so as to keep them in place; and there you have ideal resiliency. Of course you may cover the whole with rubber or other material for cleanliness' sake; but that's a luxury."

Opening of the Seals.

President Cleveland has sent Lord Salisbury's communication on the Venezeula question to Congress. He scouts the Monroe doctrine, at the same time he has given it more vitality than it ever had before. It has always been a variable quantity. It has, perhaps, been reserved for this Congress to give it a more definite expression. The essence of it is that the United States will not regard in a friendly way, any attempt of European powers to invade or otherwise interfere with the established order of American Republics.

The Federal Government was bound to protest against the invasion of the Republic of Venezeula. If there could be no check to the invasion of territory, any one of these small Republics might be subverted at the instance of any European power. There has never been a more opportune time to settle this issue on the broad basis of justice; and never a time when bullying and bluster would have so little deterrent effect. Salisbury's communication and the President's message are the stirring events of the day.

The President's message has a warlike note. The first step proposed is to ascertain, through a commission, the justice of the case made by Venezeula, and then to enforce the admission of those rights, even at the cost of war. That is the ring of the message. We shall see how Congress responds.

Must Know His Letters.

The constitutional amendment requiring that every voter whose name thereafter is to be registered, must be able to read and write, was adopted by a very large majority. It was the expression of the popular will, with very little dissent. That requirement is the organic law of the State. The electoral franchise is not a natural right. It may be given or withheld for sufficient reasons. Every man of fair natural ability can bring himself within the provisions of this organic law. If he esteems the electoral franchise so lightly that he does not care to qualify, there is no help for him. For a man who has had energy and enterprise enough to acquire property, and has long been a resident of the State, there is no valid excuse for him if he can not read the constitution and the laws of the State.

A wealthy Portuguese of San Leandro, who had not cared to vote for many years, but suddenly took a local interest in some question of expenditure in that town, concluded that for once he would make his influence felt by voting. Just then he ran against the amended constitution and found that his name could not go on the voting register. He proposes to spend $1,000 in fighting the law. He might as well butt his head against a stone wall. With one-tenth of the sum named he could hire a tutor and learn to read and write. That facility having been acquired, he will be a better citizen, and will furnish a good example to others of his class who have never cared enough about the electoral franchise to bring themselves within the present constitutional qualification.

The Story of Islam.

Dr. Cyrus Hamlin spent about forty years in Turkey as a missionary. He was for some time president of Roberts college, a part of which buildings have recently been burned by the Turks. He declares that England's protection of Armenians amounts to nothing. The Greeks are protected by Russia; the Catholic Armenians by France. The Gregorians and Protestant Armenians have no defender. Dr. Hamlin describes the present Sultan as a fanatical Mussulman.

He came to the throne with the inborn resolution to exercise all the power of the successor of the prophet. He is a skillful diplomat. He believes in the supreme power of lying. He covers up all that he does by falsehood or false testimony. He can always bring any number of witnesses to prove that there has been no violence where hundreds have been slaughtered. He secludes himself in his palace, is seen by very few; but those who are called to an interview pronounce him a most fascinating man. He very early took upon himself the entire care of his empire. He resolved to govern it alone. He went into every department—army, navy, naval construction, public works, education, finance—in order to have everything exactly right. Finding a great many Armenians in these departments, he cleaned them all out and put in Turks—often an incompetent man for a competent. If his ministers did not please him he changed them, and then changed them again.

The personal responsibility is thus brought directly home to the Sultan for all the horrible massacres that have been perpetrated in Armenia and elsewhere. It was through the Sultan's direct, or indirect, influence that the Kurds were let loose. "He thought it would be well to have only one people, or at least one faith, on all his eastern border. The Armenians should have their choice, Islam or Gehenna! For this purpose the Kurds would serve him well. He called to Constantinople the chiefs of the principal tribes, treated them with flattering distinction, and gave them uniforms and arms for an imperial cavalry to bear his name—the Hamidieh cavalry. Their work was gradually to efface all the Armenian villages, saving all who would profess Islam. This work has been going on for some years in those distant regions. The survivors made their appeals to England and the consuls faithfully reported them. Doubtless England tried to persuade the Sultan to do better; and he has always been ready with stout denials that any wrong has been done, and with lavish promises that nothing more of the kind should happen." It is the old story of Islam—a religious war of extermination of all who are not Moslems. According to recent reports 50,000 have been slaughtered within a few months and 500,000 have been despoiled of their goods and reduced to the verge of starvation.

The Advent of the Cent

It is reported that the Philadelphia mint is turning out cents at the rate of 150,000 a day. The demand has become very great for this small coin in all the Eastern States, and as far west as Chicago. There are now about 780,000 000 of these coins in circulation, more than two-thirds of which have been issued during the last fifteen years.

The cent never obtained any considerable circulation here. There are not taken for railway fare, although they would be a legal tender in such cases. They are paid out by the savings banks in order to make exact change, and are then laid away or pitched into the rubbish box. The three-cent piece has passed out of sight. The nickel is tolerated as much because it represents a street railway fare as for any other reason. The silver five-cent piece has well nigh disappeared. It never found much favor in California. The St. Paul Pioneer noting the increase of this small coin in that city, makes these comments:

"Twenty-five years ago New Englanders settling in St. Paul found themselves regarded as petty when they expected change of a less amount than five cents and prices in which odd cents figured were unheard of. The same thing was true in California even within ten years—there was a workingman's coffee house in San Francisco where one could get rid of pennies if he were burdened with them, but it was considered quite a unique affair. Now, however, even in the West, to turn away from a counter without waiting for a cent in change would seem rather like "putting on airs." The demand for the copper cent is a wholesome sign and indicates a growing and systematic economy on the part of the bulk of the people. And, while it is a sign of economy the presence of the coin is also a stimulus to that virtue. The people of Europe, who are far more economical in every way than Americans, all handle small coins to a greater extent than we, and not only handle them but estimates their wealth in them. The Frenchman counts his money by francs, while the American must use coin five times as large to estimate his. There was a time, not long ago, when we scorned to talk of anything less than dollars. We are getting past that grandiloquent stage. Halves and quarters are considered very respectable coins, and now that the cent has come to have an identity, nickels and dimes seem considerably more important than before. It is not likely that the half cent will later come to figure in our currency as the farthing does in England."

A New Ruling About Newspapers.

A newspaper in the State of New York had sharply criticised the decision of a judge. The latter was in high dudgeon and he went for that newspaper man, haled him into court, found him guilty of contempt and imposed a fine with the alternative of imprisonment. The newspaper man did not see justice in that light. There was a taint of judicial tyranny in the decision. The case was fought through the courts until it was finally brought up in the Court of Appeals.

That court in its recent decision holds that "no criticism, no matter how severe or unjust, which is uttered or printed out of court can be made the basis of contempt proceedings." The remedy of the judge if he has been wrongfully assailed, is precisely like that of any private individual. In his own court he is supreme. Outside he is not. It is sometimes a good expedient to bring a judge to the bar of public opinion. This could not be done if the press were muzzled. Even an abuse of liberty would not be so dangerous as the denial of liberty to criticise the judgment of courts which heaven knows are fallible enough at best. This liberty is seldom abused by the American press.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The gist of Minister Bayard's offending was only an enlargement of a sentence in the last Democratic platform which declared that protection is "a fraud, robbery of the great majority of American people for the benefit of the few." "In my own country I have witnessed the insatiable growth of that form of state socialism styled protection which I believe has done more to foster class legislation and create inequality of fortune, corrupt public life, banish men of independent mind and character from public councils, blunt public conscience, and place politics upon the low level of a mercenary scramble than any other single cause. Step by step, and largely owing to the confusion of civil strife, it has succeeded in obtaining control of the sovereign power of taxation, creating the revenue into an engine for selfish and private profit (its allied beneficiaries and combines are called trusts), and gradually the commercial marine of the United States has disappeared, the few vessels lately built being an exception and proving the rule, as they were only built by making a breach in the general tariff and navigation laws."

Judge Caldwell, who confirmed the sale of the Santa Fe railroad for less than half the amount of the outstanding bonds—that concern having $130,000,000—made the following statement: "The Santa Fe was never in a better condition physically. Pursuant to my order, all local debts have been paid, leaving none outstanding. The employes have been paid regularly every month, and everything is perfectly satisfactory on all sides. The sale was very simple, considering its immensity. It was cried as you would cry the sale of a pony. I convened court after the sale and confirmed the transaction. I then issued an order for the deed to be made, which was formally done, and executed. The company has now, in reality, possession of the road, but will do nothing until January 1. There is a provision which says that the road shall be turned over to the new company when it presents the deed and demands possession, and it has been agreed upon that it will not do this until that time." It will be time shortly for another baseless rumor to be circulated that the Santa Fe Company is about to extend its road to San Francisco.

The Attorney General has given an official construction to the County Government Act about special deposits. The ordinary deposits will not meet the requirements. "In making these deposits the treasurer parts both with special money itself and with the title to it. Both money and title pass to the bank, and the bank promises to repay 'to the order' of the treasurer the respective amounts of money specified in the certificates. It does not undertake to return the identical money or thing deposited. This is clearly in violation of section 87 of the County Government Act, above quoted, and the certificate of deposit so taken cannot be considered as money in the hands of the treasurer." Well why, should the banks receive these special deposits at all since it is a matter only of convenience to the county officials? Suppose all the banks should come to an agreement that no special deposits of public money will be received on any terms. What would these county treasurers do since in about half the counties no safe place has ever been provided to keep the money, and in many of the others it would require a night watchman to insure safety.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

It is said that Felix Faure, president of France, has lost some of his popularity in his endeavor to increase it. He has been, it is hinted, all things to all men. His democratic methods have been employed to attach to his cause the poor and discontented of the Parisians, while he has at the same time entertained a larger number of crowned heads at the Elysee than any one of his predecessors.

Frank R. Stockton is one of the most modest men in the realm of literature. His great success in fiction has not given him the slightest touch of what is vulgarly called the "big head." He is a short, slender man with brilliant eyes, and an engaging smile. He has learned recently that the canal boat that inspired the "Rudder Grange" stories is still in existence and occupies its former moorings in the Harlem.

One hundred divorces were granted in three hours by the Chicago courts recently. Chicago does not need to annex South Dakota.

Women will henceforth be permitted to become regular students at the Hungarian universities and special facilities will be granted to those who wish to become doctors or pharmacists.

Bronson Howard is as much interested in political economy as is William D. Howells. Both the novelist and the playright have been studying of late the various phases of society that make New York a city of astonishing contrasts. It is rumored that Mr. Howard is writing a play that will deal with the lights and shadows of life in the metropolis in a very striking way.

The salaries received by the Russian diplomats representing the Great Northern Empire at foreign courts are not on nearly so large a scale as those enjoyed by Her Brittanic Majesty's representatives abroad, although they compare favorably with the rate of remuneration paid to the envoys of certain other European powers. The British ambassadors at Berlin, Vienna, Constantinople, London and Paris receive each 50,000 roubles per annum, while their colleague at the Court of King Humbert has to be satisfied with the lesser sum of 40,000 roubles. The Russian ministers at Washington, Tokio, Madrid and Peking are each paid 30,000 roubles a year.

A congress of teachers of all kinds has been held at Magdeburg, in Germany, at which bitter complaints were made of the parsimony of the government and public institutions towards them. It appears that there are no fewer than thirteen thousand schoolmasters in Germany whose salaries fall below £40 per annum.

Up in Montana a famous character known as Charlie Allard has a herd of Buffalo, said to be the largest in the country. They number 110, and part of them once constituted the Jones herd in Nebraska. Satisfactory results have been secured by crossing them with Polled Angus cattle. It produces a fine animal, with a fur finer and closer than that of the buffalo, and sweet, wholesome meat. Buffalo hides are now worth $100, and head from $200 to $300 mounted. Only two herds are said to remain in their wild state, one in the Panhandle of Texas and one in the Yellowstone National Park.

IT IS A SPLENDID SHOW.

The Exposition Opens With a Tidal Wave of Success.

A VARIETY OF PRODUCTS.

The formal opening of the Oakland Exposition took place last night under circumstances that could not have been more propitious. The elements favored the undertaking, because not a drop of rain fell during the evening, and, as a consequence, the main building and the annex, were crowded with people from the time the doors opened until the hour for closing arrived, at 10 o'clock.

The main entrance to the place is on Twelfth street between Harrison and Webster. Through the turnstiles placed there the people began to pass at an early hour. As they entered, they found the place bright and warm. There was a cheery hum of conversation and laughter, showing the presence of merry spirits and, at the same time, could be distinguished the buzz and chatter and the heavy blows of machinery which, in a measure, showed up some of the wonderful manufactories of Alameda county.

The people wandered from one exhibit to the other, but made nothing more than a superficial examination of each. The governing idea seemed to be to take in the whole show at first and later make a minute examination of the individual features.

In this way more than three-quarters of an hour were passed, and then, the hour for the official opening of the display having arrived, there was a thronging of people to the avenue in front of the stage and to the galleries on either side in order to hear what the projectors had to say regarding the undertaking.

It may be here stated that, while there are many exhibits in the galleries, yet, the management has reserved a number of benches there for the accommodation of people who desire to sit down and listen to the music or rest after having walked through aisles of the exhibition.

A few minutes after 8 o'clock the managers and their invited guests appeared upon the stage and among the former were noted President J. W. Nelson, Secretary George Roeth, Assistant Secretary Davis, Superintendent Craigie Sharp, Solicitor J. F. Street, Mr. Tacy, representing the Manufacturers' and Producer's Association of California, Committeemen Theodore Gier, Charles S. Booth, Fred Becker, E. G. Buswell, F. W. Spiars and William Rutherford.

The interest taken in the matter by the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California was shown by the presence on the platform of Julian Sontag, president of the association; Fred H. Dingle, assistant secretary of the same organization and Directors Andrea Sbarboro, J. P. Currier and James Sproule; W. W. Sanford, secretary of the Carlson-Currier Soap Company; E. E. Smith, ex-chief deputy of the horticultural and agricultural exhibit of the midwinter fair; M. M. McGlynn, editor of The Voice of Labor and secretary of the Federated Trades Council, San Francisco; Henry Dalton, Charles Spear, B. McFadden and a number of others.

Notwithstanding the fact that there was a great deal of noise in the buildings the crowd displayed a willingness to hear what the speakers had to say and readily gathered around the platform when the meeting was called to order in an informal manner by President J. W. Nelson, who spoke as follows:

NELSON'S SPEECH.

"Ladies and Gentlemen:—The wheels of industrial progress and the State for that matter, have been set in motion by the opening of this exposition tonight. What you see here is the result of intelligent co-operation on the part of the ladies of the Ebell Society, the executive committee, the daily press of Oakland, the board of directors of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of San Francisco, and many other good people. All who have participated in or contributed toward making this exhibition what it is have done so for the public good. As a citizen of Oakland, I experience tonight a pardonable feeling of pride in presiding at the opening of this splendid display of the efforts of Oakland and Alameda county in the industrial field. I have had as you know, some acquaintance with the industries of our city and county, but I confess that I am surprised at the number, the variety, and the excellence of the displays made under this roof, and which plainly demonstrate that the majority of our own people know very little of what is going on in their midst, or of the extent and importance of our home industries. And it is with this very object in view the promoters of this exposition have labored so industriously. They wished to give the people of Alameda county information as it were as to what home manufacturers and producers are doing, to let them know of the work going forward and so bring it into review that it may be known by everybody at home, as well as to attract the attention of people abroad.

"Our city has been gradually growing in importance as a manufacturing center. We can point to some good work done. I might refer to the rolling mills, to the Oakland Iron Works, the cotton mills, the bag factory now, alas, closed by a change in the tariff), to some of our iron works, whose success in these dull times has been phenomenal, to our soap works, our large and extensive borax refinery, to the fact that we once had a successful hosiery establishment, to our salt works on the shores of the bay, our great beet sugar industry, our car shops, our agricultural implement works, to our large nurseries, our viticultural interests, our box factory, to our flour mills, our canned goods establishments and many others with which you shall become better acquainted before you leave this building.

"I might say that the goods made in Oakland and Alameda county have found sale in the most distant portions of our country, and have stood the best test of all, unrestricted competition. We have had the first nail factory in the western world, and I trust the day is not far away when it shall resume operations. With the many industries already established here there is room for many more. No county in the State has greater advantages for manufacturing than Oakland. Let each of us use our best endeavors to gain most of these industrial enterprises for Oakland, to the end that our growing boys and girls may find employment, and that even a greater degree of prosperity may bless our city. Let us always bear in mind that when strangers patronize our manufacturers it is the bounden duty of Oaklanders to set the example and to show that industrial workers are not without honor in their own city and county; remembering also that charity begins at home and that, if we wish the commercial world to patronize our industrial establishments we must begin by setting the example. I am a firm believer in a protective tariff in the supporting of home industries and home merchants. By doing so, we give employment to our own working people (whom we are in any event bound to care for), and also show that we have a proper pride in our beloved city and county. Let me emphasize the fact that home industry is the best cure for Japanese or any other kind of competition. I must not be understood from this as proclaiming a war to the knife against any other part of our State or common country. Far from it. I speak for an open field and no favor. We compete for excellence in quality and price, and say when these are equal, patronize those who labor in your midst and are building up the commonwealth.

"And in this connection I wish to express to the members of the exposition committee a feeling of personal obligation to them. From the outset I have, in my official duties, received from these gentlemen, the heartiest support. No task assigned them have they deemed too arduous, but stimulated by loyalty to Oakland's interests and a common desire to achieve success, they have labored for a month with zeal unflagging, their personal concerns given second place, and with utmost unity of sentiment; and the result of their intelligent, well directed and patriotic efforts you now see displayed before you. These are all busy men, conducting large business interests, so that their time would seem to be fully occupied, but I have always found that to secure the success of any enterprise it is safest to instrust it to the men who are already busy and in this instance I know that you will agree with me that my judgment in that regard is correct.

"May this pioneer industrial exposition be productive of a great deal of good to ourselves and the State, and may the time soon come when we shall have one grand industrial exhibition of manufactures and products of the State of California under one roof and supported by State aid. And then there will be such an industrial awakening as to excite the admiration of the promoters of the Half Million Club, recently organized in San Francisco.

"And now, may God's blessing rest upon this enterprise and upon this State and nation."

President Nelson's address was greeted with cheers.

DAVIE'S REMARKS.

At the close of Mr. Nelson's effort, Mayor Davie was introduced. He said he was glad to welcome the people for the first time in eleven years to an exhibit of the manufactures and products of the City of Oakland and Alameda county.

"I presume," he continued, "there is no one here tonight, who was more surprised than I was when I saw the exhibition that has been prepared.

"Much credit is due to the ladies of the Ebell Society with whom the idea originated. Great credit is also due to the executive committee who left their places of business and devoted three weeks of their valuable time to make arrangements for this great event. I believe that Oakland can do even a great deal more. She has accomplished a great deal in the last five or six years but I believe that what she has done does not show what she may do in the next five, twenty or thirty years. I believe that the population of Oakland, thirty years from now, will exceed that of San Francisco. We are situated at the natural terminus of the continent. We are situated on the right side of the bay. It is published that we have here a perfect paradise. That is true and all we need is an undertaking of this kind. All we need is some one to start the movement.

"In regard to the resources of Alameda county, there is sufficient here to supply all our needs. This display shows the necessity and wisdom of patronizing home industry. If you follow up this excellent display, it will be only a short time when you will have an annual exhibit. This county can make a showing equal to any county in the United States. The people of this city for many years have felt that they must go to San Francisco for their goods. But there is no reason why they should do so. There is not a store dealer in Oakland today who will not give you as much for a dollar as you can get in any city in the United States. It is not the working people who patronize San Francisco. I know this from the experience I have had in the carrying business on the ferry. It is not the people who live below Seventh street or west of Market street who cross the bay for trade purposes. It is the big people who have plenty of means who do nearly all their buying there.

"There is not a spot on the face of God's earth that can duplicate the beauty and climate of Oakland, and that beauty and that climate can be and ought to be advertised abroad. It is not your duty to say that Oakland is a hotbed of fever, nor that it is full of sickness, because that is not true. It ought to be said that it is the finest on the face of the earth. You ought to make it still finer by fixing its streets, building boulevards and putting up fine residences so that when people come here from the East they may say that they leave here to return home with regret.

"I hope to see the day when we will have a permanent exhibit of this character, and I hope that in a year, or perhaps in a year and a half, to see a building which will cover a block and be devoted to this purpose."

JULIAN SONTAG'S ADDRESS.

Julian Sontag, of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California, was the next speaker.

"The Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California," he said, "extends to you its heartiest good wishes. I am authorized to say that the association is sorry that it cannot show its appreciation of your efforts in a more earnest manner than it has thus far indicated.

"Our State is a State of silver and gold and iron, and other mines are being rapidly developed.

"Our mines have put out in the last year the equivalent of $14,000,000 and had it not been for the action of Congress, $20,000,000 would have been put into the State.

"We have vast grain fields and many vineyards that are rich and productive and these ought to contribute to our wealth. You have started on a new era of prosperity, that must inure to your success. Exhibitions of this kind will do away with county fairs where gambling is conducted and where a gentleman would not dare to take his wife.

"I promise you that when any county in this State wants to start a branch of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association it can count on me for assistance.

"What you want to do is to elect men to the legislature who will work for your own interests."

Mr. Sontag then referred to the fact that prison made goods from the East had been traced to consumers in California and that in State institutions materials that are not of free manufacture, have been consumed. He also stated that Governor Budd had been informed of this matter and had promised to see that no more abuse of the kind would be allowed.

"You owe a great deal to the ladies of the Ebell Society," continued Mr. Sontag. "They are a credit to your city. They are a credit to the State. Any one who has a mother or a sister as a member of that society has something to be proud of."

M. Barnett of the San Francisco Daily Journal of Commerce then made a few remarks congratulating the executive committee of the exposition, the ladies of the Ebell Society and the Manufacturers and Producers' Association.

That brought the speeches to a close.

The throng then resumed its examination of the exhibits until 10 P. M., when the first night session of the Oakland Exposition came to a close in a blaze of glory.

THE VISITORS.

Among those present were A. L. Stone, F. R. Girard, J. M. Cohen, G. G. Baker, Colonel Thomas F. Garrity, Z. T. Gilpin, Mr. Poirier, L. G. Burnes, G. F. Porter, Dr. Crowley and a host of others.

TODAY'S ENTERTAINMENT.

There was another large attendence at the fair today, many people putting in an apearance when the doors opened at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Those early comers acted wisely because there is enough in the exposition to enable the visitor to pass the whole day in study.

There was a fine attendance at the exposition this afternoon, much larger than that of yesterday afternoon. Among the visitors were many who were present yesterday also but who were then unable to see all that the exposition had on display. There were many ladies present and a larger number of men than had been expected. The following musical programme was rendered by the Fifth Regiment Band:

PART I.

March, "Oakland Exposition," Dedicated to the executive committee and officers of the Oakland Exposition.....J. Coats
Overture, "La Enchantress".....Marle
Waltz, "Jolly Fellows".....Volstedt
Selection, "Reminiscences of Mayerbeer".....Berger
Character piece, "Fun on the Plantation".....Turner
Quartette for cornets, selected..Brentzer

PART II.

Medley overture, "A Night in New York".....Boettger
Chilean dance, "Mariana".....Cordoza
Selection, "Tannhauser".....R. Wagner
Waltz song, "Lost Child".....Stern
Gavotte, "Militaire".....Goldsmith
Galop, "American Wheelmen".....Brooke

William Bain, Director.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

The exposition tonight will be an improvement over the display of last night in many ways.

Roncovieri's American band will give a grand illustrated concert such as is rendered by no other band in the world. These illustrations in themselves are worth the price of admission and make the music most effective. The programme comprises an overture from Offenbach's "Orpheus," and paraphrase of "Lorelay," by Nesvadba; "Recollections of the War of '76," by Beyer. This piece will be one of the illustrated ones, and the features introduced, which will serve to indicate the completeness of the other illustrated features are as follows: The spirit of '76, old man playing Yankee Doodle and two drummer boys; Boston Tea Party; Washington Crossing the Delaware, 1776; Battle of Bunker Hill; Battle of Yorktown; Surrender of Cornwallis; American Army Entering New York, 1776; French flag; Lafayette and George Washington.

The other features of the programme are Monk's "Abide with Me," illustrated; "Life and Times of Columbus," by Herman, illustrated; Entree from Salon's "Queen of Sheba," illustrated; "American National Airs," Meecham, illustrated; "A Day at the Races," illustrated; "Familiar Hymns," illustrated; "Festival March, by Roncovieri.

The official exposition daily is published in the building by Albert Kayser. It is a four page paper, and judging from the first issue which was run off yesterday, Mr. Kayser will give the patrons of the exposition considerable bright and interesting news. J. A. Colquhoun is the editor and S. Loverich has charge of the advertising department.

THE LITERARY AFTERNOON.

The committee appointed by the Writers' Association to devise a programme for the literary afternoon of the exposition, has elected the following people to make the entertainment next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock:

STREET CAR MEN MEET.

An Organization Intended to Improve Their Systems.

There was a distinguished gathering of street railway officials yesterday afternoon in the Occidental hotel, San Francisco. They were from all parts of the State and came in response to a call issued by the street car companies in San Francisco, and formed a temporary organization to be known as the Street Railway Association of California.

There were present from this side of the bay John Sharp of the Oakland Consolidated line; C. Gustafson of the Oakland San Leandro & Haywards; L. Wheeler of the Alameda & Oakland; F. J. Woodward and J. E. Morris of the Highland Park & Fruitvale.

A committee was appointed, the chairman of which was E. P. Vining, and the report of the committee, setting forth the objects of the association was adopted. The aim of the organization is the acquisition of experimental, statistical and scientific knowledge on the construction, equipment and operation of street railways, discussing the cost of the same and the extension of fraternity among operators of the various street lines in California.

Colonel Crocker was tendered and accepted the presidency of the association. S. R. McLenegan of the San Mateo line was elected vice president, and J. E. Morris of this city was elected secretary and treasurer. These officers, with E. P. Vining, general manager of the Market Street Railway Company, F. W. Wood of the Los Angeles Consolidated Railway Company, and Secretary Wheeler of the Oakland, San Leandro & Haywards road, will constitute the executive committee.

A. K. Grim of the Oakland Consolidated, A. W. Barron and M. D. Stein, division superintendent of the Market Street Railway Company, were appointed a committee on by-laws. When this committee completes its report the executive committee will call a general meeting of the association for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST—SUPPER.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Gazette.

Prompt Responses Being Made to the Call of Charity.

DONATIONS ARE COMING IN.

Many Homes Will Be Made Happy at Christmas Time.

ALL ARE APPEALED TO.

Great Good Will Be Done by The Tribune's Relief Bureau.

Two pretty red-cheeked girls trudged through the rain up Eighth street yesterday and walked into the Tribune office. Each carried a large oundle and placed it on the counter.

They would not give their names. "Just say, 'From friends of the needy,'" was all they could be induced to say regarding their identity. And then, smiling in response to the thanks tendered to them, they went away.

The bundles contained a variety of articles, each of which will make some one happy.

It is to be hoped that the example of these two warm-hearted girls will soon be followed by the many who are in a position to lend similar aid.

The hour is one of great distress, and misery is rampant here as it never was before. On every side the wail of the distressed can be heard, and those who have more than their share of the world's goods should open their hearts and hands in response.

The Tribune will see to it that only the deserving receive the donations. Great vigilance will be used to exclude impostors and professional beggars, as only too frequently they obtain the gifts of the kind hearted while those in actual need are left in the cold.

All contributions will be housed in a depot at 376 Eighth street, between Broadway and Washington streets.

It is not too soon to start sending in your donations. Let all respond to the call and let every person not in straightened circumstances be able to say as he or she sits down to dinner on Christmas Day that something, however small, has been done for Christmas charity.

With his accustomed liberality Senator Ed Denison has indorsed the Tribune Relief Bureau among those means for dispensing his charity. He has accordingly forwarded to the Bureau 500 pounds of flour, 60 pounds of sugar, 80 pounds of beans, 100 pounds of coffee, 20 pounds of tea, 10 cans of corn, nine cans of tomatoes and 25 cans of jelly, valued about $30.

This donation will do a great deal of good.

Seulberger, the enterprising florist on Seventh street, has generously furnished greens, pepper boughs and other articles for the decoration of the Bureau.

Mrs. J. C. Palmer sent in a fine 20 pound ham, which will be distributed among several families.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Mediterranean Trip, lately become so popular, has been made the subject of a new book by Noah Brooks, in press with the Scribners. It is a short guide to the principal points on the shores of the western Mediterranean and the Levant, and it must prove invaluable to tourists, for it is the only guide in existence covering these points in one volume. It will contain twenty-four full-page illustrations and maps.

Douglas Sladen's new book, "A Japanese Marriage," which has had an immense run in England, as novel except "Trilby" being more in demand at the libraries, has just been issued in America by MacMillan & Co. In it Mr. Sladen advocates the most advanced hedonistic theories and declares himself a strong advocate of the "new woman" movement. "Any age," he says, "is golden in which women are as free as men."

Beautiful in blue and gold and white cover comes the December Midland. This middle-western magazine (Des Moines, Iowa) brilliantly closes its fourth volume and second year. Its articles are all interesting, and that's more than can be said of many a more pretentious magazine. It's fiction department is a surprise—no commonplace tales, no brilliant nothings; but strong, realistic stories instinct with life. Two Christmas stories and several illustrated Christmas poems supply the sentiment of this number. Mary J. Reid's talk about Chicago authors, with portraits; Mrs. Clement's paper on Japanese Women, with ten pretty illustrations; Mr. Evans' pictures of Mosquito Indian life; Mr. Leslie's sketch of Nast, with the first authorized engraving of his famous Appomattox painting, and other attractive articles make the December number the best yet.

At the present time a good cyclopaedia seems to be a necessary of life, one of those adjuncts of a well-regulated household that cannot be dispensed with if its members are to mingle in intelligent society and not appear ignorant or foolish. The newest claimant for public favor and everyday usefulness is Johnson's Universal Cyclopaedia, of which the eighth and concluding volume has just been issued by D. Appleton & Co., of New York.

The official gazette of all the patriotic-hereditary societies, the American Historical Register, has for December its usual attractive contents. It tells, with a score of pictures, of "Lafayette Day" in Philadelphia when the Nation's guest visited that city in October, 1824. These monthly articles in the Historical Register relating to Lafayette's visit in 1824 are contributed by members of the Patriotic Societies, and is a feature of this magazine's enterprise entirely its own. Hon. W. H. Bailey, of Houston, Tex., continues his historical paper on the "Regulators of North Carolina," a description of the regulation emeute generally ignored by American historians. "Colonial Patriotism in Song" the title of another article, is a valuable paper by Mr. Onderdonk, of Chicago, on popular versification before the Revolution. The colonial family described this month is Thompson of Conecticut, by Mrs. Marcus Richardson, of New Orleans.

Of several new stories of Lincoln told in the second installment of the new "Life of Lincoln" in McClure's Magazine for December, one of the most interesting is that, when Lincoln removed with his family from Indiana to Illinois, he made thrifty use of the opportunity of the journey to peddle out, at a good profit, a stock of small wares which he had bought for the purpose. The whole installment is rich in picturesque details, and in Lincoln as he undertook life on his own account, first as a flatboatman, and then as a grocery clerk at New Salem, exhibits a young genius and hero, doing wonderful feats of strength, risking his life to save comrades from drowning, and magically winning his way in a new community by his rare integrity, his superior intelligence, and his gift of entertaining speech. Along with the paper are twenty-five pictures, including a facsimile of Lincoln's first vote, portraits of him in 1856, 1857, 1858 and 1860, portraits of his early associates, and pictures of all the important scenes of this period of his life.

The December Overland comes out as the Christmas number with a beautiful cover by Boeringer in brown and blue. An Indian maiden is gazing at the star of Bethlehem, and the idea is further enforced by a frontispiece of the same design with a sonnet by Charles G. Greene, "Lux Jucunda," embodying the old idea that the star was seen all over the earth and made universal joy on the first Christmas night. The Christmas tone is kept up well through the number. "As Talked in the Sanctum" contains a Spanish Christmas tale, and there is "A Christmas in Tahiti," wherein a ne'er-do-well, rollicking sort of a fellow tells of a South Sea Christmas passed under very peculiar circumstances. Another Christmas story, "A Malayan Christmas," by Rounsevelle Wildman, the editor, is full of good description and feeling.

With the December issue The Arena is reduced in price to twenty-five cents per copy and to $3 per year, but this reduction in price is accompanied by no diminution in the excellence of this great liberal, progressive and reformative review; indeed, the issue is exceptionally strong. Among the eminent thinkers who contribute to the one hundred and seventy-six pages which go to make up the body of the magazine are Prof. Richard T. Ely, Justice Walter Clark, LL.D., Rev. Minot J. Savage, Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Frank B. Sanborn, Rev. John W. Chadwick, Henry Gaullieur, Prof. George D. Herron, Prof. Frank Parsons, Prof. Joseph Rhodes Buchanan, Helen H. Gardener, and Will Allen Dromgoole.

There was no painting at the art exhibition at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876 which attracted so much attention as that called "Yankee Doodle," showing a strong old drummer and lifer, alive with the spirit of Lexington and Bunker Hill, leading the Continentals into battle. The painter of this famous picture, which now hangs in the public library at Marblehead, was Archibald M. Willard, who now lives and works in Cleveland. Under the title of "The Painter of 'Yankee Doodle,'" Mr. James F. Ryder of Cleveland tells the interesting story of his life in the December number of the New England Magazine. The article is enriched by copies of many of Mr. Willard's best known works, including several of the early sketches for "Yankee Doodle," and is altogether a remarkable article, which will be read eagerly everywhere. We have no more noteworthy instance of a self-made painter in America than Mr. Willard. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

Outing for December is a pleasant blending of good fiction and breezy sketches of sport, adventure and travel in many lands. Two excellent complete stories are "A River Between," by Florence Guertin, and "Charlie," by R. Bergengren. The river between does not prevent a New Yorker visiting Brooklyn to some purpose, while "Charlie" is a disembodied spirit—ghostly, yet funny. In "Skating" Ed. W. Sandy points the way to the graceful mastery of the steel blades. Other valuable features are "Hunting the Caiman," "An Outing in Labrador," by R. G. Tuber; "Caribou Hunting," by the late E. P. Rogers; "Salmon Fishing on Snake River," "Lenz's World Tour Awheel," and "On the Frontier Service," by Lieut. G. W. Van Deusen. Among many beautiful illustrations are several by Frederick Remington.

There is a toboggan slide at St. Moritz, Switzerland, three-quarters of a mile long that has been described in seventy-one seconds. Scribner's for January will publish a description of it, with a number of pictures from instantaneous photographs.

"St. Ives," the novel left substantially complete and unpublished by Robert Louis Stevenson at his death, is described as purely a romance of adventure. It is a story of a French prisoner captured in the Peninsular wars, who is shut up in Edinburgh castle; there he falls in love with a Scotch girl who, with her aunt, frequently visits the prisoners. There is early in the story a duel under extraordinary circumstances between St. Ives and a fellow-prisoner; after various episodes a dangerous plan of escape is decided upon, and the daring St. Ives finally becomes a free man.

John Heard, the American civil engineer who died a few months ago in Rome, left an unpublished story in the hands of Scribner's which will appear in the January number of the magazine. It is a railroad story turning on the heroism of a locomotive engineer.

On account of its usefulness there are few magazines that are of as much interest to housekeepers as "Table Talk," which is the exponent of all good living. The December number gives promise of many savory dishes which may be concocted from the recipes in the "Housekeeper's Inquiry Department," and under "Creole Recipes." Christmas Day is pleasantly treated by Mars Burton Kingsland, while Octave Thanet gives a glimpse of western life in her entertaining way. The holiday treasures or toys for the children are touched upon by Mrs. M. C. Meyer, who also gives another paper on "The History of Lace." Other subjects treated are "Diet in Rheumatism and Gout," by Dr. H. H. Hawkhurst; "In Woman's Line"; "Novelties"; some of the holiday books in "Under the Holly Boughs" and "Fashionable Luncheon and Tea Toilets," by Miss Tillie May Forney.

MacMillan & Co. announce an important work on the big game of South Africa, by John Guille Malais, F. Z. S., author of Game Birds and Shooting Sketches. It is entitled A Breath from the Veldt, and the object of the author has been to supplement from personal observation what is already known of the animals he came across during a recent tour in South Africa and to present a true picture of the life in that country.

Stephen Crane's war story, The Red Badge, is to be published shortly in England by William Heinemann, who speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Crane's literary work and his promise.

An entirely new edition of the works of Lord Byron is announced by Macmillan & Co. It will be edited by Mr. W. E. Henley, and will include, beside the complete poetical works, the letters of Byron, public and private, which with their spirit and ease and charm are usually admitted to be among the best of English letters. This edition, which will be in ten volumes, will present for the first time since the seventeen-volume edition of 1833, long since out of print, a fitting shrine for the works of one of the greatest poets of the century.

C. B. Scott, for several years in charge of nature study in the schools of St. Paul, Minn., now of the Normal School of Oswego, N. Y., has written a book upon "The Child With Nature," soon to be published by D. C. Heath & Co., Boston. Mr. Scott believes in teaching the beauty and symbolism of nature, as well as its commodity value.

In a dainty booklet printed in light blue, salmon-pink and gray tones—a splendid illustration of the beauties of art applied to printing—the Ladies' Home Journal announces some of its leading literary and artistic features for 1896. There will be a series of papers upon the domestic and social side of Washington by General A. W. Greely, U. S. A.; another by ex-President Harrison, telling of "This Country of Ours"; a third by Mary Anderson de Navarro, who writes of her stage experiences, her struggles for recognition and artistic triumphs, with a supplemental article telling of her life and surroundings today. In a lighter vein, Mary E. Wilkins will present a series of "Neighborhood Types" papers, pen pictures of quaint and familiar personages—New Englanders; and Jerome K. Jerome will reflect old England life in a number of "Stories of the Town"—stories of London—in his inimitable, crisp style.

A new edition is announced by Macmillan & Co. of "The Marvellous Adventures of Sir John Maundeville, Kt.," a work ranking in interest second only to Herodotus, in that fascinating class of books that hover between fact and fiction. Though written nearly six centuries ago, the account of the worthy knight's travels, and especially of his remarkable visits to Chan of Cathay and Prester John, are as fresh and delightful as ever. The book is illustrated by Mr. Arthur Layard with pictures as naive as the text, and is made gorgeous with a cover of scarlet and gold.

The Nickell Magazine for December, which has just come to hand, certainly entitles that bright publication to a place in the front rank of America's magazines. There are nine superb productions of celebrated paintings, which illustrate "Killing Genius" by E. R. Chandler. E. B. Barry tells in an interesting manner about King Clovis and Saint Louis, and Frank Littleton has a short critical article on Paul Bourget, which accompanies a good picture of the celebrated author in his study.

"Prairie Folks," by Hamlin Garland, which is this autumn reissued by Stone & Kimball, is practically a new book, as the first edition was small and almost unknown. It is really a companion volume to "Main Traveled Roads," and Mr. Garland, it is said, considers it as containing some of his best work.

William Henry Bishop's translation of Champfleury's Faience Violin has been published by D. Appleton & Co. by arrangements with the executors of the author's estate, who have given D. Appleton & Co. the exclusive authorization for publication in English.

The Open Court Publishing Company will publish in December a booklet entitled "Karma," a tale by Dr. Paul Karus, illustrated by Japanese artists and printed on Japanese crepe paper.

The December number of the Progress of the World Magazine contains an unusual number of illustrations, including large half-tone portraits of all the newly elected State Governors and other important persons chosen for office in last month's election. The departments of "Science" and "Finance" are easily the most interesting, the former presenting an entertaining description of the discovery and possibilities of the new method of producing acetylene gas, an illustrated up-to-date account of the underground electric conduit for street railways, and a paper by Prof. Delabarre of Brown University, the eminent student of psychics and psychical phenomena, in which the writer explains the scientific basis of the alleged occult world and dispels many popular illusions on that subject.

Queen Victoria has had her attention called by one of her chaplains, the Rev. Dr. Tulloch, to Mr. Maclaren Cobban's new Scotch romance, "The King of Adaman," published in this country by D. Appleton & Co., and Her Majesty has sent the author a message of gracious and kindly interest. The Queen was probably much amused by the letters which purport to pass between her and the Master of Hutcheon.

The old-time Christmas number of a domestic magazine was a good thing, fairly adapted for use at the fireside and in the home, but the Christmas number of today, as is well typified in Jenness Miller Monthly, is a fitting illustration of the development of literary work and taste in the last few years, especially as it applies generally and in detail to what might be called the kingdom of women. From the cover the bright eyes of a pretty child peep out shyly at the beholder; a merry Christmas party, "Under the Mistletoe," greets the reader from the frontispiece, and many other equally attractive illustrations sprinkle the book from first cover to last.

The leading article in the Forum for December is probably the cleverest analysis of the present financial situation in the United States that has yet appeared. The writer is M. Paul Leroy-Beaulieu, the distinguished French economist, who lays down the "Conditions for American Commercial and Financial Supremacy," eh! says that there is much surprise throughout Europe that a great nation like the United States should allow its development to be trammelled by frequent and severe crises, and that it should be either unable to discern their causes or lack decision to remove them from its path. He thinks that the failure of the American government to redeem its paper currency after the war was a great and vital error, whose evil influences are still felt. In his opinion the United States government should cease to issue paper money, remitting the task to the banks.

Conspicuous among the contents of the December Atlantic is another of John Fiske's historical studies. It has for a title "The Starving Time in Old Virginia," and is an important historical contribution, as well as delightful reading. This issue also contains three short stories: "Witchcraft," by L. Dougall; "The End of the Terror," by Robert Wilson, and "Dorothy," by Harriet Lewis Bradley.

The New Bohemian (Cincinnati, O.) for December is the most attractive number of that sprightly magazine that has yet appeared. The leading feature is a splendid review of the life work of Eugene Field, by his friend and co-worker, Le Roy Armstrong. The frontispiece is a portrait of the dead poet, the latest and one of the best ever published. "Touch Hands and Part" is an intensely dramatic story by Percival Pollard, the brilliant western journalist. It is a strong conception and skilfully told, being both true to life and true to art. "American Artists Abroad," by Harriet Chedie Connor, is an admirable critique on the work of American painters at the Berlin exposition. It is rather spicy, but sympathetically discriminating and just.

Anson D. F. Randolph & Co. will publish immediately a new book of travel under the title of "Algerian Memoirs." By Fanny Bullock Workman and William Hunter Workman.

Donahoe's this month is the Christmas Magazine by excellence. One is prepared somewhat by the beautiful cover for the attractions within, and yet the latter far surpass anticipation in the happy seasonableness of the articles and the artistic beauty of the illustrations. Magazine readers crave a change from the ordinary mental pabulum at special times like Christmas, Easter and mid-summer, and the subscribers to Donahoe's will feel gratified at the felicitous way in which this taste has been considered in the current issue. This number is just the sort of book to sit with for a delightful hour in an easy chair beneath the library lamp or in the glow of an open fire. Every article is readable and enjoyable, as may be judged from its contents, not the least welcome feature being the handsome new type-dress in which the pages appear, and the more than usual care bestowed upon the beautiful illustrations.

THE MILLS CONCERT.

An Enjoyable Programme Given by Many Talented Pupils.

Morning song.....Hugo Jungst
Choral Class.
Polonaise.....Hans von Bronsart
Miss Alberta Cressey.
Aria from "Cosi fan Tutte".....Mozart
Miss Mabelle Gilman.
Valse caprice, op. 13.....Ludwig Schytte
Miss Selma Anderson.
"Elsa's Dream".....Wagner
Miss Grace Gilbert.
(a) "Feldblumen-Strauss." (b) "Bergesquell".....Hans von Bronsart
Miss Marie Robbins.
(a) "The Sandman," from "Hansel and Gretel".....E. Humperdinck
(b) "Thou Fairest Vision of My Soul."
.....Lassen
Miss Sydnia Barnard.
(a) Pilgrim's Chorus. (b) Romance, from "Tannhauser".....Wagner-Liszt
Miss Jewel Spencer.
"Dream of Love".....F. Liszt
Miss Persis Coleman.
(a) "Dreams".....Wagner
(b) "I'll Not Complain".....Shumann
Miss Mabelle Gilman.
Impromptu, caprice, op. 97.....Th. Kullak
Miss Ada Story.
Choral Class.

Violin obligato by Miss Edith Crafts.

One is always sure of good music at Mills College. The piano pupils who played were all pupils of Professor Lisser. The vocal pupils were Madame Rosewald's pupils. During her absence for the past few weeks, a pupil of Madame Rosewald, Mrs. Blanchard, has been their instructor.

Professor Schmidt conducted the choruses, which had been selected and partly prepared by the late Professor Rosewald before his death. Every piece was exceedingly well rendered.

Miss Sydnia Barnard, a sister of Marie Barnard of the Class of '81, has a very promising voice. Her sister is now studying in Paris and has great promise for the future in opera.

Miss Mabelle Gilman has a phenomenal voice. She has studied only a little more than a year with Madame Rosewald, who justly anticipates great things of her voice in the future.

All of the piano pupils did exceedingly well. Among these Miss Allie Cressey of Modesto and Miss Marie Robbins, daughter of Banker Robbins of Suisun, Miss Jewel Spencer, a daughter of the well known Dennis Spencer of Napa, a graduate of the Class of '70, is also a very fine performer.

Miss Persis Coleman, the sixth of Mr. John Coleman's daughters who have been pupils of Mills, is a very attractive performer.

With very few exceptions the dress was simple and suitable for the occasion, as is true generally of Mills girls. The "new woman" finds no place at Mills.

At the close of the concert all were invited to the dining room for refreshments and also to visit the art room, adjoining the concert room.

Less than five months' work was displayed there, but it was exceedingly good. The display in oil, black and white and pen and ink was excellent. The work from the life class was very fine. Indeed, it would be difficult to find anywhere better work of amateurs than that seen at Mills. The college is to be congratulated upon having such a fine teacher as Mrs. Mann, who is at the head of the department.

Madame Rosewald will return from the East in time to take up her work in January.

Residents of Livermore Are Out for General Prosperity.

The citizens of Livermore have organized what they have styled the Livermore League of Progress. H. H. Pitcher has been elected chairman and J. O. McKown secretary. The following committees were appointed: On constitution and by-laws, Reuben Hunter, J. O. McKown and W. R. Ellis; on members, Frank Savage, Herbert Weymouth and John E. Clark. A committee consisting of Dr. Savage, George Beck and Mr. Wagoner was appointed to take steps towards getting a Livermore valley exhibit at the Oakland Exposition.

The enthusiasm has extended to the ladies, who have also formed an association which will be an adjunct to the Improvement Society. The purposes of it are as follows: "For the purpose of agitating for local improvement and prosecuting a general work for the advertising and building up of Livermore Valley, hereby signify our willingness to become members of such an organization, to be an annex of the Improvement Club."

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

Dr. J. P. H. Dunn of Oakland is in Los Angeles on a short visit.

Miss Emma May Tilloston of this city is the guest of Sheriff and Mrs. A. V. Alvarado of Contra Costa county.

C. C. Burg of this city is in Davisville on a short visit.

Miss May Veedon of this city has left for a trip around the world. She is accompanied by some Los Angeles friends.

Mrs. F. W. Payne and son of Hartford arrived in Oakland Saturday. They will spend the winter with Mrs. Payne's father, Dr. J. R. Bradway.

G. W. T. Loher, the Acme Club wheelman, arrived in Oakland yesterday, after a trip to New York and back on his bicycle. He was gone a little more than four months and traveled 4350 miles.

E. Smith and wife of this city, are at the Grand Hotel, San Francisco.

A. L. Leber of Oakland, paid a short visit to friends in Woodland, last week.

Mrs. M. E. Hawley went to Napa Saturday to make arrangements for sending her brother, John Edington, into the country for his health.

Miss Mary Jenkins, formerly a teacher in Decoto, has been elected as a teacher in Oakland. She is at present in Los Angeles and will come to this city to assume her duties after the holidays.

The Butte Football team, composed of F. Brook, (captain), J. Hooper, C. Hooper, G. McMillan, L. J. Hartzell, J. W. Bohn, W. B. Laswell, W. T. Perham, J. Monroe, D. Gillis, R. Ellis, G. King, W. Slater, D. Richards, L. Smith, R. Weiss, J. P. McPherson, and Wilbur Boyes, is on its way to this city. D. Silvel, manager, James Thomson, treasurer, and Bert Smith, reporter, will also accompany the team, as will also Gov. Rickards and Mayor Thompson. The team will arrive in Oakland Friday and will be the guests of the Reliance boys over night.

A quartette of fine artists will sing the solos in "The Messiah," to be presented this evening at the First Congregational church by the Oakland Oratorio Society. James Hamilton Howe, the conductor, may congratulate himself that, in engaging the greatest tenor, Uso Talbo, Mrs. Carroll-Nicholson, contralto, Ida de Sumanario, soprano, and Walter Campbell, basso, he has selected the most popular and best singers on the coast. The large sale of tickets testifies the public's appreciation. The production will be a notable one.

Assemblyman Dick Thomas is down from Grass Valley on business. He will run for the Senate next election and is certain of a practical walk-over. Mr. Thomas is the most admired young man in his part of the country. His splendid fight for the miners and the victories he achieved for them in the last two legislatures placed him first in their estimation, and his fine record on the floor of the Assembly gained for him additional laurels. He is a gifted orator as well as a statesman and personally is one of the most popular men in California.

The A. P. A. masquerade will be given at Masonic Temple tomorrow night.

IT IS A SPLENDID SHOW.

A VARIETY OF PRODUCTS.

The formal opening of the Oakland Exposition took place last night under circumstances that could not have been more propitious. The elements favored the undertaking, because not a drop of rain fell during the evening, and, as a consequence, the main building and the annex, were crowded with people from the time the doors opened until the hour for closing arrived, at 10 o'clock.

The main entrance to the place is on Twelfth street between Harrison and Webster. Through the turnstiles placed there the people began to pass at an early hour. As they entered, they found the place bright and warm. There was a cheery hum of conversation and laughter, showing the presence of merry spirits and, at the same time, could be distinguished the buzz and chatter and the heavy blows of machinery which, in a measure, showed up some of the wonderful manufactories of Alameda county.

The people wandered from one exhibit to the other, but made nothing more than a superficial examination of each. The governing idea seemed to be to take in the whole show at first and later make a minute examination of the individual features.

In this way more than three-quarters of an hour were passed, and then, the hour for the official opening of the display having arrived, there was a thronging of people to the avenue in front of the stage and to the galleries on either side in order to hear what the projectors had to say regarding the undertaking.

It may be here stated that, while there are many exhibits in the galleries, yet, the management has reserved a number of benches there for the accommodation of people who desire to sit down and listen to the music or rest after having walked through aisles of the exhibition.

A few minutes after 8 o'clock the managers and their invited guests appeared upon the stage and among the former were noted President J. W. Nelson, Secretary George Roeth, Assistant Secretary Davis, Superintendent Craigo Sharp, Solicitor J. F. Street, Mr. Tacy, representing the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California, Committeemen Theodore Gier, Charles S. Booth, Fred Keeker, E. G. Buswell, F. W. Spiars and William Rutherford.

The interest taken in the matter by the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California was shown by the presence on the platform of Julian Sontag, president of the association; Fred H. Dingle, assistant secretary of the same organization and Directors Andrea Sbarboro, J. P. Currier and James Sproule. W. W. Sanford, secretary of the Carlson-Carmer Soap Company; E. E. Smith, ex-chief deputy of the horticultural and agricultural exhibit of the midwinter fair; M. M. McGlynn, editor of The Voice of Labor and secretary of the Federated Trades Council, San Francisco; Henry Dalton, Charles Spear, E. McFadden and a number of others.

Notwithstanding the fact that there was a great deal of noise in the buildings the crowd displayed a willingness to hear what the speakers had to say and readily gathered around the platform when the meeting was called to order in an informal manner by President J. W. Nelson, who spoke as follows:

NELSON'S SPEECH.

"Ladies and Gentlemen:—The wheels of industrial progress and the State for that matter, have been set in motion by the opening of this exposition tonight. What you see here is the result of intelligent co-operation on the part of the ladies of the Ebell Society, the executive committee, the daily press of Oakland, the board of directors of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of San Francisco, and many other good people. All who have participated in or contributed toward making that exhibition what it is have done so for the public good. As a citizen of Oakland, I experience tonight a pardonable feeling of pride in presiding at the opening of this splendid display of the efforts of Oakland and Alameda county in the industrial field. I have had as you know, some acquaintance with the industries of our city and county, but I confess that I am surprised at the number, the variety, and the excellence of the displays made under this roof, and which plainly demonstrate that the majority of our own people know very little of what is going on in their midst, or of the extent and importance of our home industries. And it is with this very object in view the promoters of this exposition have labored so industriously. They wished to give the people of Alameda county information as it were as to what home manufacturers and producers are doing, to let them know of the work going forward and so bring it into review that it may be known by everybody at home, as well as to attract the attention of people abroad.

"Our city has been gradually growing in importance as a manufacturing center. We can point to some good work done. I might refer to the rolling mills, to the Oakland Iron Works, the cotton mills, the bag factory now, alas, closed by a change in the tariff), to some of our iron works, whose success in these dull times has been phenomenal, to our soap works, our large and extensive borax refinery, to the fact that we once had a successful hosiery establishment, to our salt works on the shores of the bay, our great beet sugar industry, our car shops, our agricultural implement works, to our large nurseries, our viticultural interests, our box factory, to our flour mills, our canned goods establishments and many others with which you shall become better acquainted before you leave this building.

"I might say that the goods made in Oakland and Alameda county have found sale in the most distant portions of our country, and have stood the best test of all, unrestricted competition. We have had the first nail factory in the western world, and I trust the day is not far away when it shall resume operations. With the many industries already established here there is room for many more. No county in the State has greater advantages for manufacturing than Oakland. Let each of us use our best endeavors to gain most of these industrial enterprises for Oakland, to the end that our growing boys and girls may find employment, and that even a greater degree of prosperity may bless our city. Let us always bear in mind that when strangers patronize our manufacturers it is the bounden duty of Oaklanders to set the example and to show that industrial workers are not without honor in their own city and county; remembering also that charity begins at home and that, if we wish the commercial world to patronize our industrial establishments we must begin by setting the example. I am a firm believer in a protective tariff in the supporting of home industries and home merchants. By doing so, we give employment to our own working people (whom we are in any event bound to care for), and also show that we have a proper pride in our beloved city and county. Let me emphasize the fact that home industry is the best cure for Japanese or any other kind of competition. I must not be understood from this as proclaiming a war to the knife against any other part of our State or common country. Far from it. I speak for an open field and no favor. We compete for excellence in quality and price, and say when these are equal, patronize those who labor in your midst and are building up the commonwealth.

"And in this connection I wish to express to the members of the exposition committee a feeling of personal obligation to them. From the outset I have, in my official duties, received from these gentlemen, the heartiest support. No task assigned them have they deemed too arduous, but stimulated by loyalty to Oakland's interests and a common desire to achieve success, they have labored for a month with zeal unflagging, their personal concerns given second place, and with utmost unity of sentiment; and the result of their intelligent, well directed and patriotic efforts you now see displayed before you. These are all busy men, conducting large business interests, so that their time would seem to be fully occupied but I have always found that to secure the success of any enterprise it is safest to intrust it to the men who are already busy and in this instance I know that you will agree with me that my judgment in that regard is correct.

"May this pioneer industrial exposition be productive of a great deal of good to ourselves and the State, and may the time soon come when we shall have our grand industrial exhibition of manufactures and products of the State of California under one roof and supported by State aid. And then there will be such an industrial awakening as to excite the admiration of the promoters of the Half Million Club, recently organized in San Francisco.

"And now, may God's blessing rest upon this enterprise and upon this State and nation."

President Nelson's address was greeted with cheers.

DAVIE'S REMARKS.

At the close of Mr. Nelson's effort, Mayor Davie was introduced. He said he was glad to welcome the people for the first time in eleven years to an exhibit of the manufactures and products of the City of Oakland and Alameda county.

"I presume," he continued, "there is no one here tonight, who was more surprised than I was when I saw the exhibition that has been prepared.

"Much credit is due to the ladies of the Ebell Society with whom the idea originated. Great credit is also due to the executive committee who left their places of business and devoted three weeks of their valuable time to make arrangements for this great event. I believe that Oakland can do even a great deal more. She has accomplished a great deal in the last five or six years but I believe that what she has done does not show what she may do in the next five, twenty or thirty years. I believe that the population of Oakland, thirty years from now, will exceed that of San Francisco. We are situated at the natural terminus of the continent. We are situated on the right side of the bay. It is published that we have here a perfect paradise. That is true and all we need is an undertaking of this kind. All we need is some one to start the movement.

"In regard to the resources of Alameda county, there is sufficient here to supply all our needs. This display shows the necessity and wisdom of patronizing home industry. If you follow up this excellent display it will be only a short time when you will have an annual exhibit. This county can make a showing equal to any county in the United States. The people of this city for many years have felt that they must go to San Francisco for their goods. But there is no reason why they should do so. There is not a store dealer in Oakland today who will not give you as much for a dollar as you can get in any store in the United States. It is not the working people who patronize San Francisco. I know this from the experience I have had in the carrying business on the ferry. It is not the people who live below Seventh street or west of Market street who cross the bay for trade purposes. It is the big people who have plenty of means who do nearly all their buying there.

"There is not a spot on the face of God's earth that can duplicate the beauty and climate of Oakland, and that beauty and that climate can be and ought to be advertised abroad. It is not your duty to say the Oakland is a hotbed of fever, nor that it is full of sickness, because that is not true. It ought to be said that it is the finest on the face of the earth. You ought to make it still finer by fixing its streets, building boulevards and putting up fine residences so that when people come here from the East they may say that they leave here to return home with regret.

"I hope to see the day when we will have a permanent exhibit of this character, and I hope that in a year, or perhaps in a year and a half, to see a building which will cover a block and be devoted to this purpose."

JULIAN SONTAG'S ADDRESS.

Julian Sontag, of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California, was the next speaker.

"The Manufacturers' and Producers Association of California," he said, "extends to you its heartiest good wishes. I am authorized to say that the association is sorry that it cannot show its appreciation of your efforts in a more earnest manner than it has thus far indicated.

"Our State is a State of silver and gold and iron, and other mines are being rapidly developed.

"Our mines have put out in the last year the equivalent of $14,000,000 and had it not been for the action of Congress, $20,000,000 would have been put into the State.

"We have vast grain fields and many vineyards that are rich and productive and these ought to contribute to our wealth. You have started on a new era of prosperity, that must inure to your success. Exhibitions of this kind will do away with county fairs where gambling is conducted and where a gentleman would not dare to take his wife.

"I promise you that when any county in this State wants to start a branch of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association it can count on me for assistance.

"What you want to do is to elect men to the legislature who will work for your own interests."

Mr. Sontag then referred to the fact that prison made goods from the East had been traced to consumers in California and that in State institutions materials that are not of free manufacture, have been consumed. He also stated that Governor Budd had been informed of this matter and had promised to see that no more abuse of the kind would be allowed.

"You owe a great deal to the ladies of the Ebell Society," continued Mr. Sontag. "They are a credit to your city. They are a credit to the State. Any one who has a mother or a sister as a member of that society has something to be proud of."

M. Barnett of the San Francisco Daily Journal of Commerce then made a few remarks congratulating the executive committee of the exposition, the ladies of the Ebell Society and the Manufacturers and Producers' Association.

That brought the speeches to a close.

The throng then resumed its examination of the exhibits until 10 P. M., when the first night session of the Oakland Exposition came to a close in a blaze of glory.

THE VISITORS.

Among those present were A. L. Stone, F. R. Girard, J. M. Cohen, G. G. Baker, Colonel Thomas F. Garrity, Z. T. Gilpin, Mr. Poirier, L. G. Burpee, C. F. Fisher, Charles Spear, Leslie Blackburn, Walter Laymance, C. R. Yates, Dr. Rogers, Henry Dalton, W. W. Cameron, W. P. Palmantier, Howard Osgood, D. E. Fortin, E. Remillard, J. J. White, Joseph E. Porter, Dr. Crowley and a host of others.

TODAY'S ENTERTAINMENT.

There was another large attendance at the fair today, many people putting in an appearance when the doors opened at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Those early comers acted wisely because there is enough in the exposition to enable the visitor to pass the whole day in study.

There was a fine attendance at the exposition this afternoon, much larger than that of yesterday afternoon. Among the visitors were many who were present yesterday also but who were then unable to see all that the exposition had on display. There were many ladies present and a larger number of men than had been expected. The following musical programme was rendered by the Fifth Regiment Band:

PART I.

March, "Oakland Exposition," Dedicated to the executive committee and officers of the Oakland Exposition.....J. Coats
Overture, "La Enchantress".....Marie
Waltz, "Jolly Fellows".....Volstedt
Selection, "Reminiscences of Mayerbeer".....Berger
Character piece, "Fun on the Plantation".....Turner
Quartette for cornets, selected.....Frentzer

PART II.

Medley overture, "A Night in New York".....Boettger
Cuban dance, "Mariana".....Corioza
Selection, "Tannhauser".....R. Wagner
Waltz song, "Lost Child".....Stern
Gavotte, "Militaire".....Goldsmith
Galop, "American Wheelmen".....Brooke
William Bain, Director.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

The exposition tonight will be an improvement over the display of last night in many ways.

Roncovieri's American band will give a grand illustrated concert such as is rendered by no other band in the world. These illustrations in themselves are worth the price of admission and make the music most effective. The programme comprises an overture from Offenbach's "Orpheus," and paraphrase of "Hereley," by Nesvadba; "Recollections of the War of '76," by Boyer. This piece will be one of the illustrated ones, and the features introduced, which will serve to indicate the completeness of the other illustrated features are as follows: The spirit of '76, old man playing Yankee Doodle and two drummer boys; Boston Tea Party; Washington Crossing the Delaware, 1776; Battle of Bunker Hill; Battle of Yorktown; Surrender of Cornwallis; American Army Entering New York, 1776; French flag; Lafayette and George Washington.

The other features of the programme are Monk's "Adieu with Me," illustrated; "Life and Times of Columbus," by Herman, illustrated; Entree from Saban's "Queen of Sheba," illustrated; "American National Airs," Meecham, illustrated; "A Day at the Races," illustrated; "Familiar Hymns," illustrated; "Festival March, by Roncovieri.

The official exposition daily is published in the building by Albert Kayser. It is a four page paper, and judging from the first issue which was out yesterday, Mr. Kayser will give the patrons of the exposition considerable bright and interesting news. J. A. Calquhoun is the editor and S. Loverich has charge of the advertising department.

THE LITERARY AFTERNOON.

The committee appointed by the Writers' Association to devise a programme for the literary afternoon of the exposition, has elected the following people to make the entertainment next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock:

STREET CAR MEN MEET.

An Organization Intended to Improve Their Systems.

There was a distinguished gathering of street railway officials yesterday afternoon in the Occidental hotel, San Francisco. They were from all parts of the State and came in response to a call issued by the street car companies in San Francisco, and formed a temporary organization to be known as the Street Railway Association of California.

There were present from this side of the bay John Sharp of the Oakland Consolidated line; C. Gustafson of the Oakland San Leandro & Haywards; L. Wheeler of the Alameda & Oakland, E. J. Woodward and J. E. Morris of the Highland Park & Fruitvale.

A committee was appointed, the chairman of which was E. P. Vining, and the report of the committee, setting forth the objects of the association was adopted. The aim of the organization is the acquisition of experimental, statistical and scientific knowledge on the construction, equipment and operation of street railways, discussing the cost of the same and the extension of fraternity among operators of the various street lines in California.

Colonel Crocker was tendered and accepted the presidency of the association. S. B. McLenegan of the San Mateo line was elected vice president, and J. E. Morris of this city was elected secretary and treasurer. These officers, with E. P. Vining, general manager of the Market Street Railway Company, F. W. Wood of the Los Angeles Consolidated Railway Company, and Secretary Wheeler of the Oakland, San Leandro & Haywards road, will constitute the executive committee.

A. K. Grim of the Oakland Consolidated, A. W. Barron and M. D. Stein, division superintendent of the Market Street Railway Company, were appointed a committee on by-laws. When this committee completes its report the executive committee will call a general meeting of the association for the purpose of affecting a permanent organization.

EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST—SUPPER.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame.—Civil Service Gazette.

Prompt Responses Being Made to the Call of Charity.

DONATIONS ARE COMING IN.

Many Homes Will Be Made Happy at Christmas Time.

ALL ARE APPEALED TO.

Great Good Will Be Done by The Tribune's Relief Bureau.

Two pretty red-cheeked girls trudged through the rain up Eighth street yesterday and walked into the Tribune office. Each carried a large bundle and placed it on the counter.

They would not give their names. "Just say, 'From friends of the needy,'" was all they could be induced to say regarding their identity. And then, smiling in response to the thanks tendered to them, they went away.

The bundles contained a variety of articles, each of which will make some one happy.

It is to be hoped that the example of these two warm-hearted girls will soon be followed by the many who are in a position to lend similar aid.

The hour is one of great distress, and misery is rampant here as it never was before. On every side the wail of the distressed can be heard, and those who have more than their share of the world's goods should open their hearts and hands to it speedily.

The Tribune will see to it that only the deserving get the donations. Great vigilance will be used to exclude impostors and professional beggars, as only too frequently they obtain the gifts of the kind heart while those in actual need are left in the cold.

All contributions will be housed in a depot at 476 Eighth street, between Broadway and Washington streets.

It is not too soon to start sending in your donations. Let all respond to the call and let every person not in a straightened circumstances be able to say as he or she sees fit to all over on Christmas Day "not a mother, however small, has been done for Christmas charity."

With his accustomed liberality Senator Leland Stanford has placed means for distributing his charity. He has accordingly forwarded to the Bureau 500 pounds of flour, 60 pounds of sugar, 80 pounds of fruits, 50 pounds of coffee, 30 pounds of tea, 10 cases of corn, nine cans of tomatoes and 25 cans of jelly, valued about $50.

This donation will do a great deal of good.

Spellberger, the enterprising florist on Seventh street, has generously furnished greens, pepper boughs and other articles for the decoration of the Bureau.

Mrs. J. C. Palmer sent in a five 50 pound hats, which will be distributed among several families.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Mediterranean Trip, lately become so popular, has been made the subject of a new book by Noah Brooks, in press with the Scribners. It is a short guide to the principal points on the shores of the western Mediterranean and the Levant, and it must prove invaluable to tourists, for it is the only guide in existence covering these points in one volume. It will contain forty-four full-page illustrations and maps.

Douglas Sladen's new book, "A Japanese Marriage," which has had an immense run in England, a novel except "Trilby" being more in demand at the libraries, has just been issued in America by Macmillan & Co. In it Mr. Sladen advocates the most advanced heterodox theories and declares himself a strong advocate of the "new woman" movement. "Any age," he says, "in which women are ill-fed and ill-clad in which women are ill-fed and ill-clad."

Beautiful in blue and gold and white comes the December Midland. This middle-western magazine (Des Moines, Iowa) brilliantly closes its fourth volume and second year. Its articles are all interesting, and that's more than can be said of many a more pretentious magazine. It's fiction department is a surprise—no commonplace tales, no brilliant nothings; but strong, realistic stories instinct with life. Two Christmas stories and seven illustrated Christmas poems supply the sentiment of this number. Mary J. Reid's talk about Chicago authors, with no trade, Mrs. Clement's paper on Japanese Women, with ten pretty illustrations, Mr. Evans' pictures of Musquakie Indian life, Mr. Leslie's sketch of Nast, with the first authorized engraving of his famous Appomattox painting, and other attractive articles make the December number the best yet.

At the present time a good cyclopaedia seems to be a necessary of life, one of those adjuncts of a well-regulated household that can not be dispensed with if its members are to mingle in intelligent society and not appear ignorant or foolish. The newest claimant for public favor and everyday usefulness is Johnson's Universal Cyclopaedia, of which the eighth and concluding volume has just been issued by D. Appleton & Co. of New York.

The official gazette of all the patriotic-hereditary societies, the American Historical Register, has for December its usual attractive contents. It tells, with a score of pictures, of "Lafayette Day" in Philadelphia when the Nation's guest visited that city in October, 1824. These monthly articles in the Historical Register relating to Lafayette's visit in 1824 are contributed by members of the Patriotic Societies, and is a feature of this magazine's enterprise entirely its own. Hon. W. H. Bailey, of Houston, Tex., continues his historical paper on the "Regulators of North Carolina," a description of the regulation omelet generally ignored by American historians. "Colonial Patriotism in Song" the title of another article, is a valuable paper by Mr. Onderdonk, of Chicago, on popular versification before the Revolution. The colonial family described this month is Thompson of Connecticut, by Mrs. Marcus Richardson, of New Orleans.

Of several new stories of Lincoln told in the second installment of the new "Life of Lincoln" in McClure's Magazine for December, one of the most interesting is that when Lincoln removed with his family from Indiana to Illinois, he made thrifty use of the opportunity of the journey to peddle out, at a good profit, a stock of small wares which he had bought for the purpose. The whole installment is rich in picturesque details, and in Lincoln as he undertook life on his own account, first as a flatboatman, and then as a grocery clerk at New Salem, exhibits a young genius and hero, doing wonderful feats of strength, risking his life to save comrades from drowning, and magically winning his way in a new community by his rare integrity, his superior intelligence, and his gift of entertaining speech. Along with the paper are twenty-five pictures, including a facsimile of Lincoln's first vote, portraits of him in 1856, 1857, 1865 and 1860, portraits of his early associates, and pictures of all the important scenes of this period of his life.

The December Overland comes out as the Christmas number with a beautiful cover by Boeringer in brown and blue. An Indian maiden is gazing at the star of Bethlehem, and the idea is further enforced by a frontispiece of the same design with a sonnet by Charles G. Greene, "Lux Jucunda," embodying the old idea that the star was seen all over the earth and made universal joy on the first Christmas night. The Christmas tone is kept up well through the number. "As Talked in the Sanctum" contains a Spanish Christmas tale, and there is "A Christmas in Tahiti," wherein a no-er-do-well, rollicking sort of a fellow tells of a South Sea Christmas passed under very peculiar circumstances. Another Christmas story, "A Malayan Christmas," by Rounsevelle Wildman, the editor, is full of good description and feeling.

With the December issue The Arena is reduced in price to twenty-five cents per copy and to $3 per year, but this reduction in price is accompanied by no diminution in the excellence of this great liberal, progressive and reformative review; indeed, the issue is exceptionally strong. Among the eminent thinkers who contribute to the one hundred and seventy-six pages which go to make up the body of the magazine are Prof. Richard T. Ely, Justice Walter Clark, LL.D., Rev. Minot J. Savage, Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Frank R. Sanborn, Rev. John W. Chadwick, Henry Gaullieur, Prof. George D. Herron, Prof. Frank Parsons, Prof. Joseph Rhodes Buchanan, Helen H. Gardener, and Will Allen Dromgoole.

There was no painting at the art exhibition at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia in 1876 which attracted so much attention as that called "Yankee Doodle," showing a strong old drummer and fifer, alive with the spirit of Lexington and Bunker Hill, leading the Continentals into battle. The painter of this famous picture, which now hangs in the public library at Marblehead, was Archibald M. Willard, who now lives and works in Cleveland. Under the title of "The Painter of 'Yankee Doodle,'" Mr. James F. Ryder of Cleveland tells the interesting story of his life in the December number of the New England Magazine. The article is enriched by copies of many of Mr. Willard's best known works, including several of the early sketches for "Yankee Doodle," and is altogether a remarkable article, which will be read eagerly everywhere. We have no more noteworthy instance of a self-made painter in America than Mr. Willard. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

Outing for December is a pleasant blending of good fiction and breezy sketches of sport, adventure and travel in many lands. Two excellent complete stories are "A River Between," by Florence Guertin, and "Charlie," by R. Bergengren. The river between does not prevent a New Yorker visiting Brooklyn to some purpose, while "Charlie" is a disembodied spirit—ghostly, yet funny. In "Skating" Ed V. Sandy points the way to the graceful mastery of the steel blades. Other valuable features are "Hunting the Caiman," "An Outing in Labrador," by R. G. Tuber "Caribou Hunting," by the late E. P. Rogers; "Salmon Fishing on Snake River," "Lenz's World Tour Awheel," and "On the Frontier Service," by Lieut. G. W. Van Deusen. Among many beautiful illustrations are several by Frederick Remington.

There is a toboggan slide at St. Moritz, Switzerland, three-quarters of a mile long that has been described in seventy-one seconds. Scribner's for January will publish a description of it, with a number of pictures from instantaneous photographs.

"St. Ives," the novel left substantially complete and unpublished by Robert Louis Stevenson at his death, is described as purely a romance of adventure. It is a story of a French prisoner captured in the Peninsular wars, who is shut up in Edinburgh castle; there he falls in love with a Scotch girl who, with her aunt, frequently visits the prisoners. There is many in the story a duel under extraordinary circumstances between St. Ives and a fellow-prisoner; after various episodes a dangerous plan of escape is decided upon, and the daring St. Ives finally becomes a free man.

John Heard, the American civil engineer who died a few months ago in Rome, left an unpublished story in the hands of Scribner's which will appear in the January number of the magazine. It is a railroad story turning on the heroism of a locomotive engineer.

On account of its usefulness there are few magazines that are of as much interest to housekeepers as "Table Talk," which is the exponent of all good living. The December number gives promise of many savory dishes which may be concocted from the recipes in the "Housekeeper's Inquiry Department," and under "Creole Recipes" Christmas Day is pleasantly treated by Miss Burton Kingsland, while Octave Thanet gives a glimpse of western life in her entertaining way. The holiday treasures or toys for the children are touched upon by Mrs. M. C. Meyer, who also gives another paper on "The History of Lace." Other subjects treated are "Diet in Rheumatism and Gout," by Dr. H. H. Hawkhurst; "In Woman's Line"; "Novelties"; some of the holiday books in "Under the Holly Boughs" and "Fashionable Luncheon and Tea Toilets," by Miss Tillie May Forney.

MacMillan & Co. announce an important work on the big game of South Africa, by John Guille Malais, F. Z. S., author of Game Birds and Shooting Sketches. It is entitled A Breath from the Veldt, and the object of the author has been to supplement from personal observation what is already known of the animals he came across during a recent tour in South Africa and to present a true picture of the life in that country.

Stephen Crane's war story, The Red Badge, is to be published shortly in England by William Heinemann, who speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Crane's literary work and his promise.

An entirely new edition of the works of Lord Byron is announced by Macmillan & Co. It will be edited by Mr. W. E. Henley, and will include, beside the complete poetical works, the letters of Byron, public and private, which with their spirit and ease and charm are usually admitted to be among the best of English letters. This edition, which will be in ten volumes, will present for the first time since the seventeen-volume edition of 1833, long since out of print, a fitting shrine for the works of one of the greatest poets of the century.

C. B. Scott, for several years in charge of nature study in the schools of St. Paul, Minn., now of the Normal School of Oswego, N. Y., has written a book upon "The Child With Nature," soon to be published by D. C. Heath & Co., Boston. Mr. Scott believes in teaching the beauty and symbolism of nature, as well as its commodity value.

In a dainty booklet printed in light blue, salmon-pink and gray tones—a splendid illustration of the beauties of art applied to printing—the Ladies' Home Journal announces some of its leading literary and artistic features for 1896. There will be a series of papers upon the domestic and social side of Washington by General A. W. Greely, U. S. A.; another by ex-President Harrison, telling of "This Country of Ours"; a third by Mary Anderson de Navarro, who writes of her stage experiences, her struggles for recognition and artistic triumphs, with a supplemental article telling of her life and surroundings today. In a lighter vein, Mary E. Wilkins will present a series of "Neighborhood Types" papers, pen pictures of quaint and familiar personages—New Englanders; and Jerome K. Jerome will reflect old England life in a number of "Stories of the Town"—stories of London—in his inimitable, crisp style.

A new edition is announced by Macmillan & Co. of "The Marvellous Adventures of Sir John Maundeville, Kt.," a work ranking in interest second only to Herodotus, in that fascinating class of books that hover between fact and fiction. Though written nearly six centuries ago, the account of the worthy knight's travels, and especially of his remarkable visits to Cham of Cathay and Prester John, are as fresh and delightful as ever. The book is illustrated by Mr. Arthur Layard with pictures as naive as the text, and is made gorgeous with a cover of scarlet and gold.

The Nickell Magazine for December, which has just come to hand certainly entitles that bright publication to a place in the front rank of America's magazines. There are nine superb productions of celebrated paintings, which illustrate "Killing Genius" by E. R. Chandler. E. B. Berry tells in an interesting manner about King Clovis and Saint Louis, and Frank Littleton has a short critical article on Paul Bourget, which accompanies a good picture of the celebrated author in his study.

"Prairie Folks," by Hamlin Garland, which is this autumn reissued by Stone & Kimball, is practically a new book, as the first edition was small and almost unknown. It is really a companion volume to "Main Traveled Roads," and Mr. Garland, it is said, considers it as containing some of his best work.

William Henry Bishop's translation of Champfleury's Faience Violin has been published by D. Appleton & Co. by arrangements with the executors of the author's estate, who have given D. Appleton & Co. the exclusive authorization for publication in English.

The Open Court Publishing Company will publish in December a booklet entitled "Karma," a tale by Dr. Paul Carus, illustrated by Japanese artists and printed on Japanese crepe paper.

The December number of the Progress of the World Magazine contains an unusual number of illustrations, including large half-tone portraits of all the newly elected State Governors and other important persons chosen for office in last month's election. The departments of "Science" and "Finance" are easily the most interesting, the former presenting an entertaining description of the discovery and possibilities of the new method of producing acetylene gas, an illustrated up-to-date account of the underground electric conduit for street railways, and a paper by Prof. Delabarre of Brown University, the eminent student of psychics and psychical phenomena, in which the writer explains the scientific basis of the alleged occult world and dispels many popular illusions on that subject.

Queen Victoria has had her attention called by one of her chaplains, the Rev. Dr. Tulloch, to Mr. Maclaren Cobban's new Scotch romance "The King of Adaman," published in this country by D. Appleton & Co., and Her Majesty has sent the author a message of gracious and kindly interest. The Queen was probably much amused by the letters which purport to pass between her and the Master of Hutcheon.

The old-time Christmas number of a domestic magazine was a good thing, fairly adapted for use at the fireside and in the home, but the Christmas number of today, as is well typified in Jenness Miller Monthly, is a fitting illustration of the development of literary work and taste in the last few years, especially as it applies generally and in detail to what might be called the kingdom of women. From the cover the bright eyes of a pretty child peep out shyly at the beholder; a merry Christmas party, "Under the Mistletoe," greets the reader from the frontispiece, and many other equally attractive illustrations sprinkle the book from first cover to last.

The leading article in the Forum for December is probably the cleverest analysis of the present financial situation in the United States that has yet appeared. The writer is M. Paul Leroy-Beaulieu, the distinguished French economist, who lays down the "Conditions for American Commercial and Financial Supremacy." All says that there is much surprise throughout Europe that a great nation like the United States should allow its development to be trammelled by frequent and severe crises, and that it should be either unable to discern their causes or lack decision to remove them from its path. He thinks that the failure of the American government to redeem its paper currency after the war was a great and vital error, whose evil influences are still felt. In his opinion the United States government should cease to issue paper money, remitting the task to the banks.

Conspicuous among the contents of the December Atlantic is another of John Fiske's historical studies. It has for a title "The Starving Time in Old Virginia," and is an important historical contribution, as well as delightful reading. This issue also contains three short stories: "Witchcraft," by L. Dougall; "The End of the Terror," by Robert Wilson, and "Dorothy," by Harriet Lewis Bradley.

The New Bohemian (Cincinnati, O.) for December is the most attractive number of that sprightly magazine that has yet appeared. The leading feature is a splendid review of the life work of Eugene Field, by his friend and co-worker, Le-Roy Armstrong. The frontispiece is a portrait of the dead poet, the latest and one of the best ever published. "Touch Hands and Part" is an intensely dramatic story by Percival Pollard, the brilliant western journalist. It is a strong conception and skilfully told, being both true to life and true to art. "American Artists Abroad," by Harriet Chedie Connor, is an admirable critique on the work of American painters at the Berlin exposition. It is rather spicy, but sympathetically discriminating and just.

Anson D. F. Randolph & Co. will publish immediately a new book of travel under the title of "Algerian Memoirs." By Fanny Bullock Workman and William Hunter Workman.

Donahoe's this month is the Christmas Magazine by excellence. One is prepared somewhat by the beautiful cover for the attractions within, and yet the latter far surpass anticipation in the happy seasonableness of the articles and the artistic beauty of the illustrations. Magazine readers crave a change from the ordinary mental pabulum at special times like Christmas, Easter and mid-summer, and the subscribers to Donahoe's will feel gratified at the felicitous way in which this taste has been considered in the current issue. This number is just the sort of book to sit with for a delightful hour in an easy chair beneath the library lamp or in the glow of an open fire. Every article is readable and enjoyable, as may be judged from its contents, not the least welcome feature being the handsome new type-dress in which the pages appear, and the more than usual care bestowed upon the beautiful illustrations.

THE MILLS CONCERT.

An Enjoyable Programme Given by Many Talented Pupils.

Morning song.....Hugo Jungst
Choral Class.
Polonaise.....Hans von Bronsart
Miss Alberta Cressey.
Aria from "Cosi fan Tutte".....Mozart
Miss Mabelle Gillman.
Valse caprice, op. 18.....Ludwig Scaytte
Miss Selma Anderson.
"Elsa's Dream".....Wagner
Miss Grace Gilbert.
(a) "Feldblumen-Strauss." (b) "Berges-quell".....Hans von Bronsart
Miss Marie Robbins.
(a) "The Sandman," from "Hansel and Gretel".....E. Humperdink
(b) "Thou Fairest Vision of My Soul,".....Lassen
Miss Sydnia Barnard.
(a) Pilgrim's Chorus. (b) Romance, from "Tannhauser".....Wagner-Liszt
Miss Jewel Spencer.
"Dream of Love".....F. Liszt
Miss Persis Coleman.
(a) "Dreams".....Wagner
(b) "I'll Not Complain".....Sinimann
Miss Mabelle Gillman.
Impromptu, caprice, op. 97.....Th. Kullak
Miss Ada Story.
Choral Class.

Violin obligato by Miss Edith Crafts.

One is always sure of good music at Mills College. The piano pupils who played were all pupils of Professor Lisser. The vocal pupils were Madame Rosewald's pupils. During her absence for the past few weeks, a pupil of Madame Rosewald, Mrs. Blanchard, has been their instructor. Professor Schmidt conducted the choruses, which had been selected and partly prepared by the late Professor Rosewald before his death. Every piece was exceedingly well rendered.

Miss Sydnia Barnard, a sister of Marie Barnard of the Class of '94, has a very promising voice. Her sister is now studying in Paris and has great promise for the future in opera.

Miss Mabelle Gillman has a phenomenal voice. She has studied only a little more than a year with Madame Rosewald, who justly anticipates great things of her voice in the future.

All of the piano pupils did exceedingly well. Among these Miss Allie Cressey of Modesto and Miss Marie Robbins, daughter of Banker Robbins of Suisun. Miss Jewel Spencer, a daughter of the well known Dennis Spencer of Napa, a graduate of the Class of '70, is also a very fine performer.

Miss Persis Coleman, the sixth of Mr. John Coleman's daughters who have been pupils of Mills, is a very attractive performer.

With very few exceptions the dress was simple and suitable for the occasion, as is true generally of Mills girls. The "new woman" finds no place at Mills.

At the close of the concert all were invited to the dining room for refreshments and also to visit the art room, adjoining the concert room.

Less than five months' work was displayed there, but it was exceedingly good. The display in oil, black and white and pen and ink was excellent. The work from the Elite class was very fine. Indeed, it would be difficult to find anywhere better work of amateurs than that seen at Mills. The college is to be congratulated upon having such a fine teacher as Mrs. Mann, who is at the head of the department.

Madame Rosewald will return from the East in time to take up her work in January.

Residents of Livermore Are Out for General Prosperity.

The citizens of Livermore have organized what they have styled the Livermore League of Progress. H. F. Pitcher has been elected chairman and J. O. McKown secretary. The following committees were appointed: On constitution and by-laws, Reuben Hunter, J. O. McKown and W. R. Ellis; on members, Frank Savage, Herbert Weymouth and John E. Clark. A committee consisting of Dr. Savage, George Beck and Mr. Wagoner was appointed to take steps towards getting a Livermore valley exhibit at the Oakland Exposition.

The enthusiasm has extended to the ladies, who have also formed an association which will be an adjunct to the Improvement Society. The purposes of it are as follows: "For the purpose of agitating for local improvement and prosecuting a general work for the advertising and building up of Livermore Valley, hereby signify our willingness to become members of such an organization, to be an annex of the Improvement Club."

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

Dr. J. P. H. Dunn of Oakland is in Los Angeles on a short visit.

Miss Emma May Tillotson of this city is the guest of Sheriff and Mrs. A. V. Alvarado of Contra Costa county.

C. C. Burg of this city is in Davisville on a short visit.

Mrs. F. W. Payne and son of Hartford arrived in Oakland Saturday. They will spend the winter with Mrs. Payne's father, Dr. J. R. Bradway.

G. W. T. Loher, the Acme Club wheelman, arrived in Oakland yesterday, after a trip to New York and back on his bicycle. He was gone a little more than four months and traveled 4350 miles.

E. Smith and wife of this city, are at the Grand Hotel, San Francisco.

A. L. Leber of Oakland, paid a short visit to friends in Woodland, last week.

Mrs. M. E. Hawley went to Napa Saturday to make arrangements for sending her brother, John Edington, into the country for his health.

Miss Mary Jenkins, formerly a teacher in Decoto, has been elected as a teacher in Oakland. She is at present in Los Angeles and will come to this city to assume her duties after the holidays.

The Butte Football team, composed of F. Brook, (captain), J. Hooper, C. Hooper, G. McMillan, L. J. Hartzell, J. W. Bohn, W. B. Laswell, W. T. Perham, J. Monroe, D. Gillis, R. Ellis, G. King, W. Slater, D. Richards, I. Smith, R. Weiss, J. P. McPherson, and Wilbur Boyes, is on its way to this city. D. Stivel, manager, James Thomson, treasurer, and Bert Smith, reporter, will also accompany the team, as will also Gov. Richards and Mayor Thompson. The team will arrive in Oakland Friday and will be the guests of the Reliance boys over night.

A quartette of fine artists will sing the solos in "The Messiah," to be presented this evening at the First Congregational church by the Oakland Oratorio Society. James Hamilton Howe, the conductor, may congratulate himself that, in engaging the greatest tenor, Ugo Talbo, Mrs. Carroll-Nicholson, contralto, Ida de Somarino, soprano, and Walter Campbell, basso, he has selected the most popular and best singers on the coast. The large sale of tickets testifies the public's appreciation. The production will be a notable one.

Assemblyman Dick Thomas is down from Grass Valley on business. He will run for the Senate next session and is certain of a practical walk-over. Mr. Thomas is the most admired young man in his part of the country. His splendid fight for the miners and the victories he achieved for them in the last two legislatures placed him first in their estimation, and his fine record on the floor of the Assembly gained for him additional laurels. He is a gifted orator as well as a statesman and personally is one of the most popular men in California.

The A. P. A. masquerade will be given at Masonic Temple tomorrow night.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Called Special Meeting, Held Monday, December 16, 1895.

The Board of Supervisors met at 10 o'clock in accordance with the following call:

"A special meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda, State of California, is hereby ordered for Monday, December 16th, 1895, at the rooms of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda, State of California, in the Hall of Records in said County of Alameda, said meeting to commence at 10 o'clock A. M. and continue in session during said day until the business for which said meeting is called is fully transacted.

"The hearing and acting upon the matter of the compromise proposed by the administratrix of the estate of George W. Patterson, deceased, in the matter of the suit entitled County of Alameda vs. Mary Ives Crocker, et als., now pending in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda and brought by said County for the purpose of condemning a strip of land for highway purposes over and across the lands of said Patterson, deceased, and others.

"Done by order of the undersigned members of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda, this 16th day of December, A. D. 1895.

J. R. TALCOTT,
J. E. JOHNSTON,
HIRAM BAILEY,
W. S. PELOUZE,
W. H. CHURCH.

The District Attorney then consulted with the Board concerning the matter mentioned in the preceding call and advised the passage of the following resolution:

"Resolved, That Chairman Bailey be appointed a committee of one to compromise with the administratrix of the estate of George W. Patterson, deceased, in the suit of Alameda County vs. Crocker et al., No. 9335, for a sum not to exceed $250."

The roll was called and the resolution adopted by the following vote: Ayes—Supervisors Church, Talcott, Johnston, Pelouze, Chairman Bailey, 5. Noes—None.

RESOLUTIONS CONCERNING THE DEATH OF EX-SUPERVISOR GREEN.

Supervisor Church then announced the death of ex-Supervisor Green and the following resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

Whereas, The sad tidings of the death of John Green, an ex-Supervisor, have been communicated to this Board, and

"Whereas, in the death of John Green we realize that the County of Alameda has lost a model citizen, who as a member of this Board was a fearless, honest and conscientious public servant, faithful to the best interests of his constituents, and his family have lost a devoted husband and father;

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, That while we immediately bow to the mandate of an All Wise Creator, who has summoned our friend from these earthly scenes, yet we deem it fitting and proper that we should thus publicly express our sorrow for his death, and our deep appreciation for his many public and private virtues, that made his career worthy of admiration; and be it further

"Resolved, That an engrossed copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of our deceased friend, That the flag on the County buildings be displayed at half mast as a token of respect, and that said resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this Board."

ADJOURNMENT.

The chair then declared the special called meeting adjourned.

Chairman Board of Supervisors.

THE PRINCE OF MAGIC.

Hermann, the Great Conjurer, Will Be Here Tonight.

"Taken From Life" Scores Another Success at the Oakland.

Hermann is singled out of all men to be an unchallenged magician, and this famous master of the arts of magic, mirth and mystery appears here at the Macdonough Theater for four nights and a Wednesday matinee, beginning to-night. Hermann's incessant striving to present new additions to the realm of puzzledom merits him his success. His performances are always the center of crowded attention, for they attract the thinker as well as the mere seeker after amusement, and contain the element of mystery which fascinates every one.

Hermann returns to again bewilder and surprise with new feats of wonder and a lavish array of fresh marvels. He has made his present entertainment the most important one he has ever presented, by giving special attention to elaborate spectacular illusions, making them pretentious dramatic and beautiful.

Aside from these embellishments, Hermann's own feats with his wonderful hands are of themselves an entertainment that ranks supreme. His fingers pour out profusely their treasury of tricks in the most uncalculated and unexpected manner. They seem to be instinct with life and purpose of their own and independent of the will power of their owner.

"Trilby," the Asiatic trunk mystery, "the Artist's Dream," and the "Columbian Transformation," are the features of the entertainment. Madame Hermann has a number of new dancing novelties, which will be sure to prove a revalation in artistic combination of color, lights and motions.

The sale of seats has been very large, and the engagement will be a big success.

THE OAKLAND.

"Taken from Life," one of the most picturesque of dramas, scored a decided success at the Oakland Theater last night, notwithstanding the counter attraction across the street at the Exposition building. The play is well mounted, and is cast to the full strength of the splendid company now holding the boards. The racing scene is full of life and is a realistic reproduction of a saddling paddock.

THE BALDWIN.

Rice's "1492," with its wealth of entertaining novelties in vaudeville and its host of clever actors and singers is drawing the elite of the city. The second week commenced last evening with no diminution in the attendance. Bessie Bonehill, Richard Harlow, the living pictures and the Standard quartette are the main attractions.

THE CALIFORNIA.

Robert Downing and his strong company gave a magnificent production of Sardou's great drama, "Helena," at the California last night. Nothing that Downing has ever presented before is equal to this play. The plot is a story of the Italian civil wars of the fourteenth century. It is admirably developed. There will be five performances of "Helena" this week.

THE COLUMBIA.

Daniel Sully, that favorite comedian, presented his new play, "A Day in June," to a crowded house at the Columbia last night. Sully is as clever as ever, and his portrayal of "Richard Bryan" was fully equal to anything that he has ever made fun with. The comedy is excellent.

THE ORPHEUM.

To the splendid bill at the Orpheum has been added some new features this week that make the programme more than usually attractive. Clever acrobatic features vie for first place with the really clever singers and dancers of the company. The Orpheum offers a splendid evening's entertainment.

THE TIVOLI.

"Fatinitza," the popular military opera of Von Suppe, was sung last night at the Tivoli to a crowded house. Alice Carle reappeared as "Vladimir." The opera was produced with faithful attention to the details of costuming and scenic effect.

MOROSCO'S.

"For Revenue Only," one of Milton Nobles' best dramas, is the attraction this week at Morosco's. Both Nobles and his talented wife have strong parts, and the cast is well distributed among the excellent supporting company. The play is a satire on a phase of national politics.

THE ALCAZAR.

"The Streets of New York" was produced at the Alcazar last night in excellent style. The Grovers have made a big success with their popular place of amusement, and this week's programme is equal to the best they have given their patrons.

SHOOTING THE CHUTES.

The diversion offered at the "chutes" near Golden Gate Park, is so entirely novel that it is little wonder thousands are attracted to the arena daily. The sport has lost none of its flavor, and the special attractions on Sunday make it a center for much fun. If you have not "shot the chutes" you are not considered quite up to date.

THE INGLESIDE TRACK.

Racing at Ingleside has become one of the big attractions of the city across the bay. The cards are full of interesting events, and the contests between the horses are of a high class. The new race course and its superb management have given the sport a fresh impetus.

The Girard Piano Co. Offers Great Bargains.

For the next 30 days you can buy a piano at a greatly reduced price. The Girard Piano Co. has just received two carloads of the celebrated Wheelock pianos. No doubt these famous instruments are now considered all over the United States as the sweetest, most durable and best pianos made. By representing the factory, getting pianos by car load lots, and buying for cash only, employing no agents who tramp from house to house and sell on commission, this company is enabled to sell their instruments from $100 to $150 less than those houses which have to get pianos on consignment and then employ agents to sell them. Six different makes to select from, sold on easy monthly installments. New pianos rented and rent applied if purchased.

THEO. GIER, 915 Washington street, for Sauterne, Reisling, Hock, Cabinet Burgundy and Zinfandel, product of the Ruby Hill Vineyard Co., (John Crellin & Sons), Livermore Valley, has the highest standing in the market. Awarded gold medal at World's Fair, Chicago, and Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

Plaintiff,

JOHN R. GRAY, MARY L. GRAY, A. G. FITCH, CHARLES Z. GRAY, C. L. INGLER, CHARLES CLAUSEN, C. G. KJELLSTROM, AS ASSIGNEE OF HERBERT T. SMITH, AN INSOLVENT DEBTOR, G. CASHMORE, A. S. MILLER, T. B. MARSHALL, O. G. FREDRICKSON, HERBERT T. SMITH, JOHN DOE, RICHARD ROE, PETER WHITE, WILLIAM BLACK, ADAM GREEN, JAMES BLUE, MARY DOE, JANE ROE,
Defendants.

The People of the State of California send greeting to John R. Gray, Mary L. Gray, A. G. Fitch, Charles Z. Gray, C. L. Ingler, Charles Clausen, C. G. Kjellstrom, as assignee of Herbert T. Smith, an insolvent debtor, G. Cashmore, A. S. Miller, T. B. Marshall, O. G. Fredrickson, Herbert T. Smith, John Doe, Richard Roe, Peter White, William Black, Adam Green, James Blue, Mary Doe, Jane Roe, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Alameda, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

Said action is brought to foreclose that certain mortgage made by John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray to plaintiff, dated December 31st, 1892, and recorded January 4th, 1893, in the office of the Recorder of the County of Alameda, State of California, in Liber 437 of Mortgages, page 56 et seq., covering that certain real estate situated in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Commencing at a point on the western line of Magnolia street, distant thereon one hundred and fifty-four (154) feet and nine (9) inches southerly from the southern line of Twelfth street, and running thence southerly along the said line of Magnolia street twenty-seven (27) feet and four and one-half (4½) inches; thence westerly and parallel with Twelfth street one hundred and thirty-three (133) feet and three (3) inches; thence northerly and parallel with Magnolia street twenty-seven (27) feet and four and one-half (4½) inches; and thence easterly and parallel with Twelfth street one hundred and thirty-three (133) feet and three (3) inches to the point of commencement, together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging.

Also to obtain judgment against the defendants, John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray, for the sum of $3000 upon the promissory note of said last named defendants to plaintiff, dated December 31st, 1892, and secured by said mortgage, with interest thereon from the 12th day of May, 1893, at the rate of eight per cent per annum, compounding monthly, until paid; and for $15 insurance money, with interest thereon at two per cent per month from June, 20th, 1894, until paid, all to be paid in United States gold coin, and for costs of this suit; and for counsel fees amounting to $263 53-100; also for judgment against said John R. Gray for $45 50-100 fines, with legal interest thereon from June 15th, 1894; also for such other sums as may become due from said John R. Gray to plaintiff, before the final satisfaction of said mortgage, on account of fines levied against said John R. Gray for delinquencies as holder of stock of plaintiff; also for all such other sums as may become due from said John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray to plaintiff, before the final satisfaction of said mortgage, for taxes, assessments, street assessments, liens, sums paid to compromise, purchase or otherwise settle adverse claims to said mortgaged property, or to keep said property insured, with interest on such sums (except the fines) at the rate of two per cent per month from date of payment by plaintiff until repaid.

Also to obtain a decree of said court for the sale of the premises described in said mortgage, and of fifteen shares of the capital stock of plaintiff, evidenced by certificate No. 256 of the issue of October 14th, 1892, assigned by said John R. Gray to plaintiff as further security for the fulfillment of the terms and conditions contained in said mortgage and the payment of said promissory note, according to law and the practice of this court, the proceeds of sale to be applied as follows, to wit:

First: In payment of the costs and expenses of this action and the counsel fees allowed therein.

Second: In payment of the amount found due plaintiff for principal and interest upon the promissory note secured by said mortgage.

Third: In payment of all fines due, or which may become due, from said defendant John R. Gray.

Fourth: In payment of all sums advanced, or which may hereafter, before the satisfaction of said mortgage, be advanced by plaintiff to pay taxes, assessments, street assessments, or liens, which may be laid upon or attach to said property; to compromise, purchase, or otherwise settle, adverse claims to the mortgaged property, or to keep said property insured, with interest on such sums at the rate of two per cent per month from date of payment by plaintiff until repaid.

Also to obtain an order from said court appointing a receiver to collect the rents of said property, and apply the proceeds thereof to the payment of any deficit remaining upon the debt after the sale.

Also to obtain a decree of said court forever barring and foreclosing the defendants, and each of them, and all persons claiming under them, or any or either of them, subsequent to the execution of said mortgage, either as purchasers, attaching creditors, incumbrancers, or otherwise, of all right, claim or equity of redemption in or to said premises, and any and every part thereof, or in said stock, and any and every part thereof.

Also to obtain judgment against said defendants John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray for any deficiency which may remain unpaid of the amount found due upon said promissory note and mortgage for principal and interest, or for fines or sums advanced by plaintiff, in accordance with the terms of said mortgage, after applying all the proceeds of the sale of said stock and premises properly applicable to the satisfaction of the same.

Also to obtain a decree of said court permitting plaintiff to become a purchaser at the sale of said stock and said premises, or either of them; ordering the commissioner to execute an assignment of said stock to the purchaser thereof; ordering the commissioner to execute a deed of said premises to the purchaser thereof, and empowering said purchaser to enter into possession of said premises upon production of said commissioner's deed; also to obtain such other and further relief as may be meet and just.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer to said complaint, as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief in said complaint demanded.

Given under my hand and the seal of Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Alameda, this 22d day of June, A. D., 1894.

(Seal) JAMES E. CRANE, Clerk.

By N. G. Sturtevant, Deputy Clerk.

THE HEALTH BOARD BEATEN.

DOCTORS ARGUE IN VAIN.

No Appropriation Will Be Allowed for the Exposition.

A WATER FRONT DISPUTE.

For the first time since the debating on the tax levy there was a division in the Council at its meeting last night. It was not the heated discussions of tax levy times, when the lie was freely given and even fight talked, but the arguments were a little more forcibly delivered than is usual with the even-tempered City Council. It was all over the Smilie Bros.' suit against certain city officers for damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the late Harrison street opening. The resolution which provoked the discussion was the last matter of business attended to before adjournment.

The meeting opened with an explanation from Dow. He said that at the previous session he had voted on a resolution censuring the Board of Public Works for not attending to certain requests and directions from the Council. "I did not know the character of the resolution when I voted," he explained "or I should not have voted as I did for I am not in sympathy with such a thing. I procrastinate too often myself to censure any one else for it."

THE CONSUMPTION ORDINANCE.

Dow, while still on the floor, moved that as several members of the Board of Health were present to explain why they had requested the passage of an ordinance requiring the reporting of cases of certain diseases to the Board of Health they be heard. The proposed ordinance was the same as the one now in effect except that consumption is added to the list of diseases of which the health office must be notified.

The ordinance was read and to get it properly before the Council Towle moved its adoption. Before this question was put Dr. Mayon, the City Health Officer, made a little speech in support of the proposed law. He first read the paper on pulmonary tuberculosis delivered before the Board of Health and printed in the Tribune. He said that similar ordinances are in force in New York, Boston and other large Eastern cities and he thought it would be a salutory measure for Oakland.

Dr. C. M. Fisher also of the Board of Health, spoke. He talked of the contagiousness of the disease and said that there were 100 consumptives arriving on this coast daily from the East. He explained that it was not the purpose of the Board of Health to quarantine any house in which a consumptive patient might be stopping, but merely to send to such patient or his family a circular similar to the one read by Dr. Mayon with no desire to treat the disease beyond preventing, if possible, its contagion.

Dr. Mrs. Shuey wanted to stop gentlemen from expectorating on the streets as much as possible and thought we were behind Philadelphia because there there is a spitting ordinance. She also told of the hotels in Europe where a person afflicted with consumption is compelled to pay enough to cover the expense of the bedding used by him, which is burned after his departure. She said that there are 400 deaths daily in the United States from consumption.

Dr. Akerly thought that inasmuch as there was an ordinance relating to consumption in the lower animals there should be one to protect man.

"From your statement," said Dr. Buckland, "am I to infer that you would treat human beings as you would cattle—kill them simply because they have tuberculosis. I feel confident that I express the opinion of the medical profession of this city when I say that we do not want this ordinance. There is nothing to prevent the Health Office sending out their circulars if they so desire. I think this is but a covered way of the Board of Health to lead the city into a vast expense. If the circulars are all they want the Council will have no objection and an ordinance is not necessary."

Bassett agreed with Buckland as he felt that such a law would work a hardship on the poor classes and that in the end it meant quarantine for the consumptives.

Dr. Mayon was a little angry when he arose to deny Buckland's charge that it was a covered way of the board to get money from the Council. In regard to Bassett's statement that it meant quarantine in the end, he said there was no intention of such a proceeding and called attention to several diseases which are at present included in the list of those reported to the Health Office in which no action is taken other than the visiting of houses in which the disease exists and making an examination of the sanitation, plumbing, etc.

The roll was called and the Health Office lost, the vote being as follows:

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were then disposed of as follows:

From M. K. Miller reporting that certain work had been done. Street committee.

From the Board of Public Works stating that the Piedmont & Mountain View Railway Company had not completed the work of repairing their rails. Street committee.

From the street superintendent reporting that Adams street had been cleared of all obstructions. Street committee.

From City Engineer Wilson in relation to condition of Clay street from Eighth to Fourteenth street reporting that it should be recurbed and regraded. Street committee.

From W. S. Dunlevy, asking to be released from contract to sewer Twenty-eighth street from Ninth to Thirteenth avenue. Street committee.

From the Twenty-third Avenue District Improvement Association to open an alley between East Fifteenth and East Sixteenth street. Street committee.

From R. M. Welthe to withdarw from the petition to sewer Eleventh street from Harrison to Alice. Street committee.

MONEY FOR CITY EMPLOYES.

Resolved, That the salaries of the officers and employes of the differnt departments of the city of Oakland, including street sprinklers, street laborers and sewer flushers and the employes of the fire alarm and police telegraph for the month of December, 1895, be and the same are hereby ordered paid on and after the 23d inst. The auditor is hereby instructed to draw his warrants for the same.

The Councilmen looked as though they felt like so many Santa Clauses when they all voted aye on the motion to suspend the rules and then unanimously voted to pass the resolution to give the city's servants their December's pay in time to buy Christmas gifts, turkey plum pudding and other holiday affairs.

RESOLUTIONS.

Directing the City Attorney to bring an action against the Pacific Postal Company for ground rent on poles.

Directing the City Attorney to prepare an ordinance forfeiting the franchise of Welles Whitmore et al.

Appropriating $50 from the general fund to pay expenses of suits against the city.

Ordering paid the bills of L. Donahoo, L. Kehoe and S. Martin.

Rescinding the resolution to sewer Eleventh street from Harrison to Alice streets.

Directing the Superintendent of Streets to employ when necessary a foreman for street work at not more than $4 per day.

Directing the City Attorney to have an abstract made of the property at the foot of Twelfth street between the old shore line and the railroad.

Fixing Monday January 6, 1896, at 9 o'clock as the time for hearing the appeal of the Pacific Paving Company.

Directing the Board of Public Works to have a sidewalk lowered at the corner of Goss and Wood streets.

Directing the Oakland Gas Light and Heat Company to remove the light in the city hall park band stand.

The following were read for the first time and referred to the various committees:

Instructing the Board of Public Works to instruct the Superintendent of Streets to notify the Piedmont Cable Company to remove basalt blocks. Street committee.

Directing the City Engineer to do engineering work on Webster street for the sewer extension. Street committee.

To reconstruct culvert at Thirteenth and Franklin streets. Street committee.

Rescinding the resolution to grade, curb and macadamize the south half of East Fifteenth street near Second avenue. Street committee.

Transferring $5000 from the general fund to the street light fund. Auditing and finance committee.

Ayes—Bassett, Brosnahan, Mott and Watkinson—4.

The resolution for the city to guarantee payment of any expenses which might be incurred in the opening of Linden street provoked a little discussion. The Councilmen did not like the idea of paying the secretary of the commission, as they thought him sufficiently compensated by his salary of secretary of the Board of Public Works.

City Attorney Pelrsol explained that the duties of the secretary of the Board of Public Works did not include the secretaryship of a street opening commission. He furthermore said that Mr. Kaufman, the secretary, had refused to go ahead with the work unless he was assured his pay.

Towle thought that several other street openings hang on this one and was in favor of going ahead.

Manuel thought the property owners would make no contest and Dow would a little rather have some other city take the case to the courts and give Oakland the benefit of the experience.

Bassett moved the pasage of the resolution and all voted aye except himself and Buckland.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

C. Murphy, 501 San Pablo avenue; W. Mullins, Fourteenth and Center streets, and Catusick & Anderson, 475 Seventh street, were granted permission to obtain liquor licenses.

The liquor license bonds of John H. Tamm, 1752 Seventh street; A. Olander, 625 Twelfth street, and F. Courant, 413 Fourteenth street, were referred to the license committee.

ORDINANCES.

The following ordinances were passed to print:

Repealing the ordinances regulating the holding of public meetings on any public street within the fire limits. Mott, Towle and President Manuel voted no.

Regulating the numbering of certain buildings, etc.

To protect the parks of the city.

THE HARRISON STREET AFFAIR.

The last matter of the evening was the resolution ratifying the action of the Mayor and Board of Public Works in their actions in the Harrison street opening.

City Attorney Pelrsol was the first to talk. He explained that he had heard that the street was at one time open to the water front or he never would have voted to instruct the street superintendent to keep it open.

Manuel led the opposition. He had an old map of 1852, which he tacked upon the blackboard. He talked of the Peralta grant patent lines and high and low water marks. He based his opinion on the map, which showed that the city only owned to the high tide line, and he was opposed to the city assuming any responsibility unless further evidence was produced. He suggested that a committee of three be appointed to investigate and report at the next meeting of the Council.

Bassett explained that the water front suit touched this property, as it took in from Webster to Alice. He was for supporting the resolution, as he thought Harrison street had been used for many years to the water front and had only been fenced in by the railroad company within the past year and a half.

"It's all a guess," said Dow, "and we ought to guess with the city. In every turn of the water front fight we ought to assert our rights."

"I am in favor of opening all streets to the water front," explained Brosnahan, "but I don't want to take a shot at the moon on a proposition of this kind without more evidence. I am in favor of referring it to the city attorney."

"We want to back up the board," replied Dow. "It is not alone the Mayor but the Board of Public Works who are interested."

"Don't think that I go into a fight with the Mayor," said Brosnahan. "I am out for what's best. "I have got no club up my sleeve for Davie or anyone else."

"All but the Council are in the suit," said Bassett, "and we ought to back the city officers."

"For God's sake, boys, let us stay with the branch of the city government that opened the street. We'll do it in the long run," said Watkinson.

"I don't know about that," said Manuel, "anyhow I think if the Mayor was sincere when he sent this resolution he would have sent some data for the Council to base an opinion on. I don't want to let any personal feeling influence me in this matter, though."

This remark made Bassett a little angry. "Nobody said anything about being in touch with the Mayor in this matter. It is a question of being in touch with the city," he said.

While Bassett was getting his breath to say something else Towle jumped into the breach with a motion that when they adjourn they do so to meet next Monday. This shut off debate, and when the motion had been put and carried everything seemed to have cooled down.

The roll was called on Towle's amendment, that is to send the matter to a special committee to be appointed by the chair, and the vote stood: Ayes—Buckland, Brosnahan, Capell, Heitmann, Marshall, Mott, Towle and Manuel—8. Noes—Bassett, Dow and Watkinson—3.

Mott had occupied the chair during the Harrison street discussion, and he appointed as a committee Councilmen Manuel, Towle and Watkinson.

A PROMENADE CONCERT.

An Approved Plan for the Entertainment of the Teachers.

The Oakland school teachers have decided upon a plan to entertain the teachers of the State convention, which meets in Oakland during the first week of January. Many projects have been mooted, among them a theater party, but all have been waived in favor of the present plan. This is to tender a reception and promenade concert to the visitors in the High school building. The spacious halls and rooms will be decorated and brilliantly lighted for the occasion. A good band will be hired to furnish music. Light refreshments will be served in the gymnasium, after which speeches will be in order.

Every endeavor will be made to enable the guests to enjoy themselves, and in this the teachers hope to be successful. The promenade concert will be held on Thursday, the second day of January.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

The classic city of Oakland seems to have fallen in with the lottery schemes of the wily heathen Chinee about as gracefully as the wicked town on this side of the bay used to do.—San Francisco Post.

The ladies of Oakland were the first to organize themselves into a club for the study of the sciences and industrial arts under the name of the Ebell, numbering now among its members many of the brightest intellectual lights, both married and single, of Oakland.—Cornelia E. Cunningham in Livermore Herald.

County Clerk Jordan has a plan of registration that will make all efforts at stuffing very plain. All lodging houses and hotels will be kept apart, so that if forty men register at a house with but ten rooms the fraud will be at once apparent. Applications to be appointed as deputy clerks are already being handed to the Supervisors and the county clerk, but none will be appointed till the redistricting business is completed.—West Oakland Sun.

The Calaveras Prospect of San Andreas, Calaveras county, has the following paragraphs in last week's issue:

"Mr. Sutz, of Oakland, in company with Mr. May and Mr. Gnecco, spent several days inspecting mines around West Point and in this vicinity. Mr. Sutz was much impressed with the mineral resources of Calaveras, and will no doubt make an investment in some of the claims he visited."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Called Special Meeting. Held Monday, December 16, 1895.

The Board of Supervisors met at 10 o'clock in accordance with the following call:

"A special meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda, State of California, is hereby ordered for Monday, December 16th, 1895, at the rooms of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda, State of California, in the Hall of Records in said County of Alameda said meeting to commence at 10 o'clock A. M. and continue in session during said day until the business for which said meeting is called is fully transacted.

"The hearing and acting upon the matter of the compromise proposed by the administratrix of the estate of George W. Patterson, deceased, in the matter of the suit entitled County of Alameda vs. Mary Ives Crocker, et als., now pending in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda and brought by said County for the purpose of condemning a strip of land for highway purposes over and across the lands of said Patterson, deceased, and others.

"Done by order of the undersigned members of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Alameda, this 9th day of December, A. D. 1895.

J. R. TALCOTT,
J. E. JOHNSTON,
HIRAM BAILEY,
W. S. PELOUZE,
W. H. CHURCH."

The District Attorney then consulted with the Board concerning the matter mentioned in the preceding call and advised the passage of the following resolution:

"Resolved, That Chairman Bailey be appointed a committee of one to compromise with the administratrix of the estate of George W. Patterson, deceased, in the suit of Alameda County vs. Crocker, et als., No. 9233, for a sum not to exceed $75.

The roll was called and the resolution adopted by the following vote: Ayes—Supervisors Church, Talcott, Johnston, Pelouze, Chairman Bailey, 5. Noes—None.

RESOLUTIONS CONCERNING THE DEATH OF EX-SUPERVISOR GREEN.

Supervisor Church then announced the death of ex-Supervisor Green and the following resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

Whereas, The sad tidings of the death of John Green, an ex-Supervisor, have been communicated to this Board, and

"Whereas, In the death of John Green we realize that the County of Alameda has lost a model citizen, who as a member of this Board was a fearless, honest and conscientious public servant, faithful to the best interests of his constituents, and his family have lost a devoted husband and father:

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, That while we humbly bow to the mandate of an All Wise Creator, who has summoned our friend from these earthly scenes, yet we deem it fitting and proper that we should thus publicly express our sorrow for his death, and our deep appreciation for his many public and private virtues, that made his career worthy of admiration; and be it further

"Resolved, That an engrossed copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of our deceased friend, That the flag on the County buildings be displayed at half mast as a token of respect, and that said resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this Board."

ADJOURNMENT.

The chair then declared the special called meeting adjourned.

HIRAM BAILEY,
Chairman Board of Supervisors.

THE PRINCE OF MAGIC.

Hermann, the Great Conjurer, Will Be Here Tonight.

"Taken From Life" Scores Another Success at the Oakland.

Hermann is singled out of all men to be an unchallenged magician, and this famous master of the arts of magic, mirth and mystery appears here at the Macdonough Theater for four nights and a Wednesday matinee, beginning tonight. Hermann's incessant striving to present new additions to the realm of puzzledom merits him his success. His performances are always the center of crowded attention, for they attract the thinker as well as the mere seeker after amusement, and contain the element of mystery which fascinates every one.

Hermann returns to again bewilder and surprise with new feats of wonder and a lavish array of fresh marvels. He has made his present entertainment the most important one he has ever presented, by giving special attention to elaborate spectacular illusions, making them pretentious dramatic and beautiful.

Aside from these embellishments, Hermann's own feats with his wonderful hands are of themselves an entertainment that ranks supreme. His fingers pour out profusely their treasury of tricks in the most unexpected and unexpected manner. They seem to be instinct with life and purpose of their own and independent of the will power of their owner.

"Trilby," the Asiatic trunk mystery, "The Artist's Dream," and the "Columbian Transformation," are the features of the entertainment. Madame Hermann has a number of new dancing novelties, which will be sure to prove a revelation in artistic combination of color, lights and motions.

The sale of seats has been very large and the engagement will be a big success.

THE OAKLAND.

"Taken from Life," one of the most picturesque of dramas, scored a decided success at the Oakland Theater last night, notwithstanding the counter attraction across the street at the Exposition building. The play is well mounted, and is cast to the full strength of the splendid company now holding the boards. The racing scene is full of life and is a realistic reproduction of a saddling paddock.

THE BALDWIN.

Rice's "1492," with its wealth of entertaining novelties in vaudeville and its host of clever actors and singers, is drawing the elite of the city. The second week commenced last evening with no diminution in the attendance. Bessie Bonehill, Richard Harlow, the living pictures and the Standard quartette are the main attractions.

THE CALIFORNIA.

Robert Downing and his strong company gave a magnificent production of Sardou's great drama, "Helena," at the California last night. Nothing that Downing has ever presented before is equal to this play. The plot is a story of the Italian civil wars of the fourteenth century. It is admirably developed. There will be five performances of "Helena" this week.

THE COLUMBIA.

Daniel Sully that favorite comedian, presented his new play, "A Day in June," to a crowded house at the Columbia last night. Sully is as clever as ever, and his portrayal of "Richard Bryan" was fully equal to anything that he has ever made fun with. The comedy is excellent.

THE ORPHEUM.

To the splendid bill at the Orpheum has been added some new features this week that make the programme more than usually attractive. Clever acrobatic features vie for first place with the really clever singers and dancers of the company. The Orpheum offers a splendid evening's entertainment.

THE TIVOLI.

"Fatinitza," the popular military opera of Von Suppe, was sung last night at the Tivoli to a crowded house. Alice Carle reappeared as "Vladimir." The opera was produced with faithful attention to the details of costuming and scenic effect.

MOROSCO'S.

"For Revenue Only," one of Milton Nobles' best dramas, is the attraction this week at Morosco's. Both Nobles and his talented wife have strong parts, and the cast is well distributed among the excellent supporting company. The play is a satire on a phase of national politics.

THE ALCAZAR.

"The Streets of New York" was produced at the Alcazar last night in excellent style. The Grovers have made a big success with their popular place of amusement, and this week's programme is equal to the best they have given their patrons.

SHOOTING THE CHUTES.

The diversion offered at the "chutes" near Golden Gate Park, is so entirely novel that it is little wonder thousands are attracted to the arena daily. The sport has lost none of its flavor, and the special attractions on Sunday make it a center for much fun. If you have not "shot the chutes" you are not considered quite up to date.

THE INGLESIDE TRACK.

Racing at Ingleside has become one of the big attractions of the city across the bay. The cards are full of interesting events, and the contests between the horses are of a high class. The new race course and its superb management have given the sport a fresh impetus.

The Girard Piano Co. Offers Great Bargains.

For the next 30 days you can buy a piano at a greatly-reduced price. The Girard Piano Co. has just received two carloads of the celebrated Wheelock pianos. No doubt these famous instruments are now considered all over the United States as the sweetest, most durable and best pianos made. By representing the factory, getting pianos by car load lots, and buying for cash only, employing no agents who tramp from house to house and sell on commission, this company is enabled to sell their instruments from $5.00 to $150 less than those houses which have to get pianos on consignment and then employ agents to sell them. Six different makes to select from, sold on easy monthly installments. New pianos rented and rent applied if purchased.

THEO. GIER, 915 Washington street, for Sauterne, Reisling, Hock, Cabinet Burgundy and Zinfandel, product of the Ruby Hill Vineyard Co., (John Crellin & Sons), Livermore Valley, has the highest standing in the market. Awarded gold medal at World's Fair, Chicago, and Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

Plaintiff,

vs.

JOHN R. GRAY, MARY L. GRAY, A. G. FITCH, CHARLES Z. GRAY, C. L. INGLER, CHARLES CLAUSEN, C. G. KJELLSTROM, AS ASSIGNEE OF HERBERT T. SMITH, AN INSOLVENT DEBTOR, G. CASHMORE, A. S. MILLER, T. B. MARSHALL, O. G. FREDRICKSON, HERBERT T. SMITH, JOHN DOE, RICHARD ROE, PETER WHITE, WILLIAM BLACK, ADAM GREEN, JAMES BLUE, MARY DOE, JANE ROE,
Defendants.

The People of the State of California send greeting to John R. Gray, Mary L. Gray, A. G. Fitch, Charles Z. Gray, C. L. Ingler, Charles Clausen, C. G. Kjellstrom, as assignee of Herbert T. Smith, an insolvent debtor, G. Cashmore, A. S. Miller, T. B. Marshall, O. G. Fredrickson, Herbert T. Smith, John Doe, Richard Roe, Peter White, William Black, Adam Green, James Blue, Mary Doe, Jane Roe, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Alameda, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days.

Said action is brought to foreclose that certain mortgage made by John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray to plaintiff, dated December 31st, 1892, and recorded January 4th, 1893, in the office of the Recorder of the County of Alameda, State of California, in Liber 437 of Mortgages, page 56 et seq., covering that certain real estate situated in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Commencing at a point on the western line of Magnolia street, distant thereon one hundred and fifty-four (154) feet and nine (9) inches southerly from the southern line of Twelfth street, and running thence southerly along the said line of Magnolia street twenty-seven (27) feet and four and one-half (4½) inches; thence westerly and parallel with Twelfth street one hundred and thirty-three (133) feet and three (3) inches; thence northerly and parallel with Magnolia street twenty-seven (27) feet and four and one-half (4½) inches; and thence easterly and parallel with Twelfth street one hundred and thirty-three (133) feet and three (3) inches to the point of commencement, together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging.

Also to obtain judgment against the defendants, John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray, for the sum of $5000 upon the promissory note of said last named defendants to plaintiff, dated December 31st, 1892, and secured by said mortgage, with interest thereon from the 12th day of May, 1893, at the rate of eight per cent per annum, compounding monthly, until paid; and for $15 insurance money, with interest thereon at two per cent per month from June, 30th, 1894, until paid, all to be paid in United States gold coin, and for costs of this suit; and for counsel fees amounting to $263 63-100; also for judgment against said John R. Gray for $45 50-100 fines, with legal interest thereon from June 15th, 1894; also for such other sums as may become due from said John R. Gray to plaintiff, before the final satisfaction of said mortgage, on account of fines levied against said John R. Gray for delinquencies as holder of stock of plaintiff; also for all such other sums as may become due from said John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray to plaintiff, before the final satisfaction of said mortgage, for taxes, assessments, street assessments, liens, sums paid to compromise, purchase or otherwise settle adverse claims to said mortgaged property, or to keep said property insured, with interest on such sums (except the fines) at the rate of two per cent per month from date of payment by plaintiff until repaid.

Also to obtain a decree of said court for the sale of the premises described in said mortgage, and of fifteen shares of the capital stock of plaintiff, evidenced by certificate No. 256 of the issue of October 14th, 1892, assigned by said John R. Gray to plaintiff as further security for the fulfillment of the terms and conditions contained in said mortgage and the payment of said promissory note, according to law and the practice of this court, the proceeds of sale to be applied as follows, to wit:

First: In payment of the costs and expenses of this action and the counsel fees allowed therein.

Second: In payment of the amount found due plaintiff for principal and interest upon the promissory note secured by said mortgage.

Third: In payment of all fines due, or which may become due, from said defendant John R. Gray.

Fourth: In payment of all sums advanced, or which may hereafter, before the satisfaction of said mortgage, be advanced by plaintiff to pay taxes, assessments, street assessments, or liens, which may be laid upon or attach to said property; to compromise, purchase, or otherwise settle, adverse claims to the mortgaged property, or to keep said property insured, with interest on such sums at the rate of two per cent per month from date of payment by plaintiff until repaid.

Also to obtain an order from said court appointing a receiver to collect the rents of said property, and apply the proceeds thereof to the payment of any deficit remaining upon the debt after the sale.

Also to obtain a decree of said court forever barring and foreclosing the defendants, and each of them, and all persons claiming under them, or any or either of them, subsequent to the execution of said mortgage, either as purchasers, attaching creditors, incumbrancers, or otherwise, of all right, claim or equity of redemption in or to said premises, and any and every part thereof, or in said stock, and any and every part thereof.

Also to obtain judgment against said defendants John R. Gray and Mary L. Gray for any deficiency which may remain unpaid of the amount found due upon said promissory note and mortgage for principal and interest, or for fines or sums advanced by plaintiff, in accordance with the terms of said mortgage, after applying all the proceeds of the sale of said stock and premises properly applicable to the satisfaction of the same.

Also to obtain a decree of said court permitting plaintiff to become a purchaser at the sale of said stock and said premises, or either of them; ordering the commissioner to execute an assignment of said stock to the purchaser thereof; ordering the commissioner to execute a deed of said premises to the purchaser thereof, and empowering said purchaser to enter into possession of said premises upon production of said commissioner's deed; also to obtain such other and further relief as may be meet and just.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer to said complaint, as above required, said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief in said complaint demanded.

THE HEALTH BOARD BEATEN.

DOCTORS ARGUE IN VAIN.

No Appropriation Will Be Allowed for the Exposition.

A WATER FRONT DISPUTE.

For the first time since the debating on the tax levy there was a division in the Council at its meeting last night. It was not the heated discussions of tax levy times, when the lie was freely given and even fight talked, but the arguments were a little more forcibly delivered than is usual with the even-tempered City Council. It was all over the Smiltie Bros.' suit against certain city officers for damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the late Harrison street opening. The resolution which provoked the discussion was the last matter of business attended to before adjournment.

The meeting opened with an explanation from Dow. He said that at the previous session he had voted on a resolution censuring the Board of Public Works for not attending to certain requests and directions from the Council. "I did not know the character of the resolution when I voted," he explained "or I should not have voted as I did for I am not in sympathy with such a thing. I procrastinate too often myself to censure any one else for it."

THE CONSUMPTION ORDINANCE.

Dow, while still on the floor, moved that as several members of the Board of Health were present to explain why they had requested the passage of an ordinance requiring the reporting of cases of certain diseases to the Board of Health they be heard. The proposed ordinance was the same as the one now in effect except that consumption is added to the list of diseases of which the health office must be notified.

The ordinance was read and to get it properly before the Council Towle moved its adoption. Before this question was put Dr. Mayon, the City Health Officer, made a little speech in support of the proposed law. He first read the paper on pulmonary tuberculosis delivered before the Board of Health and printed in the Tribune. He said that similar ordinances are in force in New York, Boston and other large Eastern cities and he thought it would be a salutary measure for Oakland.

Dr. C. M. Fisher also of the Board of Health, spoke. He talked of the contagiousness of the disease and said that there were 100 consumptives arriving on this coast daily from the East. He explained that it was not the purpose of the Board of Health to quarantine any house in which a consumptive patient might be stopping but merely to send to such patient or his family a circular similar to the one read by Dr. Mayon with no desire to treat the disease beyond preventing, if possible, its contagion.

Dr. Mrs. Shuey wanted to stop gentlemen from expectorating on the streets as much as possible and thought we were behind Philadelphia because there there is a spitting ordinance. She also told of the hotels in Europe where a person afflicted with consumption is compelled to pay enough to cover the expense of the bedding used by him, which is burned after his departure. She said that there are 400 deaths daily in the United States from consumption.

Dr. Akerly thought that inasmuch as there was an ordinance relating to consumption in the lower animals there should be one to protect man.

"From your statement," said Dr. Buckland, "am I to infer that you would treat human beings as you would cattle—kill them simply because they have tuberculosis. I feel confident that I express the opinion of the medical profession of this city when I say that we do not want this ordinance. There is nothing to prevent the Health Office sending out their circulars if they so desire. I think this is but a covered way of the Board of Health to lead the city into a vast expense. If the circulars are all they want the Council will have no objection and an ordinance is not necessary."

Bassett agreed with Buckland as he felt that such a law would work a hardship on the poor classes and that in the end it meant quarantine for the consumptives.

Dr. Mayon was a little angry when he arose to deny Bupckland's charge that it was a covered way of the board to get money from the Council. In regard to Bassett's statement that it meant quarantine in the end, he said there was no intention of such a proceeding and called attention to several diseases which are at present included in the list of those reported to the Health Office in which no action is taken other than the visiting of houses in which the disease exists and making an examination of the sanitation, plumbing, etc.

The roll was called and the Health Office lost, the vote being as follows:

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were then disposed of as follows:

From M. K. Miller reporting that certain work had been done. Street committee.

From the Board of Public Works stating that the Piedmont & Mountain View Railway Company had not completed the work of repairing their rails. Street committee.

From the street superintendent reporting that Adams street had been cleared of all obstructions. Street committee.

From City Engineer Wilson in relation to condition of Clay street from Eighth to Fourteenth street reporting that it should be recurbed and regraded. Street committee.

From W. S. Dunlevy, asking to be released from contract to sewer Twenty-eighth street from Ninth to Thirteenth avenue. Street committee.

From the Twenty-third Avenue District Improvement Association to open an alley between East Fifteenth and East Sixteenth street. Street committee.

From R. M. Welthe to withdarw from the petition to sewer Eleventh street from Harrison to Alice. Street committee.

MONEY FOR CITY EMPLOYES.

Resolved, That the salaries of the officers and employes of the different departments of the city of Oakland, including street sprinklers, street laborers and sewer flushers and the employes of the fire alarm and police telegraph for the month of December, 1895, be and the same are hereby ordered paid on and after the 23d inst. The auditor is hereby instructed to draw his warrants for the same.

The Councilmen looked as though they felt like so many Santa Clauses when they all voted aye on the motion to suspend the rules and then unanimously voted to pass the resolution to give the city's servants their December's pay in time to buy Christmas gifts, turkey plum pudding and other holiday affairs.

RESOLUTIONS.

Directing the City Attorney to bring an action against the Pacific Postal Company for ground rent on poles.

Directing the City Attorney to prepare an ordinance forfeiting the franchise of Welles Whitmore et al.

Appropriating $50 from the general fund to pay expenses of suits against the city.

Ordering paid the bills of L. Donahoo, L. Kehoe and S. Martin.

Rescinding the resolution to sewer Eleventh street from Harrison to Alice streets.

Directing the Superintendent of Streets to employ when necessary a foreman for street work at not more than $4 per day.

Directing the City Attorney to have an abstract made of the property at the foot of Twelfth street between the old shore line and the railroad.

Fixing Monday January 6, 1896, at 9 o'clock as the time for hearing the appeal of the Pacific Paving Company.

Directing the Board of Public Works to have a sidewalk lowered at the corner of Goss and Wood streets.

Directing the Oakland Gas Light and Heat Company to remove the light in the city hall park band stand.

The following were read for the first time and referred to the various committees:

Instructing the Board of Public Works to instruct the Superintendent of Streets to notify the Piedmont Cable Company to remove basalt blocks. Street committee.

Directing the City Engineer to do engineering work on Webster street for the sewer extension. Street committee.

To reconstruct culvert at Thirteenth and Franklin streets. Street committee.

Rescinding the resolution to grade, curb and macadamize the south half of East Fifteenth street near Second avenue. Street committee.

To construct a catchbasin at Thirteenth and Washington streets. Street committee.

Instructing the Superintendent of Streets to notify the Oakland Railway Company to pave the space between their tracks with asphalt. Street committee.

Transferring $5000 from the general fund to the street light fund. Auditing and finance committee.

Ayes—Bassett, Brosnahan, Mott and Watkinson—4.

The resolution for the city to guarantee payment of any expenses which might be incurred in the opening of Linden street provoked a little discussion. The Councilmen did not like the idea of paying the secretary of the commission, as they thought him sufficiently compensated by his salary of secretary of the Board of Public Works.

City Attorney Poirsol explained that the duties of the secretary of the Board of Public Works did not include the secretaryship of a street opening commission. He furthermore said that Mr. Kaufman, the secretary, had refused to go ahead with the work unless he was assured his pay.

Towle thought that several other street openings hang on this one and was in favor of going ahead.

Manuel thought the property owners would make no contest and Dow would a little rather have some other city take the case to the courts and give Oakland the benefit of the experience.

Bassett moved the passage of the resolution and all voted aye except himself and Buckland.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

C. Murphy, 501 San Pablo avenue, W. Mullins, Fourteenth and Center streets, and Catusick & Anderson, 475 Seventh street, were granted permission to obtain liquor licenses.

The liquor license bonds of John H. Tamm, 1752 Seventh street; A. Olander, 625 Twelfth street, and F. Courant, 413 Fourteenth street, were referred to the license committee.

ORDINANCES.

The following ordinances were passed to print:

Repealing the ordinances regulating the holding of public meetings on any public street within the fire limits. Mott, Towle and President Manuel voted no.

Regulating the numbering of certain buildings, etc.

To protect the parks of the city.

THE HARRISON STREET AFFAIR.

The last matter of the evening was the resolution ratifying the action of the Mayor and Board of Public Works in their actions in the Harrison street opening.

City Attorney Poirsol was the first to talk. He explained that he had heard that the street was at one time open to the water front or he never would have voted to instruct the street superintendent to keep it open.

Manuel led the opposition. He had an old map of 1852, which he tacked upon the blackboard. He talked of the Peralta grant patent lines and high and low water marks. He based his opinion on the map, which showed that the city only owned to the high tide line, and he was opposed to the city assuming any responsibility unless further evidence was produced. He suggested that a committee of three be appointed to investigate and report at the next meeting of the Council.

Bassett explained that the water front suit touched this property, as it took in from Webster to Alice. He was for supporting the resolution, as he thought Harrison street had been used for many years to the water front and had only been fenced in by the railroad company within the past year and a half.

"It's all a guess," said Dow, "and we ought to guess with the city. In every turn of the water front fight we ought to assert our rights."

"I am in favor of opening all streets to the water front," explained Brosnahan, "but I don't want to take a shot at the moon on a proposition of this kind without more evidence. I am in favor of referring it to the city attorney."

"We want to back up the board," replied Dow. "It is not alone the Mayor but the Board of Public Works who are interested."

"Don't think that I go into a fight with the Mayor," said Brosnahan. "I am out for what's best. "I have got no club up my sleeve for Davie or anyone else."

"All but the Council are in the suit," said Bassett, "and we ought to back the city officers."

"For God's sake, boys, let us stay with the branch of the city government that opened the street. We'll do it in the long run," said Watkinson.

"I don't know about that," said Manuel, "anyhow I think if the Mayor was sincere when he sent this resolution he would have sent some data for the Council to base an opinion on. I don't want to let any personal feeling influence me in this matter, though."

This remark made Bassett a little angry. "Nobody said anything about being in touch with the Mayor in this matter. It is a question of being in touch with the city," he said.

While Bassett was getting his breath to say something else Towle jumped into the breach with a motion that when they adjourn they do so to meet next Monday. This shut off debate, and when the motion had been put and carried everything seemed to have cooled down.

The roll was called on Towle's amendment, that is to send the matter to a special committee to be appointed by the chair, and the vote stood: Ayes—Buckland, Brosnahan, Capell, Heltmann, Marshall, Mott, Towle and Manuel—8. Noes—Bassett, Dow and Watkinson—3.

Mott had occupied the chair during the Harrison street discussion, and he appointed as a committee Councilmen Manuel, Towle and Watkinson.

A PROMENADE CONCERT.

An Approved Plan for the Entertainment of the Teachers.

The Oakland school teachers have decided upon a plan to entertain the teachers of the State convention, which meets in Oakland during the first week of January. Many projects have been mooted, among them a theater party, but all have been waived in favor of the present plan. This is to tender a reception and promenade concert to the visitors in the High school building. The spacious halls and rooms will be decorated and brilliantly lighted for the occasion. A good band will be hired to furnish music. Light refreshments will be served in the gymnasium, after which speeches will be in order.

Every endeavor will be made to enable the guests to enjoy themselves and in this the teachers hope to be successful. The promenade concert will be held on Thursday, the second day of January.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system.
